

echo

NON-PROFIT ORG.
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
THOUSAND OAKS,
CALIFORNIA
PERMIT NO. 68

The Associated Students of California Lutheran University

Housing; a growing problem

By Kristine Corleone
Echo Staffwriter

The official report on the number of students enrolled at CLU has not been released yet, but preliminary figures have been obtained from Alan Scott's registrar's office. The number of undergraduate students is 1475, 1275 full time undergraduate students, 100 part time students and 100 fifth year credential students. All of these figures are approximate because registration does not close until Monday, September 22. Up until that time, persons still wishing to register may do so, while students having not shown up yet will be discounted. According to the registrar's office the number of students enrolled this semester is similar to that of previous years, though it is up slightly from the 1981-'82 enrollment. The student:teacher ratio has remained the same constant for the past few years staying, at about 14:1; 1:14.2 in the '85-'86 academic school year and 1:13.7 in the '84-'85.

One of the biggest strains of enrollment has probably been placed on Mary Welty, Assistant Dean and Director for Residence Life. One of her responsibilities is to arrange for the housing placement of those students wishing to live on campus. While the campus housing system has a capacity of about 880 students, at one point she had 910 students living on campus. That number is now down to 879 (not significantly higher than in past years), but still four students, 3 male and 1 female are waiting to obtain campus residency. These students were commuters who have changed their minds and now wish to live on campus rather than commute.

Because of the large number of students living on campus, some dorms, Thompson and Pederson in particular, have experienced the crowding of five students to a room. According to Ms. Welty, rearranging of the students, now that the room freeze is off, may enable the male students to have only four to a room. But because of the higher number of females this may not be the case for them. Questions have been raised in regards to building new dorms and while no plans have as of yet been formulated, it might deserve the idea is being considered and as an immediate necessity. The site most likely, would be down in the West End finishing off the circle of dorms already located there.

were moved to their new location behind the tennis courts. The lot is now the future sight of the 4.3 million dollar Science Center.

Photos obtained from University
Public Information Office

Students came back this year to find the latest step in the ongoing Called to Excellence program. Sections of the Pederson Ranch
House and water tower

news clips...

On Thursday, September 25, the History Department has scheduled an information meeting concerning the interim travel course to Russia called "The Soviet Union Today." This nineteen day tour of Russia from January 4 through January 22, 1987 includes the cities of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev (capital of Kiev Russia and the Ukraine), Tbilisi (gateway to the Caucasus Mountains), and Baku (the great oil city on the Caspian Sea). This meeting will be held in Nygren 3 at 6:30 p.m.

Interface: Children, Family Services of Ventura County is taking applications for high school and college students to volunteer in the Youthline Tutorial Program. There will be a training on October 18th at the Newbury Park office.

Program volunteers will have the opportunity to provide elementary and junior high school students with academic assistance, as well as guidance through peer counseling. Students interested in volunteering are encouraged to contact Carla at Interface at 498-6643 or 529-0975.

The Women's Resource Center, Learning Assistance Center, and Counseling Center are pleased to continue their series, "Catch Your Second Wind," for returning women students on Friday, September 26 at 10 a.m. The workshop "Note taking" will be presented in the Nelson Room. Bring your own brown bag or purchase a sandwich. Coffee will be furnished. Call ahead to reserve a meal, 493-3345.

Students who have not obtained their access code numbers for long distance dialing, may do so by coming to the Financial Aid office (Administration Bldg.) - Mon through Fri, 10:00 a.m. through 12:00 noon. In case you lose your card or have problems, contact Beverly Mix at 3121.

John Goldfarb, director of counseling, and Sandra Braun, certified alcohol counselor, are announcing the formation of a support group for students who are the children of alcoholic parents. If one or both of your parents have or have had a drinking problem, you are one of a group estimated at 28 million people sharing this commonality. Sharing these experiences can help you, and others. The group will meet weekly during Fall Semester beginning on Tuesday, September 23, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the Counseling Office (Regent 16). For further information call 493-3225. Of course, all inquiries will be held in strict confidence.

Got an idea for displays in the Pearson Library? Suggestions? Material you're willing to share? Contact Diene in the library, or call X3250.

To educate consumers on how to select and use credit cards, the United States Office of Consumer Affairs and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) have published a new brochure, "Choosing a Credit Card. These 25 Tips May Save You Money."

Any student wishing a free copy of this useful brochure may write to: "Choosing a Credit Card," Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, CO 81009.

Timmons and Cone appointed to positions

Ronald Timmons was appointed to the newly created position Dean of Admissions for CLU, and Karen La Faso Cone was named as Assistant to the President of University Relations by President Miller last July.

Timmons, who has served as director of Admission since 1976, will handle several different tasks including a reassignment of duties, some of which were previously handled by former Vice President for Admission and University Relations, Bill Hamm. As President Miller confidently stated: "He (Timmons) richly deserves the responsibility of giving renewed guidance to the expanded efforts of the University in the year ahead."

In addition to working on special assignments for the President, Karen La Faso Cone will coordinate the offices of Public Information, Sports Information, and Communication Services.

Since 1983, Cone has worked as Director of Public Relations for Valley Presbyterian Hospital in Van Nuys. Cone is married and has a three year old son.

long time.

"I took the pre-med course all through until my last year (of college). When I decided not to go into medicine, I thought I would go into the seminary to see what that was like. I think one's calling is not a bolt out of the blue, but it is discovering how you can best live out your life in a responsible fashion as a Christian in whatever occupation you choose.

So, for me it was discovering that (the ministry) was something that I enjoyed and was suited for.

"I like very much relating with students. Where I was before, I spent a majority of my time counseling with students. But it will take awhile to establish my own credibility here, too."

Knutson adds, "I think it is real important for me, or

continued on page 2

New pastor is ready, willing, and able

By Mille Hiles
Echo Staffwriter

Join the receiving line and welcome our new pastor, Mark Knutson. He wants to be a friend.

Rev. Knutson replaces Pastor Gerald Swanson, who served in that capacity for 17 years. Pastor Swanson has been appointed as the Director of the Learning Assistance Center.

The new campus pastor is a graduate of St. Olaf

College, Northfield, MN (1963) and Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, MN (1967) where he obtained his Master of Divinity degree.

For 11 years Knutson was the campus pastor for Bemidji State University (about 5000 enrolled students) in Minnesota. Minnesota is also his home state. His father was a pastor, but Knutson fought the tradition for a

MR. KENNETH GARDNER, half-time instructor in the Drama Dept; MR. JAMES GUILD, graduate fellow/instructor in Math/Physics/Computer Science Dept.; DR. SUSAN HAHN, assistant professor of English; MR. WILLIAM HARMAN, assistant professor of library sciences; DR. DAVID

LENNARTZ, assistant professor of Biology; DR. HODA MAHMOUDI, assistant professor of Sociology; MS. MARCEL MCGEE, assistant professor of business administration; DR. MARGOT MICHELS, assistant professor of German and French; DR. MILDRED MURRAY-WARD, assistant professor of education; MR. MICHAEL NYGREN, half-time instructor of education; MS. KIRSTEN OEGFARD, half-time instructor of education; MR. R. EDWARD OLSON, half-time instructor of Communication Arts; MR. MARK WAAAGE, instructor of economics.

CLU welcomes new faculty to it's ranks

Welcome to new faculty members: DR. MYRON BONDELID, assistant professor of mathematics; MS. LYNN, assistant professor of mathematics; MR. J. WAYNE FRYE, assistant professor of business administration; MS. LISA GAETA, half-time instructor in Communication Arts Dept;

Increase not enough to make students sick

By Chris Barber
Echo Staffwriter

There has been recent concern about the increase of California Lutheran's insurance plan. Investigations have proven this to be true; however, it is not as drastic as originally thought.

The student health insurance plan has increased from $85 for the '85-'86 academic year to $95 for the '86-'87 academic year.

The premium is based on the usage from the previous year meaning that there were many athletic injuries and illnesses last year, causing the insurance company to up the price. So, in a sense, the school's insurance was increased and not the student's.

Shirley Lundeen R.N., from the CLU Infirmary, feels "good" about this plan; however, there are parts to the coverage that need to be explained.

Plan A covers full-time CLU students automatically. This coverage includes accident insurance on campus, during school hours, although the protection is not 100 percent.

Plan B is the optional coverage which costs the $95. This protection includes accidents the entire year in addition to coverage against illness.

Lundeen says, "This is a great deal, considering stories of other student health plans rating as high as $239 a year."

The reason CLU can keep the insurance cost so low is because we are equipped with an on-campus health center and school doctors.

Another major asset about this coverage is that it is an "excess" policy. This means that it can be secondary to any other policy owned by a student's family. For example, if a student has Blue Cross and Plan B (CLU), the Blue Cross, in the event of an accident, will always be billed first and Plan B will pick up the rest.

For students interested in CLU's Health Plan please pick up a pamphlet and application in the infirmary. Those who already carry the coverage, should go to the health center and notify them immediately if an accident should occur.

David Schramm

On July 8, the Upsala College board of trustees elected David E. Schramm, vice president for academic affairs at CLU, as its seventh president. Dean Schramm, who had been with CLU administration since 1979, took office at the Upsala campus, located in East Orange, New Jersey, on August 1. Upsala, which is affiliated with the Lutheran Church in America, has a 45-acre main campus where 1300 students are enrolled in bachelor's and master's programs.

Dr. Bill Hamm

William "Bill" Hamm, former vice president for university relations and admissions, will be inaugurated as the twelfth president of Waldorf College, Forest City, Iowa in July after serving Cal Lutheran for ten years. Hamm was also awarded an honorary doctor of law degree at the opening convocation early this month.

Pastor

—continued from page 1—

anyone in this kind of position, to be available... to get acquainted with me. So I am available.

"No problem or question is too small or too big for me to receive. I am anxious to be open to whatever concerns the students might have."

Knutson was invited to interview for the job of CLU Pastor this summer. His family accompanied him; and his daughter, Molly, who is now a CLU freshman, was so impressed by the campus that she decided that she wanted to attend CLU even if Knutson did not take the job. As Knutson asserted, "CLU seemed like an institution on the move, like people here were excited, committed to providing the best liberal arts higher education possible."

Showing his admiration, Knutson plans to "keep things the way they have been going... There's been a wonderful ministry here with Pastor (Gerry) Swanson. I do not have any desire to change things until I see that there are things that need to be changed." Pastor Swanson is now working in the Learning Assistance Center, and Knutson hopes that his and Pastor Swanson's relationship will be an example of a Biblical passage that is important to Knutson.

"From the book of Galatians, Paul encourages us to bear one another's burdens. As individuals we become pretty caught up in our own lives and self-centered. We should learn to live compatibly with each other, instead of competitively."

REDUCE YOUR STUDENT BODIES.

Penguin's frozen yogurt tastes just like ice cream. But it has less than 1/2 the calories. So visit Penguin's soon. And use this coupon for any small, medium or large cup of yogurt.

VERY LOW CALORIE FROZEN YOGURT
1342 N. Moorpark Rd.
(A Short Drive from Redding)

RESEARCH PROBLEMS?
Call Dr. Arnold
(213) 447-5493
All levels...all subjects
Foreign students welcome

1986-'87 Echo Staff

Editor-in-Chief: Joanna Dacanay,
Managing Editor: Kirsten Brown
News Editor: Michella Villa
Opinion Editor: Roger Nieboit
Editorial Cartoonist: Greg Meyers
Feature Editors: Tamara Van Hoose, Michella Small
Sports Editors: John Garcia, Monique Roy
Staffwriters: Maral Amoghlian, Kristina Carlson, Eric Grof, Chris Smith, Cristina Barber, Jeff Birk, Shanane Gale, Jim Greene, Milla Hiles, Greg Maw, Karen Johnson, Tracy Luper, Karl Jennings, Xiao-Nan Liu, Jack Stawert, Cheryl Almond, Chris Caracales, Cassi Kymen, Fred Stahl, Lisa Riits, Monica Ortiz, Denise Morrison, Kristin Enga, Jeff Kroeker
Photo Lab Director: Paul Holmes
Photographers: Mark Horowitz, Tracy Yingling, Denise Hubbard, Oaanna Hubbard, Dawn Baca
Ad Manager: Wayne Sachall
Ad Layout: Jim Moline-manager; Jennifer Neilsen, Camilla Collins
Distribution Manager: Terasa Burgoyne
Student Publications Commissioner: Camilla Collins
Adviser: Gordon Chasawright
Typesetters: Suzanne Campbell, Karma Livaly, Rhonda Mulaner, Marni Splatter
Opinions expressed in this publication are those of the writers and are not to be construed as opinions of the Associated Students of the University.

Editorials, unless designated, are the expression of the editorial staff. Letters to the Editor must be signed and may be edited according to the discretion of the staff and in accordance with technical limitations.

The CLU ECHO is the official student publication of California Lutheran University. Publication offices are located in the Student Union Building, 50 W. Olsen Road, Thousand Oaks, California 91360. Business phone 492-3465. Advertising rates will be sent upon request.

scholarships...

The National Science Foundation plans to award approximately 50 new three-year Minority Graduate Fellowships in March 1987.

These fellowships will be offered to minority individuals who have demonstrated ability and special aptitude for advanced training in science or engineering.

NFS Minority Graduate Fellowships are awarded for study or work in science or engineering leading to master's or doctoral degrees in the mathematical, physical, biological, engineering, and social sciences, and in the history and philosophy of science.

New fellowships to be offered in March 1987 will be for maximum tenured periods of three years.

Tri-Corp International has just announced the establishment of the AVANT Achievement Awards for junior and senior accounting students. These awards are being made available to encourage and promote the success of students studying to enter the field of accounting.

The AVANT Achievement Awards consist of five AVANT Systems and five cash scholarships awarded each semester.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
JOY RICHTERKESING,
AVANT Achievement Awards,
P.O. Box 22509, Kansas City, Mo. 64113.
1-800-255-0551

On Sept. 15, Honeywell will launch its fifth annual Futurist Awards Competition, an essay contest that asks students to predict technology advancements 25 years from now.

Honeywell wants college students to imagine the year 2011 and write essays about the technological developments they foresee.

This year's contest will offer 10 winners $3000 each and the chance to work for Honeywell next summer.

Students can receive contest rules by writing

Futurist Rules, Honeywell telemarketing Center, Honeywell Plaza, MN124164, Minneapolis, MN 55408, or calling toll free 1-800-328-5111, ext. 1581. Requests for entry material must be received by Dec. 31, 1986.

FREE Pregnancy Tests

An unexpected pregnancy can be a hard thing to face...

...WE CAN HELP.

Referral Services • Confidential Help • 24-Hour Hotline
M-W 9am-3pm Th 12pm-6pm
T-F 9am-12pm Sat 10am-1pm

Conejo Valley
Crisis Pregnancy Center
1421 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd Ste 111 (Village Motel Plaza)

(805) 373-1222

TRAVEL INTERIMS.

WALK THE GROUND THAT SHAKESPEARE WALKED! KISS THE BLARNEY STONE! OBSERVE THE CHANGING OF THE GAURDI LISTEN TO MUSIC! BEING SCORED IN A MAJOR LONDON FILM STUDIO! SIT IN A FRONT ROW SEAT FOR SOME OF THE BEST THEATRE IN THE WORLD!

If any of these adventures interest you, come with us this Interim on a Theatre/Music tour of England and Ireland. For more information, contact Michael Arndt (Drama, ext. 3416) or Elmer Ramsey (Music, ext. 3305).

TO ALL STUDENTS:

Get your "act," "le," "funds," together SCANDINAVIA with Slatum and Schechter is coming. January, 1987. A few places are still available. See Dr. Schechter in faculty secretary's office for a brochure and further information. (Schechter, ext. 3450)

On Thursday, September 25, the History Department has scheduled an information meeting concerning the Interim travel course to Russia called "The Soviet Union Today." This nineteen day tour of Russia from January 4 through January 22, 1987 includes the cities of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev (capital of Kiev Russia and the Ukraine), Tbilisi (gateway to the Caucasus Mountains), and Baku (the great oil city on the Caspian Sea). The cost of the tour ($2,085) includes transportation, sightseeing in these cities plus local excursions, first class hotels, meals, and tickets to theaters and cultural institutions. This meeting will be held in Nygreen 3 at 6:30 p.m.

Reverberations...

Tracy McInvale

Greetings from the other side of the printed word. My name is Tracy McInvale and I have been given the space to write what is known as a column. Since a column is intended to reflect the writer's individual tastes and point of view, I'm going to take this installment to let you know a few things about myself.

First of all, I must tell you what I have taken to be my motto. It comes from Gunter Eich, a German poet who lived from 1902-1972 and wrote a good deal of "socially conscious" poetry and prose. Eich said, "Be uncomfortable; be sad; not in the machinery of the world." I personally feel these are good words to live by.

I define a rebel as a person who investigates or follows along with social or personal change. Psychologists classify rebels as "antiosocial personalities," a pigeonholing that carries with it some bad connotations. Now, we've all heard the one about Jesus being a rebel, but who among us would consider Him to be antisocial? He was, but only in the context that His desire was to change society. Therefore, I accept the title of rebel unflinchingly, without question, and willingly. And the way I see it, I'm in pretty good company.

As for what I intend to do with this column, I would like to write pieces that will reflect our Real World that is, the world of CLU -- through a lens of fantasy. This idea I have borrowed from Harlan Ellison, whose former column in the L.A. Weekly serves as the inspiration for this experiment. I hope that what I write here in these few inches I am given will elicit a different view of life at this school and prompt you to constructively criticize whatever you do not agree with.

This concludes my column, if you don't like something I write, let me know by dropping me a line in care of this newspaper. And if there's something you would like to see me write about, then let me know. I appreciate comments, criticism, and other input. Please do not send me threats and crazy letters, and don't call me or visit my home. Such affronts tend to make me very cranky and, as David Brenner would say, you won't like me when I'm angry.

So with your help, with your input, we can work together and make this column into something that is entertaining and informative.

One last thing: you may consider this opening installment to be mild and polite. I assure you, this is only the device known as misdirection. From now on, no more Mr. Nice Guy. Next time, when we gather at this same place, I will be coming to you in stereo. Be there, or be misconstrued.

President's Letter

Dear Friends:

Last Friday I enjoyed an exciting game of women's volleyball with more than 300 other people in our gym/auditorium. There was abundant evidence of university spirit.

Two days earlier I attended the opening chapel service for the year. Pastor Mark Knutsen, Organist Carl Swanson and others provided a challenging, inspirational experience of worship for the large group gathered in the Preus/Brandt Forum. Join us each Wednesday at 10:00 a.m.

These are two illustrations of wide-ranging opportunities which regularly are offered here at the University. We are greatly enriched by the cultural and athletic events here on the campus. Whether it be in music, art, theater, film, worship, lecture, or a host of athletic games, we certainly have access to a colorful array of activities.

So I urge you to take advantage of these programs on campus your years at Cal Lutheran. You might even find that a choral concert will be more satisfying than you had ever imagined!

Finally, as I urge you to take pride in the people of CLU, and to support the events on campus, I also urge you to take pride in yourselves, and to take pride in our campus and in our life together in this place. This campus is our home. The CLU family should care for its home in every way that a family can.

So I propose that all of us work together to keep the CLU campus a beautiful and pleasant place to live, study, and work. Let us put those papers, cans and bottles in the trash containers. Let us treat this campus property, our home, with a little tender loving care.

I cherish our life together in this university community. I know that you do too. May this campus continue to be a place of dialogue, growth, and inquiry for us all. See you at the next concert or game!

Pres. Jerry Miller

That's RUDE!

To the Editor,

As a freshman advisor and as someone deeply involved in the performing arts, I feel compelled to voice my disappointment regarding the recent Freshmen Talent Night. No, I'm not complaining about the quality of talent. My disappointment centered on the audience or rather on a small but vocal portion of the audience. This group mostly male, mostly attention-starved adolescents, reminded me of the horrors of my days teaching in a junior high school.

Freshmen were brave enough to venture out on the gym stage in groups or as individuals only to be met with heckling, musical sing-a-longs, or booing led by a small faction of the audience. Some performers were obviously shaken by this insensitive treatment. The evening, as I understood it, was meant to be a spirit-building, fun-filled, welcome to CLU. I don't think that the actions of those loudmouths in the audience reflect the attitudes or sensitivity of the majority of the student body.

If this kind of rude behavior happens in the future, I hope the M.C.'s or other students in the audience will help their peers show respect for performers.

Michael J. Arndt
Chair, Department of Drama

Second Thoughts

Roger Niebolt

by himself?

As I reflect over these experiences with children, I become deeply concerned about the future of these eager, curious young folks. I fear that the "Staying with the Group" mentality might survive their childhoods, creating a generation of faceless group members, no individuals, no leaders. A light of sunshine strikes my conscience, however. I remember that we are students here at Cal Lutheran. We are here to broaden our horizons, to expand our intellect, and yes, have fun. We must remember that our mission here, as selfish as it may sound, is to create within ourselves a new person, one who has never lived before and one who will never live again. Let's take this time to become ourselves!

Turn it Down

Numerous complaints have been made in various Resident Halls in the past two weeks due to the music that is being played at all hours of the morning and night. I am not against the music in any sense, but I believe unacceptably loud. Students are trying to appear socially acceptable to the other residents in the hall, instead it has turned into the battle of the bands interrupting sleep and study hours.

When we moved in, we were told we could request that a stereo be turned down at any time, but to no avail we have run out of patience and breath. Perhaps this is a matter that should be brought up at the next hall council.

My roommates and I have tried to approach these stereotypes, but without success. It seems to me that the volume has just increased rather than decreased. I have come up with a few suggestions that might decrease the intensity of this problem. First of all we have doors on all of our rooms. If these were shut pads the music would not disrupt many other residents. Or possibly we could create special stereo hours similar to quiet hours.

One thing that puzzles me is when the students turn their studying and sleeping. It is impossible to concentrate with such noise. Let me restate that I am not against the music in any way. I believe it is a student's right to play music when they want. But let's have a little cooperation from everyone, rather than antagonism.

ECHO Letter Policy

The Echo welcomes letters of divergent opinion. All letters must be signed with legitimate signatures. Letters to the Editor should usually be under 250 words, in good taste and free of libelous material.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters without changing the content. Letters to the editor have a deadline of Friday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box.

Letters which contain charges of illegations against identifiable individuals or campus offices or campus organizations or campus clubs should be shown to the person or institution charged, and that person or institution shall be given the right to reply in the same Echo issue.

e. the reply must be submitted by Saturday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box or given to the editorial page editor;
b. the reply may only answer charges raised by the original letter;
c. the reply may not exceed the length of the original letter.

Senior Thoughts-Liberal Arts

Mike Robi

What is a liberal arts education, and why am I here? I think many of us ask ourselves that same question.

So, you find yourself at California Lutheran in pleasant Thousand Oaks. What's there to do? After looking back at my past three years here, there's a lot that I have done; yet there are many doors left that I must open.

During the first week of school I received three gold keys to the English Department. I went over to facilities and watched Palmer Olsen, head of Security, carefully design, shape, and hone those three shiny pieces of copper and nickel, in a tool, instruments that I could use at my disposal. Then a recurring theme entered my thoughts, that we all have those certain keys to open the "doors of education."

Sure this is a liberal arts institution, but I think that's what makes the hallowed halls of the Lu and Cal Lutheran so special. We acquire these special skills through our life experiences here and our formal educational training.

We might take for granted sometimes the facilities here, and say that there are not enough resources available to us. I think that we use them only as an excuse when we haven't lived up to our full potential. You only have to walk as far as the administration building, open the door, and open your eyes to the task that the faculty and administration of this university has undertaken.

So we are at Stanford, or Harvard. I don't think the value of an education may be weighed by the name of the institution on the diploma. It seems to me that the larger institutions have forgotten what education is all about. Whatever happened to the Renaissance Man? The mastering of an education does not need to be dependent upon one field of study. And the goal of this university supports my assumption, that what would be stressed is our growth as citizens with direction, compassion, and vision.

I always feel saddened to think that after having Dr. Evensen for only one semester, he still remembers me, and greets me as an individual. I think that all the professors that I have had here have shown that this is a truly special faculty. I guess I have the poetic license to say that because I am a senior, I don't know of too many institutions where the faculty goes out of their way to make time for their students, except here.

This is the time to remember, and the time to get things done. I still can't believe that three years have gone by so quickly. The work that we do here is not something to forget; the skills in human relations and communications, critical thinking, and management and administration skills. We will need all the knowledge that we have acquired for different problem-solving and task-oriented situations.

I guess what I am trying to convey is that one should go out and meet the faculty here, and talk to them after class. Even if you don't have that particular professor for a class, I think you will find all of them interesting.

'the goal of this university... is our growth as citizens with direction, compassion, and vision'

Mike Robi

I can't help it, I'm a senior and I'm high on Cal Lu. I know that my experience here has been one that I will always cherish with fond memories. For those of us who will be leaving here this year, regardless of whether or not we have jobs, I think we will walk away knowing that we possess special abilities, absorbed from a special setting.

Almost 80 percent of all colleges and universities have presidents that have liberal arts backgrounds. And before I stop writing, I have to say hi to President Miller, who always had coffee and doughnuts waiting for me when I visited him.

As thanks also to Dr. Chesswright, and Dr. Sig Schwartz, for making my experience here unforgettable.

Just say NO!

Drug abuse: there has been a lot of talk lately about this growing problem and everyone is asking, "What can be done to stop it?" Just recently, The House of Representatives passed a new anti-drug bill that would allow the use of the military to help interdict smugglers, allow capital punishment for certain drug-related crimes that result in a death, and would also allow illegally obtained drug evidence to be used in court.

But we have tried interdiction, and we have also tried stiffening the penalties for drug dealing. While these actions have served to put dents in the drug supply, they have done nothing to eliminate the demand. Is it not well known that when there is a demand for a product there will always be a supply to satisfy it? Have we not learned from past experiences such as Prohibition that people will still find ways of getting their supply? The realistic approach would be to eliminate the demand. To do this effectively we would need to have drug education implemented in the schools. We need to turn the children off to drugs before they have a chance to experiment with them, not afterwards. Because a younger person is more easily influenced, wouldn't it make more sense to educate them to the dangers of drugs at an early age? It is my opinion that the current educational systems are not addressing the problem early enough. This can be shown by the steadily decreasing age of today's users and the spreading of drugs into the elementary schools.

We all have a responsibility to make certain that young children do not fall victim to the perils of drug abuse. It we can teach a child to read and write, we should also be able to teach that child not to take drugs.

James Buchner

A funny thing happened last summer...

"I got chased by Samoans in Hawaii."
Walter McClelland

"I wrecked my uncle's 911 Porsche."
Victor Williams

"I entered the Navy on July 2nd and left the Navy on July 22nd."
Loretta Snell

"I came to the U.S.I."
Eyvind Thomassen

"I was scuba diving one night at Anacapa Island, and got caught in sea kelp. I almost drowned!"
John Janicek

All Photos by M. Johnson

A winner of a roommate

By Michelle Smell
Feature Editor

There I was, in the middle of August, sweating in the heat of the Arizona summer. I sipped my diet Coke and flipped lazily through the latest issue of People magazine, trying to relax in the shade of my patio and forget about the scorching sun beating down all around me.

I thought of school and my roommates, remembering our hurried goodbyes of May in the midst of finals, packing, and the excitement of the summer that lay ahead. I wondered how their summers had been, if anything exciting had happened to them, and what they were doing now, especially Katie and Sara, thousands of miles away in Nome, Alaska. Soon we would all be together again in Thompson, laughing and sharing stories, roomies again! But now they were so far away...

Or were they?
A photograph on the page of my magazine caught my eye as I glanced through. I did a double take and took a closer look. The face was so familiar. Could it be? No, I was sure that it wasn't, but then again... I raised the magazine closer to my face, scrutinizing the photo and then giving a yelp of delight. There, smiling up at me out of the pages of People magazine, was Katie. My roommate. Little Katie from little Nome, Alaska, there, where millions of people could see. Was I ever impressed. But what was it all about?

The Eskimo-Indian Olympics, that's what. Katie had participated in the Olympic Queen pageant, which meant spending a week in Fairbanks, Alaska, with the other contestants, making special appearances at various local spots, getting to know the other contestants, and of course, preparing for the big event.

The Eskimo-Indian Olympics, that's what. Katie had participated in the Olympic Queen pageant, which meant spending a week in Fairbanks, Alaska, with the other contestants, making special appearances at various local spots, getting to know the other contestants, and of course, preparing for the big event.

I was too, surprised and excited. It's not every summer a person's roommate becomes famous. As Katie would say, "Yahoo!"

In the good old summertime

By Jeff Birk
Echo Staffwriter

Someone once said that the three best reasons for being a teacher are June, July, and August and the same may be true for students. Many of us live for summer. The thought of it keeps us going through long hours of class and homework.

However, when it comes for most of us we find ourselves back in our home towns as Taco Bell employees, sunburned and bored. Yet there are some of us to whom summer is not just a three month breather but something extraordinary.

For sophomore Peter Arreola summer meant the thrill of winning the Kromberg Cup soccer tournament. It marked the first time in the history of the Danish tournament that a team from Southern California has won. Arreola got into the tournament while touring Europe with his 19 and under club team.

"I played consistently," said Arreola about the tour. Summer for Arreola's roommate Murray Grounds was also marked by athletic success. Grounds finished 16th out of 64 in the O.P. invitational wind surfing salmon competition.

To Todd Collins and Robert Irwin summer had more of a military ring to it. Irwin went to army R.O.T.C. camp in Fort Lewis, Washington. Collins spent his lazy days at Williams Air Force Base near Tucson, Arizona at R.O.T.C. camp.

"I played Top Gun over the summer," said Collins about his aeronautical experiences. The summer encouraged him even more to pursue his Air Force ambitions.

"We," joked Jeanie Kay Evans, "had invitations to the Royal Wedding."

We saw Fergie and her hair is flaming red," went on Carolyn Volmert, who watched the wedding procession from the top of Evan's shoulders.

Both spent the summer in Great Britain. Evans spent worked in London through the British North America Club. Volmert was a student in Wales where she also did some rock climbing and read a lot of the Welsh poet Dylan Thomas.

Jon Hanson did his studying in a slightly different climate to say the least.

"I swam with the dolphins," studied with the dolphins," Hanson said of his field study class that was taught near Pensacola, Alabama. The class was a 5 unit course in marine biology concentrating on the study of dolphins. It provided the students an opportunity to study the mammals for several weeks in the Gulf of Mexico.

Perhaps the most exciting summer jobs might have been held by Mike Murty who worked on an ambulance as an emergency medical technician. And if that wasn't exciting enough he spent the last part of the summer working as a raftsmen on the Arkansas River in Colorado.

If Mike Murty had the most exciting summer job Dean Henderson's job had to be a close second. He worked as a seasonal firefighter around the Lebeck-Frazier Park area.

When asked why he took the job Henderson explained, "I don't really know. It sounded interesting and I decided to see what it was like." In the process of seeing what it was like he encountered, "some pretty wicked accidents."

One of the most exciting nights of the summer had to have been had by freshman Cara Bongiorno. Bongiorno raced two blocks going over 100 mph in a Camaro in Kissimmee Florida one night. "And," she explained, "I won."

But, that's another story. So for now if your still savoring last summer or striving for the next just remember as you trot off for another night in the library only 240 days until next summer.

Katie Okiesik lets her winning quality shine through. Smile, Katie, smile! (Photo by M. Johnson)

GREGORY HINES BILLY CRYSTAL

THE GOOD NEWS
Detectives Ray Hughes and Danny Gennaro are going to retire in 30 days.

THE BAD NEWS
Every crook in Chicago wants to take one last shot at them.

No problem...

A TURNER PICTURES COMPANY PRODUCTION
AN ECHO FILMS FILM
"RUNNING SCARED" STEVEN SODERBERGH. Music by JOHN WILLIAMS. Screenplay by CARLY COOPER and JAMES HUTTON. Executive Producer PETER JARVIS. Produced by CARLY COOPER and JAMES HUTTON. Directed by PETER JARVIS.

October 4th

All movies shown 7 & 9 p.m. in the forum.
Admission $1

A way with words

©Edward Julius

ACROSS

- 1 Where one night study Andy Warhol's works (3 wds.)
- 12 Enrollment into college
- 14 "Calculus Made Simple," e.g. (2 wds.)
- 16 Evaluate
- 17 Extremely small
- 18 Follow a recipe direction
- 19 Belonging to Mrs. Pacino
- 22 Of land measure
- 23 Heist's poker bet
- 24 — Gay (WW II slang)
- 26 Capri, e.g.
- 27 Belonging to Mayor
- 28 Irrigate or emitter
- 30 Train for a boxing match
- 31 — and the Belmonts
- 32 Processions
- 35 Diet supplement (abbr.)
- 36 Scottish historian and philosopher
- 38 College in Greenville, Pa.
- 40 The Venerable

DOWN

- 1 Those who are duped
- 2 "Bo unto —"
- 3 Fourth estate
- 4 Goals
- 5 Well-known record label
- 6 Well-known king
- 7 151 to Caesar
- 8 Prefix meaning milk
- 9 Confused (2 wds.)
- 10 — bulky
- 11 Most immediate
- 12 Like a sailboat
- 13 Cash register key (2 wds.)
- 14 — (as a whole)
- 15 Auto racing son of Richard Petty
- 16 Political disorder
- 20 — cit. (footnote abbreviation)
- 21 Traveled on a flexible flyer
- 24 Belonging to Mr. Starr
- 25 Prosopope's servant
- 26 In the Trenches
- 28 Well-known govern. ment agency
- 29 American league team (abbr.)
- 30 Fictional hypnotist
- 32 Style exemplified by Picasso
- 33 "Oh —" (from "Flashdance")
- 34 — small
- 35 Visible trace
- 36 Think
- 37 Women's underwear
- 38 — burnt
- 42 ... for if I —
- 43 —
- 44 Actress Gibbs
- 45 African antelope
- 47 Well-known TV news leader
- 49 Piece
- 50 (geologists) tool
- 51 1980 film
- 52 Station (abbr.)
- 53 1965 film

WALK IN... DANCE OUT!

IT IS THE BEST DANCE FILM AND FOR THAT MATTER THE BEST MOVIE MUSICAL FOR YEARS.

—Clive Barnes, NEW YORK POST

September 26th - 27th

Admission $1

All movies shown 7 & 9 p.m. in the forum.

They're working hard at the net

Erin Schmidt is ready to send another tough one to the opponents. Schmidt leads the team with her 133 assists. (Photo by Tracy Yingling)

By Monique Roy
Echo Staffwriter

School began just two weeks ago, but the Cal Lutheran's women's volleyball team has been working hard for over a month now. Already the team has played four regularly scheduled games and one tournament. The Regals have emerged from their battles with a 6-5 record.

The season began with a tough loss to CSU-Los Angeles, 12-15, 15-8, 4-15 and 8-15. The Regals bounced back to take fifth place in the Whittier Invitational Tournament, beating squads from the University of Redlands, Pomona-Pitzer, Claremont Mudd-Scripps, and Mount Saint Mary's College. Senior middle-hitter Jill Koscinski was named to the first team All-Tournament. Koscinski leads the Regals with 43 blocks, 55 digs and 87 kills.

Revenge was exacted on September 15 by the netters for the last year's softball loss at the bi-district level to Southern Utah State College. CLU was victorious this time, 14-16, 15-11, 16-14 and 15-11. Another win was gained over Mount Saint Mary's College last Wednesday in Los Angeles: 15-7, 15-6, 15-9.

The win over Mount St. Mary's set the scene for the next confrontation against Fresno-Pacific College, whom Regal's coach Carey Snyder says is, "the team to beat in our division. They're one of the toughest teams we have to play." Cal Lutheran lost to FPC in the Whittier Tournament, 7-15, 8-15 and 6-15. In their rematch last Friday, Cal Lu once again came up short, 6-15, 12-15, and 10-15.

"We were right there with them all the way this time," said Snyder. "A couple of things done differently could have made the difference. If we had tipped here instead of hitting there...."

serves-in-percentage of 99%. (Photo by Tracy Yingling)

"We improved about 600% since the last time we played them in the Whittier Tournament."

"Our purpose in competing at Whittier was to get an idea of who will play where, who can handle games situations and what the best combinations of people are for different situations."

Snyder can look for a potent offense this year with Koscinski leading the way. Helping out in the front will be senior Gloria Phillips, and freshmen Ann Swinehart, Jennifer Larson and Wendy Christensen. Phillips has already contributed 31 blocks, and Swinehart and Larsen have made their presence felt also.

Returning for the Regals at the setter position are junior Cindy Jorgensen and sophomore Erin Schmidt. Jorgensen leads the team in assists with 133 and Schmidt is not far behind with 102. The pair is aided by the addition of freshman Jamie Sharp who also plays tough defense in the back row.

The back row is headed by senior defensive specialist Garnet Kim. Kim will receive help from junior Cathy Bachman and the new talents of Ann Jeffries, Gina Gallagher and Aimee Melikian, all freshmen.

Snyder says she "feels good about the way the team is coming along. If we keep playing with the same intensity level that we have been we're going to be right there. Every game we're improving a lot, as individuals and as a team."

"We have a bit of a lag until the tournament this Friday (at UC San Diego). We're going to scrimmage within and keep working on our defense and hitter coverage, and also the transition between those. We are going to work on some more plays too so we can have some more to choose from."

Throwing herself into it, Cindie Jorgensen lines another shot for Cal Lutheran. The junior Jorgensen is the teams leading setter with 133 assists so far this season. Photo by Tracy Yingling.

Rotaract will meet tomorrow

at 6:15 p.m.

In Mt. Clef Foyer.

Everyone is welcome.

For Rotaract

Scholarship information, contact

Bill Wingard in the Student Center.

Soccer off to a shooting start

By Tracy Yingling
Echo Staffwriter

They opened with an 8-0 show of mastery over West Coast Christian College. The Kingsmen Kickers then compiled four more consecutive victories.

In their first week of competition they shut out both California Baptist College and Occidental College at CLU. The results were 4-0 and 3-0, respectively.

In their first away game against University of Redlands they let two goals slip through with a final score of 10-2 and last week they confronted Whittier College on Tuesday, and won 6-0.

"The teams we've beaten are the weakest on our schedule," admitted Coach Gary Jensen, "but our young team is gaining confidence and momentum."

Loyola stopped the Kingsmen, however, with a 1-1 tie in Saturday's away game. According to freshman goalie Dave "Hollywood" Salzwedel, the game did not set them back.

"Actually, it has pushed us forward. We owe a lot to defensive players -- they pulled us through," he said.

The Kingsmen will battle Biola today in another away game, but they will be back to the Cal Lu field on Saturday to play against Cal State Long Beach.

Tomorrow night at 7 p.m. on Storer Cable's channel 8, a tape delay of the Kingsmen's 37-21 win over the Sonoma State Cossocks last Saturday. CLU freshman Scott Klein will be helping out with the play-by-play.

Klein received the honor when the other commentator failed to show up for the game. Klein participated in a sports broadcasting camp at Loyola Marymount University, where he helped in the play-by-play of the Summer Pro League.

Sports Briefs

GOLF TEAM MEETING

Thursday, Sept. 25 at 7:00 p.m. in the Athletic Lounge.

All golfers interested in trying out are to meet at this time.

Second Sole offers a 20% discount on everything to coaches at Cal Lutheran University, and a 20% discount on in season shoes to athletes. All you have to do is stop in and tell them you're from Cal Lutheran University. The phone number is: 497-9209

The starting time of the CLU Football game played at Southern Utah State College on Nov. 8, has been changed to 1 p.m.

PACIFIC SURF & SPORT
496-9667 2nd FLOOR -- THE OAKS MALL

Quicksilver Paris Blues Maui

WELCOME BACK
CAL LU STUDENTS!
Save $5.00 off a purchase of $20.00 or more with this coupon.

Exp. 10/31/86

Mama Concha's Kitchen

AUTHENTIC MEXICAN FOOD

Combo burrito and soda or 1 order of nachos and soda

for only $1.99

"We cater to all your affairs!"

1750 N. Moorpark, behind the Melody Theatres. For your convenience call in your orders 497-6102

Mon.-Fri. 10:00am-9:00pm

Sat. 4:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Sun. 8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

To Dave (L.A.)

Hut 1, Hut 2, uh...

This Wesson's for you!

echo

Vol. XXVII No.2

October 1, 1986

NON-PROFIT ORG.
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
THOUSAND OAKS,
CALIFORNIA
PERMIT NO. 66

Final touches added to Preus-Brandt Forum

Phase three of "Excellence" set

By Wayne Sechell
and Karen E. Johnson
Echo Staffwriters

"To surpass in good qualities; to be better than; to exceed; to outdo." These terms, according to Webster's Dictionary, define the word "excellence". CLU's "Called to Excellence" campaign is headed in the direction to fulfill this "calling."

The campaign started in the fall of 1982 with a goal of 12.5 million dollars. Presently, 11.5 million dollars has been reached.

We have already witnessed the completion of the first project: the construction of the Pearson Library and Preus-Brandt Forum. The cost of these facilities, including computer equipment, financing and fund raising cost, totaled 5.56 million dollars. The old library was remodeled into an Adult Education Center which contains ten faculty offices and six new classrooms. The total cost of remodeling this building was 485,000 dollars. In addition, 1.5 million dollars has been placed in endowment funds. These funds include scholarships, operation and maintenance of library, and institutional renewal facility.

What lies ahead in the campaign? Plenty! As President Jerry Miller explains, "We continue to move forward on plans for the new university chapel. Approximately one half of the funding for the project has been committed, and we hope to raise the remaining funds in the next six months."

Also, a new Luther status will be placed in the circle outside the Pearson

Library later this fall. "It is a beautiful piece of sculpture," explains Miller. "It was created by Sir Bernard Weber, professor emeritus of art, and founder of the department. He was encouraged and assisted by Mr. Donald DeMars, a 1964 graduate of CLU. DeMars' firm also designed the Pearson Library and the Preus-Brandt Forum."

The Pederson Ranch house was relocated during the summer to make way for 4.3 million dollar science facility that is expected to break ground the beginning of second semester. The new science center will be over three and one half times the size of the present facility, comprising 30,000 gross square feet. The two-story

continued on page 2

Floor plans for the new Science Center, which exemplifies the increase of space over that of the present facility, have been finalized. Plans for the completion are slated for fall '88.

ACA offers help for children of alcoholic parents

By Cristina Barber
Echo Staffwriter

When students at The Lu decide to create their own "Happy Hour", the goal is to reach that ultimate Buzz. Ah, yes! The euphoric effects of alcohol! But what about the bad effects?

There are millions of alcoholics in the U.S. alone, not to mention that group of people called "children of alcoholism", who are 28 million strong.

Sandra Braun, a private alcoholism counselor and consultant for CLU, and Dr. John Goldfarb, director of counseling on campus, have put together a group for "Adult Children of Alcoholics (ACA)". The purpose of this organization is both educational and supportive.

Braun, who has worked with alcoholism for 20 years, and is both a recovered alcoholic and a child of an alcoholic, says most ACA's "feel out of sync" with the rest of society.

"ACA's lie and for good reasons. They judge themselves without mercy and find having fun very difficult. They take themselves very seriously and have trouble with intimate relationships."

Dr. John Goldfarb

These are some of the displaced feelings that will be dealt with in "Adult Children of Alcoholism", by helping the victim identify with others who have the same problems.

Heather Carter, sophomore, a child of an alcoholic, feels this group is very important. Socially, she states, "The decision to drink or not to drink is immense." The reason being that the reality of its negative effects are so close to home.

"Many of these feelings of not fitting-in," says Carter, "cannot be dealt with alone. You need support from others or you will dispose of the anger in the wrong way."

Braun decided to push this group on campus last year when she took an interim class. Through casual conversation, she learned that half of her class came from homes with some sort of alcohol problem.

Goldfarb was first interested in such a group while he did intern at the Vets Hospital in the alcohol ward. Ironically, this desire strengthened when he discovered that "a high percentage of the counseling on campus is alcohol-related."

There are approximately seven students interested in ACA so far. Goldfarb strongly stresses that the group is "entirely confidential. It is a place to express yourself and to find out what is common to all."

Carter strongly encourages new-comers by quoting "...that people should not be ashamed. It is not their fault. These kinds of circumstances are usually uncontrollable."

Meetings will be held on Tuesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The location will be announced. For those interested, contact Dr. Goldfarb in the Student's Infirmary on campus.

What's in Storer Cable for you?

By Tracy Lupar
Echo Staffwriter

Are you tired of the same 'ol weekly television programs? Is censorship level too high? Or is the entertainment level too base? If you answered 'yes' to any of these questions, Storer Cable has the solution for you.

For a small monthly fee of $3.65, with the purchase of a converter and a decoder, your room can receive such channels as Showtime, Disney, The Movie Channel, The Playboy Channel, Home Box Office, and Cinemax.

However, in order to receive these luxuries there are qualifications that one must meet. You must be 18 years or older to register for the additional entertainment channels. This is the legal age for signing a contract. Once you sign on the dotted line you are now ready for hookup. At this time you have two options:

- 1) For $7.50 you can go down to Storer Cable and pick up the boxes yourself, or
- 2) You can pay $25.00 to have an installer connect the boxes for you.

If you choose the latter, the person whose name is on the account must be present to sign the necessary papers. This is strictly for protection purposes only.

Now you are ready to view the programs of your choice in the privacy of your own room. There is, however, one word of advice from the Storer Cable. Do not lend out your boxes! Each box is priced at $250.00. If damaged, you, the account holder, will be held responsible.

For additional information contact Storer Cable Customer Service Department at (818) 889-0282, or Mary Wely, director of residence life at ext. 3220.

Violators will be cited; charged

By Karl Jennings
Echo Staffwriter

The Ventura County Sheriff's Department has been invited onto the CLU campus to help enforce the parking regulations.

The sheriff camps that patrol the campus can write up tickets for every parking violation except lack of a parking permit. Lieutenant Bascon of the Ventura County Sheriff's Department stated that the camps patrol campus streets from one to four times a day, seven days a week, at sporadic time intervals. CLU security also operates 24 hours with Alpha Blue Security officers.

The Alpha Blue officers can also write up parking violators.

William Olson, chief of CLU security, explained that they have a system for identifying and matching students with their vehicles even if the vehicles are not registered in their name. This system is due to Olson's access to state vehicle registration information at the East Valley Sheriff's Station.

All parking regulations on the CLU campus are the same as they are on any public street with the exception being the requirement of a valid CLU parking permit. Olson explained that the parking violations are cited by CLU security just as any municipal law enforcement agency would.

There are some parking regulations on campus that are being strictly enforced by CLU security. Some examples are: a vehicle in a handicapped blue curb space without the proper permit; parking in a red curb and/or fire lane; and parking in the aisle of Pederson's and Thompson's parking lots.

Valid CLU parking permits are required on all campus streets and parking lots. Parking permits must be placed on the right side of the back bumper and no where else. Vehicles that park on campus streets and lots on a regular basis and don't have a parking permit will be subject to a ticket.

Olson advised that CLU security officers recognize vehicles that park regularly on campus and thus they can tell the difference between students and visitor vehicles. If a visitor does receive a parking ticket for not having a permit, the ticket can be reconciled at the Business Office.

There are advantages to having a CLU permit. If security needs to find the owner of a vehicle in an emergency, they can be quickly tracked down by the number on the permit.

Parking ticket fines should be paid before the end of the semester. Judy Acheat of the CLU Business Office explained that students failing to pay all fines before the end of the semester they received them will have their registration, grades, and even diplomas withheld if necessary.

For some reason you are unaware of fines you owe, the Business Office will send you an itemized bill or you can check the standing of your account personally. Parking ticket recipients have the right to appeal by filling out a citation appeal form. These are available in the Business Office.

The appeal form will then be reviewed by the proper authorities and a decision will be made in approximately two weeks.

these activities that make school more exciting, adds another dimension to it. You feel recognized for doing something positive."

"I was surprised to find that my professors gave me their office and home phone numbers. I'm glad, because I want them to know me and I need that personal information," added Helme.

Concluding her lecture, Scheele defines success as "a movement or growth, a progression." And likewise, she defined career as "a verb - doing a movement or progression."

Progression is one of the keys to success

By Marel Amoghlian
Echo Staffwriter

"What does success mean? What does career mean?" These and other questions were raised and answered by Dr. Adele Scheele on Sept. 22.

Traveling nation-wide and interviewing successful people, career counselor Scheele came to share her discoveries of these interviews with university students during her lecture series, entitled the "Relationship of Liberal Arts to Careers."

As a career success counselor, Scheele has interviewed such people as Jane Pauley of NBC's "Today Show" - nationally renowned advice-columnist, Abigail Van Buren.

In Scheele's area of work, she divided people into two groups - sustainers and achievers. She described the sustainers as "the ones waiting for positions and waiting for someone to discover them." While the achievers are "those who take chances to discover their personal courage and connect themselves with people."

"I was very much affected with Scheele's lecture," commented Ryan

Vener. "I think it's necessary for all college students to know about how to achieve success now and in their future careers." Vener added.

Scheele advised the audience to get involved in school clubs and activities, to take advantage of the internship programs and other programs offered, and most importantly to look at our professors not only as instructors, but as mentors.

"Many people don't get involved in clubs or activities because they say they don't have enough time," expressed freshmen Malli Halme. "But it's

Ministry loosens controversial ties

By Jeff Birk
Echo Staffwriter

Nothing New Under the Sun, or to put it more precisely Nothing Really New Under the Sun might be a good description for a book to describe the attitude of Lord of Life congregation at the time.

With the coming of a new school year, there has come some new church council members, a new intern pastor, Janet Palmerand, and new pastor, Mark Knutson. Yet, according to Church Chairperson Jennifer Simpson, there shouldn't be too many big changes.

The congregation will continue to hold chapel every Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Preus-Brandt Forum and church at 5:30 p.m. Sunday evenings, also in the Forum.

There will continue to be a number of small Bible study groups ranging from Bread for the World to the Liturgical Dance Group. A number of opportunities for students to get involved in social ministries like Meals on Wheels will continue to be provided.

What may have changed is that the church may become less controversial than it was last spring when the church became wrapped in the issues of disinvestment and sanctuary.

Not that the church intends to turn away from hot issues, but social issues will probably move more to small groups like Bread for the World and Central American Task Force.

"For those people who were socially oriented, it (social activism) was a way of life and of course it came into worship. The focus (for this year) will be what people make of it," said Simpson. "I want church to be a place where people can worship comfortably and we're (council) always open to comments (on how to do this)."

"I feel very strongly that worship should be inclusive," explains Knutson. "The church should deal with issues facing society ranging from global issues to day to day issues."

He went on, "I see one of the responsibilities is for people to gain the confidence to do ministry themselves. All of us as Christians have responsibilities to do ministries."

"What I would wish worship to do would be to help the gospel come alive."

Halseth named dean

President Jerry Miller has announced the appointment of Dr. James A. Halseth as the new vice president and dean of academic affairs.

Halseth, former vice president of academic affairs and dean of Texas Lutheran College, is replacing Dean David Schreimm, who now serves as president of Upsala College in East Orange, New Jersey. Halseth, a historian, graduated from Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota. He received his M.A. from Eastern New Mexico University and a Ph.D. from Texas University.

Halseth was selected for a total of 64 candidates by a search committee comprised of several faculty members and a member of the student body.

Dean's list announced

One-hundred and seventy-five undergraduate students were named to the Dean's Honor List for the 1986 spring semester.

Students must maintain at least a 3.5 grade point average in their academic subjects to qualify for this honor. The following students attained this goal: Dale M. Adron, Kelly A. Aguire, Linda L. Alders, Susan L. Aschbrenner, Paula R. Avery, Sandra Ayer, Eric Bachmann, Nancy A. Beird, Lisa G. Biel, Michael K. Bida, Sarah B. Bigelow, Ricardo Burt, Deborah L. Byles, Jon G. Behrens, Jeffrey G. Birk, Cindy Boleyn, Dorothy Brest, Rita Brown, Carol J. Brown, Nancy Burt, David C. Byrne, Paul O. Cain, Tracy Cain, Lisa A. Campbell, Kristine L. Chan, Lisa M. Carmichael, Nancy F. Chessa, Steven E. Cloria, Greg E. Collins, Steve Colner, Susan P. Crouse, Dawn S. Czugala, Denny G. Dimpson, P. Deitz, Lily Davis, Robert M. Deeborn, Alexie DeLacoe, Anne O'Brien, Terri L. Dombrowsky, Brenda A. Downing, Tracy M. Downs, Janette V. Dunbar, Susan L. Dwyer, Deborah L. Eiler, Kristine Emery, Jeff S. Engberg, Edith Farrell, Michelle Eryer, Camille Fanning, Eric Folkesson, Deanna F. Franke, Shellen N. Floyd, Joe A. Fucc, Tomiko Fukui, Nathaniel Galvin, Glenn Gaetling, Edward A. Gavel, Patrick J. Gibbs, Nicholas A. Guillermo, Brian B. Givens, Chris Goeper, Julie Gosselin, Gretchen Gosselin, Judith E. Hoelzel, Jennifer Hamilton, Amy A. Hampton, David Heynes, Cheryl Heck, Holly Heimbach, Laura Heimbach, G. Herman, Theresa L. House, Robert Ingh, Diana Janzen, Jonathan P. Johnson, Sara Johnson, Terrie Johnson, Marcy L. Jones, Cindie D.

scholarships...

| Marshall Scholarship | |
|-----------------------|--|
| Qualifications: | graduating seniors of "high academic ability and the capacity to play an active part in the United Kingdom to which they go, and ... who display a potential to make a significant contribution to their own society" |
| Award: | expenses for two years of study of any subject leading to a British university degree at a university of their choice in the United Kingdom |
| Deadline: | October 22 |
| Rhodes Scholarship | |
| Qualifications: | graduating seniors of "quality of both character and intellect." While athletic achievement may not be irrelevant, the conditions of the scholarship state that continuing physical vigor to enable a Scholar to make an effective contribution to the world is more important than athletic prowess." |
| Award: | expenses for two or three years at Oxford to read for |
| Fulbright Scholarship | |
| Qualifications: | graduating seniors or graduate students with "sufficient proficiency in the written and spoken language of the host country to carry out their proposed study" |
| Award: | expenses for one year's study in almost any country |
| Deadline: | October 31 (supplemental travel grant, February 1) |
| Truman Scholarship | |
| Qualifications: | current sophomores with at least a "B" average who are United States citizens and have a serious interest in a career in government or public service. |
| Award: | all educational expenses for four years: the final two years of college and two years of graduate school. |
| Deadline: | December 1 |

news briefs...

The violin-guitar duo of Clayton Haslop and Jack Sanders will be featured in the opening concert of the Chamber Music Plus Series at California Lutheran University.

The duo will perform on Saturday, Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Preus-Brandt Forum.

Tickets will be available for $5 per person at the door the night of the event. Individuals who may wish to support the series as patrons may purchase subscriptions at $25 which includes entry to four concerts during the season. CLU identification card holders will be admitted for $3 per person.

More information on the Chamber Music Plus series is available by calling University Relations at 493-3150.

Any women interested in 'sterling end/or being on a Cel Lu Women's Soccer team for fall, 1987, please call Kristi at 493-3563.

Two Previous Intern pastors have been called to Midwestern congregations: STEVE AWBREY, intern pastor for the 1984-85 academic year, has been installed at Immanuel Lutheran in Chadron, Nebraska. Joining him on his first call is his wife JACQUE and daughter ROBIN. The church's address is 747 Ann Street, Chadron, NE 69337. JOANNE RICHMAN, intern pastor from 1983 to 1984, was ordained Sept. 27 at Westby Coon-Prarie Lutheran Church, Westby, Wisconsin. The address is 500 S. Main Street, Westby, WI 54687.

CLU's literary magazines, the Morning Glory, won its eighth straight "All American" award, according to a representative from the Associated College Press at the University of Minnesota.

The "All American" award means that the Morning Glory is among the top 8 percent of college and literary magazines in the country.

Magazines are judged on layout, graphics, poetry, fiction, photography and design.

Wendy Olson ('85) was Editor; Brandy Downing ('85) was Art Director.

The National Research Council will administer the Ford Foundation Doctoral Fellowships for Minorities program which will offer approximately 40 three-year doctoral fellowships and 10 one-year dissertation fellowships to American Indians, Alaskan Natives (Eskimo or Aleut), Black Americans, Mexican Americans/Chicanos, Native Pacific Islanders (Polynesians or Micronesians), and Puerto Ricans.

All predoctoral fellowship applicants must have Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) General Test Scores for tests taken between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1986. However, scores from GRE General Tests taken between October 1984 and December 1986 are preferable because statistics on these tests will be reported to selection panels.

The deadline for entering the fellowship competition will be November 14, 1986. All inquiries concerning application materials and program administration should be addressed to: Ford Foundation Doctoral Fellowships, The Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20418.

Yearbook Portraits

Sign-ups: Oct. 6-10

In Cafeteria 4:30-6:30 p.m.

and in Library

Portraits: Oct. 13-17

by appointment in SUB excellence

continued from page 1

Pictured above is the floor plans for the second floor of the future Science Center.

air conditioned building will include offices, classrooms and laboratories of geology, chemistry and the biological sciences, as well as a 100-seat special purpose lecture hall, six special function rooms, twelve faculty offices, a computer science facility and a botanical greenhouse.

Normen Lueck, vice president of capital programs, a program which handles building improvement projects for the university, was enthusiastic when asked to comment on the progress of the science project: "We're pleased with the progress of the 'Called to Excellence' program to date. We expect to achieve the two million needed for the science building by December 31, 1986."

To date, 3.1 million of the 4.3 million dollars needed for the science project has been raised through bequests and donations from individuals and foundations at $25,000 each.

The expected completion date of the new science center is the fall semester, 1988.

RESEARCH PROBLEMS?

Call Dr. Arnold
(213) 447-5493
All levels...all subjects
Foreign students welcome

Mama Concha's Kitchen

AUTHENTIC MEXICAN FOOD

1 combo burrito and soda or 1 order of nachos and soda for only $1.99

"We cater to all your affairs!"

1716 W. Hollywood Blvd. behind the Melody Theatres For your convenience call us at orders 497-6187

Mon-Fri. 10:00am-10:00pm
Sat. 8:00 a.m.-9:00 p.m.
Sun. 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

FREE Pregnancy Tests

An unexpected pregnancy can be a hard thing to face...

...WE CAN HELP.

Referral Services • Confidential Help • 24-Hour Hotline

M-W 9am-3pm T-F 9am-12pm

Concejo Valley
Crisis Pregnancy Center

1421 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd. Ste. 111 (Village Motel Plaza)

(805) 373-1222

TO ALL STUDENTS:

Get your 'hats' tied together

SCANDINAVIA with Slattum and Scheffter is coming January, 1987. A few places are still available. See Dr. Scheffter in faculty secretary's office for a brochure and further information. (3450) ext. 34501

Anyone interested in going to New Guinea, Australia, Full for an interim trip & a meeting with a movie presentation and artist display in Room A128 on Friday, Oct. 3 from 7-9 p.m.

If you missed our September 29 meeting on the Paris Intern please contact Dr. K. Renck (G13, #1434) or Dr. J. Sleeper (C-18, #3433) as soon as possible to pick up passport forms, visa information, etc.

WALK THE GROUND THAT SHAKESPEARE WALKED! KISS THE BLARNEY! OBSERVE THE CHANGING OF THE GAUDI! LISTEN TO MUSIC BEING SCORED IN A MAJOR LONDON FILM STUDIO! SIT IN A FRONT ROW SEAT FOR SOME OF THE BEST THEATRE IN THE WORLD!

If any of these adventures interest you, come with us this interim on a Theatre/Music tour of England and Ireland. For more information, contact Michael Arnold (Drama, ext. 3416) or Elmer Ramsey (Music, ext. 3305).

ECHO

Editorial

Improvement seems to be on the minds of the university movers and shakers. Just look around. We're seeing new ramps beside small stairways, Memorial Parkways' sidewalk got a face-lift last year, curbs and cross walks are getting a fresh new coat of paint. The list goes on.

And by all means, don't forget the new Science Center. As the Pearson Library, the Science Center will be a welcome addition and improvement.

There is something that our improvers forgot. Let's paint a picture, kind of create a scenario:

Here we have Joe (or Josephine) College student. He is coming from wherever, only to find that there isn't an available parking space within reasonable distance from his dorm. The only solution is to find a space down the street or across a field.

This would be an acceptable solution if it were daytime, but let's change the scenario, and make it late at night. Here is where a very serious problem arises. Now Joe College student must walk through a dark grove or field to get back to his dorm.

We won't go into any of the many things that could happen to him. But the fact is that he and other students like him find themselves walking through dangerously unlit areas. There is no reason that this should be the case.

Now, let's change the scenario a little more and say that this is specifically on the West End of campus. Granted, there is plenty of space behind the New West dorms, but for students who reside in the Old West dorms this is not only an inconvenience, but a risk to walk through areas that are not adequately lit.

The solution is simple. In the past, this Institution has gone to great lengths to improve the usage of electricity by installing various energy-saving fixtures, but when it gets to the point where frequented areas are avoided because of unsafe situations, students overlook the fact that sidewalks are getting curbs, ramps, and new buildings erected and begin to wonder why improvements aren't being made.

Books

Dear Editor,

It happens every semester! The classrooms are filled with enthusiastic instructors and anxious students ready to start the new semester off on the right foot, only to find that their good intentions will have to "wait a few days" because the required book has not yet arrived in the bookstore. The instructors are immediately forced into a song and dance routine, which most of them perform rather well. I might add, until their book arrives. It's during this performance they usually realize that the syllabus they so carefully put together is rendered completely useless and can now only serve as a general guideline for their class goals. On the other hand, the bookless student experiences a sense of relief at not being able to do any homework since, through no fault of his own, he has no book with which to do it. However, this relief is only temporary. Not only does the instructor usually insist that the assignment be done as soon as the book arrives, but the student is forced into completing the old assignments as well as the current ones all at the same time.

Let's face it. We all lose when our required books are not available in the bookstore on time. Both the instructors and the students are placed under additional stress at an already stressful time. Perhaps there is something we can do to prevent or at least decrease the occurrence of late arriving books. After all, with human nature being what it is, getting a late start on assignments only encourages both the instructors' and the students' already strong inclinations toward procrastination.

Signed,
A Bookless Student

I'm hungry

With the amount of money each student pays to attend this fine institution one would think that we would have more say on important matters, namely food. I am not speaking of the food itself, enough has been sold on that. What I am referring to is the times in which we, the students may eat. Yes, it is true that last year's administration gave us a choice of two food plans with the opportunity to lower tuition. This was, and still is, a great plan. We appreciate it, but the cafeteria hours remain the same.

I realize that many arguments against this proposition will ensue. We lack of necessary funds for kitchen staff, electricity, lighting and food costs are reason for opposition. However, I am not necessarily asking for longer hours, just readjustments.

One particular readjustment I have in mind concerns the weekends. On Saturday and Sunday mornings our cafeteria opens up at 9:00 a.m. and shuts down at 12:30. Now as we know, many students were up the night before engaging in some rather intellectually stimulating activity until a rather odd hour and would enjoy sleeping in the following morning. By the time these stimulated students have had adequate time to rest their brains, get ready and get down to the cafeteria, they have five or ten minutes to grab some leftovers. I firmly believe that there is a need to open the cafeteria a half hour later and keep it open for a half hour longer than the current time. I am sure that the staff would enjoy the extra time to prepare for the day. The cafeteria would be better attended, resulting in a decrease of food wasted, and most importantly, the students would be happy.

A Well Rested But Hungry Student

Tick.. tick ...

Dear Editor:

I am writing with a complaint that I am certain is shared by many other students- and professors- who attend classes in the rooms that have been equipped with timers instead of conventional light switches. It is a annoyance to sit through an entire lecture without at least half of the lights going out sometime during the lecture. It may not be an earth shattering problem, but it can be very annoying to be taking notes one minute and then unable to see the hand in front of your face the next.

When these timers were installed in the newer buildings last year, the motive was energy conservation. I am very curious to know if there have been any significant decreases in the University's electric bills that could be attributed to the use of these timers. I would be surprised if this is the case. Just last week, I was the first person to walk into my 12:30 class in the Nygren building and the room, vacant, had all the lights on. If the timers are not set to go off at the right time, what is the point?

If there have been no significant, positive results that can be re-equipped with conventional light switches. At the very least, do not include them in the plans for the new science center. A simple, conscious effort on the part of students and professors to turn off the lights when leaving a room would probably be just as effective and classes would not be interrupted by darkness.

Sincerely,
Lisa Ritts

Guest Editorial- Jim Greene

Alcohol policy

Why is CLU a dry campus? This question is addressed each year, and is probably the most popular topic of the Echo Opinion page.

I would like to take this opportunity to point out some of the reasons why CLU is and will most likely remain a "dry" campus.

Any student who has been on campus for an evening knows that alcohol is being consumed in the dorms. There is no way that the administration can stop it, and the administration knows this.

Why, then, does the administration keep a rule that they know is unenforceable? There are several reasons.

First, you need not look further than our name: California Lutheran University. This university is owned by the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America. The church (our owners) would not accept the responsibility for allowing alcohol on the campus.

Secondly, by allowing alcohol on campus, the administration would be sending a message to the CLU community that it approves of drinking.

This responsibility that I mentioned above may be puzzling some of you. What if a student were to drink on campus, and then drive. It has happened before, with tragic results. The school could be liable if alcohol consumption were officially allowed.

This is the "dry campus" concept is a selling point for the admissions department. Some parents would not want their children to attend a campus where wild parties are allowed.

I have accepted the fact that the "party line" on alcohol is "no alcohol allowed." Most residents, including the Residence Assistants and most Head Residents acknowledge that there is a de-facto rule: If you don't disturb anyone else, there is little chance that you will be "busted".

The maximum speed limit on most U.S. highways is 55 miles per hour. If you are doing 80 or 65 on an open road, there is little chance that you will be pulled over. On the other hand, if you are doing 65 swerving through traffic that is going 50, you will see the judge eventually.

What I am trying to present to you is this: The school has to maintain a "no alcohol" policy for many important reasons. If you feel that you have to drink, you are free to go off campus (providing someone else drives). If you stay on campus, you have to take your chances. CLU has a lot more to lose than you or I do.

ECHO Letter Policy

The Echo welcomes letters of divergent opinion. All letters must be signed with legitimate signatures. Letters to the Editor should usually be under 250 words, in good taste and free of libelous material.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters without changing the content. Letters to the editor have a deadline of Friday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box.

Letters which contain charges of allegations against identifiable individuals or campus offices or campus organizations or campus clubs should be shown to the person or institution charged, and that person or institution shall be given the right to reply in the same Echo issue.

- the reply must be submitted by Saturday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box or given to the editorial page editor;
- the reply may only answer charges raised by the initial letter;
- the reply may not exceed the length of the original letter.

Student loans

Charles Grogg

As I sit amid my new books and lately acquired nervous habits, I ponder the complexity of our student loan system, and in the quiet moments of reflection, I arrive at a well-deliberated conclusion: It stinks.

In my endeavor to receive a higher education, the question undeniably arises, "How am I going to pay for it?" A number of alternatives come to mind. (1) Beg my parents for the money. No problem, assuming they have $30,000 lying around to pay for four years of study. Not likely. (2) Apply for financial aid. The problem is, the government chooses to channel its funds in a different direction. (3) Sit at the bank, watch for the Brink's truck, rob it, shoot the guards, and show up the next day at the business office to pay the tuition in thousand dollar bills. Or, (4) get a job.

Chances are, though, a job, if looking to put a dent in school costs, will drastically cut study time. With little choice, one may yet take the job and apply for a Guaranteed Student Loan. But looking for a way out here may be a lost cause.

Eight long weeks after applying, word comes, only to hear, "Sorry, but no," the financial aid office says, "you make too much, your parents make too much, your maternal great uncle twice removed made too much" when he was fourteen.

Not yet beaten, a plan comes to mind. Next move is to ask my parents to sell the new Chevy, but needless to say, this request meets with staunch refusal. My parents say they will try to help, but the source of income is limited. That polioed term, "expected family contribution", once again meets reality.

What is the alternative? If a student is fortunate enough to have established credit or a willing co-signer, the student can apply for a loan directly, either through a bank, or perhaps a credit union. However, unlike the deferred GSL, these loans are payable immediately; the first bill is generally due within one month of receipt of the funds. Furthermore, the payments may be double or triple that of a GSL.

It is difficult to hang a price tag on an education. Hopefully, what is learned will be practiced for life. Education is only as accessible as opportunity allows, and that opportunity is giving in to a requisite of ready payment.

The student is forced to view the situation with a degree of disappointing realism - that it seems in this modern age that hard work and perseverance in study are being replaced with the dollar. Not to confuse the issue with the skyrocketing cost of education, rather this course of frustration is brought about by the lack of immediate funds with which payment can be made.

Let us see an increase in the quantity of loans made, and a decrease in selectivity when deciding whom these loans will aid. Eligibility clashes with opportunity; when the cost of a degree is placed out of reach.

Stop that prop!

Second Thoughts... Roger Niebolt

Reflections on world peace

Proposition 64, if passed would severely cripple research into a cure for the disease AIDS. AIDS researchers rely heavily on AIDS patients for much of their studies of this deadly disease. Proposition 64 would force these researchers and all other doctors working with AIDS patients to report the patient's name to the state. The state health authorities would then be required to prohibit these people from certain types of employment. People would find themselves out of a job due to unfair discrimination. As you can see, this would have devastating effects for both the patients and the researchers. AIDS victims would simply avoid treatment for fear of losing their jobs.

This initiative is being sponsored by Lyndon LaRouche, who would also have us believe that the Queen of England is a member of the "Gang of Four" and that Henry Kissinger is a communist agent. LaRouche likes to arouse the fears in people in order to gain their support. Many people compare LaRouche's tactics to those of Hitler. With Prop. 64 he is hoping that the voters' fear of AIDS will cloud their good judgement.

Opponents of Proposition 64 include Senator Alan Cranston and Governor George Deukmejian. Although these two men rarely agree on anything, they have both come out against this initiative. So have the American Red Cross, the Roman Catholic Bishops, and the medical professionals that work with AIDS patients every day.

It would appear as though LaRouche and his followers do not have the support that they had hoped for. Proposition 64 is California's golden opportunity to let LaRouche know that his scare tactics and bigotry will not be tolerated in this state.

James Buchner

Recent talks between the Soviet Union and the U.S. have been directed toward arranging a summit for Gorbachev and Reagan. The summit is supposedly intended to bring an end to the escalation of the nuclear arms race.

Expectations for meaningful reductions are very low. Reagan demands that the Soviets make major arms reductions, yet Reagan still refuses to make any concessions in his post "Star Wars" project. Why should the Soviets deal if Reagan won't?

The cycle of proposing arms talks and then entering them without being willing to negotiate has gone on for many years. If the situation does not change dramatically, the cycle will be ending soon; the cycle will end when we have destroyed our planet.

Reagan uses the rationale that we are working for a lasting peace through deterrence. How does our president define peace?

I cannot stretch the meaning of peace to include living in fear of global destruction. I do not consider peace to be the necessity to spend so much of our gross national product on defense. Peace is not worrying about how many times the superpower's combined nuclear arsenals can destroy our beautiful planet. Peace is not going to sleep at night with the fear of waking up to a nuclear holocaust (if I wake up).

Peace is being able to go anywhere in the world without fear of being taken hostage or being killed outright. As Spinoza wrote in 1670, "Peace is not an absence of war, it is a virtue, a state of mind, a disposition for benevolence, confidence, justice." Peace is the ability to reject violence in action and principle.

The key to effective, peaceful co-existence is the understanding that although we are of differing nationalities, we still share many things. All humans, Americans, Cubans, Nicaraguans, and yes, even Soviets share the same life support system on our planet. We also share many life goals and values such as happiness, love, social attachments, and millions of other human needs.

We all live to survive. Another way of thinking of it is that WE ARE ONE. One race of warm, living, red-blooded humans. The death of an enemy is as great a loss as the death of a close friend.

The advent of nuclear weapons has added a definite finality to the acts of war-making. In the past, a war could be fought with no permanent effects, except scores of dead soldiers.

Now, however, we have entered the "Big Time". Only a fraction of the world's nuclear arsenals can create a nuclear winter, a phenomenon described by Carl Sagan in his essay "Nuclear Winter". Sagan theorizes the dust, ash, and smoke resulting from nuclear blasts can create a layer of particles high in our atmosphere. This layer of heavy particles would be thick enough to block out much of the sunlight we so desperately need.

In a short period of time, our green plants would die, therefore killing our livestock, since they would have nothing to eat. Humans would then die from starvation. If they had not already died from radiation sickness.

With these issues in plain view, I again ask myself how can we survive a nuclear exchange. I have come to the conclusion that we could not survive a nuclear exchange. Plain and simple.

We all must pursue peace peacefully, not through deterrence. As Musti said, "There is no way to peace, peace is the way."

Today's rhetoric about nuclear arms control is going nowhere fast. Our world leaders must stop enjoying their little macho power trip with nuclear arms, which is at mankind's (and womenkind's) expense. We must concentrate on resolving our international differences peacefully, not by making human lives mere pawns in a game of nuclear chess.

Although the outlook now is quite grim indeed, I envision the citizens of the world educating themselves about the peril we collectively face. I see a great change of human nature occurring; a change from the warring attitude of today to the peace-loving attitudes needed to ensure a safe tomorrow.

We, the young people of the world, need to face these issues head on. We need to understand a war will mean total destruction, total death. We must solve our conflicts peacefully, making a good example for others to follow. We have found that violence breeds violence, so must not peace breed peace?

In today's world, peace is not just pleasant, it is essential! We must make peace to survive.

Central America

People, not just issues

Brian Warner

The coming of fall marks a new beginning for us at CLU, but for many, all too many, it is simply the continuation of a nightmare that began a long time ago and shows no sign of ever ending. This nightmare is in the form of bloody civil war and it haunts the people of Central America.

Last year on this campus a small group of students and faculty formed the Central American Task Force in order to study and try to understand the situation in Central America. They offered the information to the student body and urged its consideration. The issues involved are powerful and complex, if not a bit hidden. They deal with our government's participation in the wars, how and why the U.S. supports certain Central American regimes, and our government's attitude toward the thousands of refugees fleeing from the war-torn nations. Indeed the crisis in Central America is probably one of the most politically sensitive issues today.

The question of our government's policy towards refugees from Central America prompted the Task Force to educate itself and the campus about the sanctuary movement. The sanctuary movement is a grass roots movement begun in 1982 by the Southside Presbyterian Church in Tucson, Arizona and has since spread to hundreds of congregations, campuses and community organizations. It comes as a response to the need of so many refugees from Central America for shelter and protection from deportation.

These people need the protection because our government refuses to recognize their status as refugees or the legitimacy of their claims for political asylum. Why? The answers to that are difficult at best and dig deep into the very foundations of the United States political system drawing into question the integrity and morality of that system. Stated simply, our government supports the wars in Central America on the side of democracy. Therefore, how can it recognize the fact that there are people from those countries who do not want war; people, some of whom have been persecuted and tortured who will tell of the horrors committed by both sides?

On the other hand there is the refugee act of 1980 which gives, "the right to political asylum and protection against deportation to persons who demonstrate a well-founded fear of persecution in their own countries." Is the government breaking its own law in order to maintain its foreign policy in Central America? It would appear as such, for in 1984 alone 13,378 Central American persons applied for political asylum in the United States, 32% of which were granted it.

There are so many sides to the issue of sanctuary alone that it would take many pages to cover. I urge everyone to explore it further, it is definitely worth the time. The emphasis of the Central American Task Force last semester was educating the people of CLU about the issues. Once the educational process was well underway, the Task Force then pushed for this campus to declare itself in support of the idea of sanctuary, and the declaration was made.

The Task Force is back in operation again this semester and will continue in its venture to educate whoever wants to listen about the powerful political and religious issues surrounding the crisis in Central America and the sanctuary movement. The meetings are open to everyone and their educational programs will be well publicized. The Task Force will welcome your support.

The crisis in Central America is both severe and complex. It involves many governmental and religious facets, but mostly the issue is people - the many people from Central America who need help. No matter how you feel about what you have just read, all of these issues are directly affecting all of our futures as Christians, citizens, and draft age men and women.

Reverberations.... Tracy McInvalde

On 'being out'

There's considerable public discourse on this campus about social issues such as a world-wide, third-world politics, and women's rights. But one topic I've noticed that is never discussed publicly and is actually even avoided is the subject of gay students at CLU.

Here in our little world, the population of gay students is certainly an invisible minority. Most of us know of people who are probably gay or people whom we suspect are gay, but there are not many students who will openly admit to being gay. This is because the gay students of CLU (and believe me, there are a few) are afraid of the stigma that will be associated with them if they "come out". After all, this is a "Christian" school and for one reason or another, many Christians believe homosexuality to be a terrible sin.

To be gay in such an environment is to live under the gossip and hatred of a narrow-minded society. It is feeling that you are different and knowing that you have almost no one with whom to discuss this difference. There is no terrible feeling that the feeling of being alone in a world that doesn't care about what you feel. And since there are no support groups at CLU for gay students (such as a Gay Students' Union), this is what the gay students here feel.

Ultimately, the solution to this dilemma lies with each of us as individuals. In our acceptance of fellow students who are gay. This does not necessarily mean condoning the gay lifestyle, but simply realizing that a student who is gay is not an Untouchable; he or she is a person, with the same feelings and needs that a heterosexual has.

Many of you will probably quote Biblical scripture that says gay people are sinners who should be numbered among murderers, thieves and rapists. Let me get this across to you: your interpretation and your interpretation of those scriptures does differ. (Yes, I already know the ones you're going to quote.) So please don't hit me with loads of homophobic fanaticism in the name of Christ, because you're only going to make yourself look narrow-minded.

But if any of you really want to help, whether you're gay or not, then I suggest the old standby: Get involved. It might not be such a bad idea if a support group for gay students was formed on this campus. But if you don't want to help in that way, at least educate yourselves to the reality that being gay is not a crime, nor is it some sort of disease. It is simply a part of a person's life.

Once again, I invite input on this topic. There's no reason to be afraid of discussing this issue openly. This is a better place to make this work together. This is a small world, and we have to learn to live together in it, so that maybe someday we can all come out of our own closets.

1986-'87 Echo Staff

Editor-in-Chief: Joanna Decaney

Managing Editor: Kristan Brown

News Editor: Michella Villa

Opinion Editor: Roger Niebolt

Editorial Cartoonist: Greg Meyers

Feature Editors: Tamara Van Hoose, Michella Small

Sports Editors: John Gracie, Monique Roy

Staff Writers: Maral Amoghlian, Kristina Carlson, Eric Groll, Chris Smith, Cristina Barber, Jeff Birk, Shanen Gale, Jim Greene, Mia Hillas, Greg Maw, Karen E. Johnson, Tracy Luper, Karl Jennings, Xiao-Nan Liu, Jack Stewart, Cheryl Almond, Chris Caracalas, Cassi Kyman, Fred Stahl, Lisa Ritts, Monica Ortiz, Danisa Morrison, Kristin Enge, Jeff Kroaker, Tracy Yingling

Photo Lab Director: Paul Holmes

Photographers: Mark Horowitz, Tracy Yingling, Danisa Hubbard, Deanna Hubbard, Dawn Baca

Ad Manager: Wayne Sachal

Ad Layout: Jim Molina-manager: Jannifer Nelsen, Camilla Collins

Distribution Manager: Teresa Burgoyne

Publication Circulation Commissioner: Camilla Collins

Advisor: Gordon Chassawright

Typesetters: Suzanne Campbell, Karma Lively, Rhonda Mulanax, Marni Splitter

Opinions expressed in this publication are those of the writers and are not to be construed as opinions of the Associated Students of the University.

Editorials, unless designated, are the editorial decisions of the editor staff. Letters to the Editor must be signed and may be edited according to the discretion of the staff and in accordance with technical limitations.

The CLU ECHO is the official student publication of California Lutheran University.

Publication offices are located in the Student Union Building, 60 W. Olsen Road, Thousand Oaks, California 91360. Business phone 493-3465. Advertising rates will be sent upon request.

Dorm decor

The room is dark and bare except for a few standard pieces of furniture placed haphazardly. The walls are dingy, scarred by random nail holes, scuffs of old tepe, and chipping paint. Your footsteps sound lonely and your cry, "You mean I have to LIVE here?" echoes through the gloom.

What do you do?

Why you decorate, of course, in true CLU style, where creativity is the key. An inflatable roommate named Raoul? Palm Beech in your bedroom?

The sleek look of professional interior design? Noveau junk? These are just a few of the ways you put your individuality to work, transforming a once-barren dorm room into a personal expression and a place you can call home. Use a little imagination and watch what happens...pure pizzazz!

(All photos by P. Holmes)

Life off campus

By Shenandoah M. Gale
Echo Staffwriter

Picture this: You are sitting down at your desk, a Domino's cup sits in front of you (left over from last night's 1:45 a.m. pizza attack). You finally decide it's about time that you catch up on 75 pages in calculus, which is a good idea since you have a test tomorrow at 8:00 a.m. sharp. Your book is open, notes and assignments sit in front of your eager eyes, waiting to be enveloped into your all encompassing brain. Then, all of a sudden the guys next door crank their stereo so loud you feel as though you are doing a commercial for Pioneer.

Or, how about this: You just finish the hardest practice coach has ever dealt out. You go home, take a shower, and look forward to a wonderful, satisfying dinner. The ol' college budget being what it is, you trot up to Lili's. And what are they having (drum roll please), green tinted meatloaf with (fake) mashed potatoes and cooked green beans. Then there's always the vegetarian dish. This week's left over vegetables mixed with taco shell strips, creatively concealed under one-half inch of cheese.

There are many other scenarios that are conjured up when someone mentions life here at the Lu. However, in the life of a commuter, these scenes are non-existent. When I spoke with commuters, the most popular advantage was, you guessed it, home cooking! Another advantage for Sherri Cook, a junior commuter transfer from Venture College is the ability to separate school life from personal life. "That's important to me. If you live in the dorms, school is all around you, all the time."

Chewen Fesenmeyer is a returning sophomore. As a freshman she resided in Mount Clef, this year she's a commuter from Thousand Oaks. Fesenmeyer, along with other commuters, is saving about $3000 this year by living off campus. "It's nice to have a house to kick back in, a different atmosphere. The driving back and forth is a definite disadvantage, however. "I also miss school activities and my friends on campus. It was a big decision. I had to weigh both sides." Fesenmeyer has found she prefers living on campus and will be returning to campus next year.

"I'm meeting a different range of people in the coffee shop, it's sort of the commuter hang out," says Angela Ramsey, a commuting senior. Ramsey is finding her year off campus very enjoyable. "I want to keep my college years special, and I felt it was just time to leave."

A way with words

© Edward Julius Collegiate C994-31

ACROSS

- 1 French head
- 10 Sussatall move
- 10 Pause
- 11 October's birthstone
- 15 One-celled animal
- 16 '40s song, e.g.
- 17 Republican election nightmare (2 wds.)
- 20 Tyrants
- 21 Tennis tournament favorite (2 wds.)
- 22 Mr. Whitley
- 23 Common tattoo word
- 24 House of
- 31 Be human
- 34 Inter (Lat.)
- 35 Mr. Magnum
- 36 Eat
- 38 Undeliverable mail or water spite
- 40 Chicken
- 41 first-rate
- 42 Word of warning
- 43 Compass point
- 44 Former Time Magazine "Man of the Year"
- 49 To be announced: abbr.
- 50 Grecian
- 51 Classroom need
- 55 Stupid
- 59 Party meeting of sorts (2 wds.)
- 61 Footnote abbreviation
- 63 Neon
- 64 Field
- 65 Inexperienced
- 66 Do in, as a dragon
- 18 Mr. Porter
- 19 "Out, damned..."
- 24 Part of some newscasts
- 25 Diamond bangle
- 26 Lying flat
- 27 Omit in pronunciation
- 28 VP in '53
- 29 Tarnish, as a reputation
- 30 Competing
- 31 Actress kerfuffle
- 32 The "Sisters"
- 37 "Story"
- 39 Of ancient N. Italy
- 45 Caring words
- 46 Adventurous
- 47 Asian silkwork
- 48 Invaluable
- 51 The Odyssey, for one
- 52 Ceremonial garment
- 53 Put on (cover up)
- 55 "I cannot tell"
- 56 Suffix for poet
- 57 Legendary Roman king
- 58 Catch sight of
- 60 Suffix for block

DOWN

- 1 Mary
- 2 Fencing sword
- 3 Scottish caps
- 4 Romeo or Juliet, e.g.
- 5 Party supporter
- 6 "conny as..."
- 7 Certain doc
- 8 Newspaper section, for short
- 9 Washington seaport
- 10 Dairy product (2 wds.)
- 11 Opposite of sweater
- 12 wds.
- 13 The Big Apple's finest laborer

PHOTOGRAPHERS NEEDED

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS IS LOOKING FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS FOR THE ECHO AND KNOS. A PORTFOLIO IS OPTIONAL. IF INTERESTED, PLEASE CONTACT CAMILLE AT 493-3566 OR PAUL AT 493-3507

FLU IMMUNIZATION

Begining Sept. 29 (2:00-4:00pm) at the Student Health Service
COST: $300 #1
$ 2.00 follow-up shot

*The strains in the 1986 vaccine include:
A Chile, A Mississippi, and B Ann Arbor.
A follow-up shot is necessary to include Taiwan B, which is a risk this season.

Last week's puzzle solution...

Foreign students at the Lu

Misau Kato, from Japan, is a biology major, whose high school president recommended CLU. "So I decided to come here. I like this school because it is a small university. I live in a dormitory, and through friends, I have gotten to know people. Maybe I'll continue my education here."

Look who just flew in from Scandinavia! It's Nine Sandvik, Gitte Medsen, and Siri Iseksen, all part of this year's foreign exchange program. (photo by P. Holmes)

Opening Oct. 17 in the Little Theatre will be the first studio series production of the year, Echoes, by N. Richard Nash.

Concerning the auditions, he said, "These were the best auditions we have had in terms of talent and numbers in five years. It's going to be a great year!"

KRCL - Catch the wave

The format for KRCL is "progressive". But don't just sit back and listen, call the studio at 493-3470 and request your favorite song.

Special shows will be broadcast weekly on KRCL, revealed Liz Seabury, KRCL's Director of Music. A "Mod Show" will rid us of the blues on Mondays from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m.; "Punk Night" will pick you up on Tuesdays from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m.; "Dance Night" will host

The station has respectfully grown to include not only extended broadcast hours, but also more D.J.'s, better equipment, a more defined style, a stronger signal, recognition and respect from all major record companies, and Greene says, "...We sound a lot more professional." So listen in CLU, because Kroecker declares you'll be missing out on... "tons of free albums, lots of t-shirts...we'll be playing the greatest music, and if you don't listen, you're gonna be missin' out on a lot of...(things!)."

Don't touch that dial! KACL is beck and hotter then ever with O.J. Wendy Grundstrom at the control board. (photo by P. Holmes)

AWS: MOTHER-DAUGHTER WEEKEND

* Nov. 15th and 16th
Spend time with your mom!
Be a part of it, Sign up in the Cafe in mid Oct. Look for more details.
* Sponsored by A.W.S. *

RUNNING SCARED

A TURMAN FOSTER COMPANY PRODUCTION
A PETER HYAMS FILM
"RUNNING SCARED" STEVEN BAUER Music by ROD TEMPERTON Screenplay by GARY DEVORE and JIMMY HUSTON
Executive Producer PETER HYAMS Produced by DAVID FOSTER and LAWRENCE TURMAN Directed by PETER HYAMS

October 4th

All movies shown 7 & 9 p.m. in the forum.
Admission $1

What do you hate? Let us hear from you. Drop off your ideas in the "Don't you hate it..." Box in the SUB. Deadline is Fridays by 5 p.m.

REDUCE YOUR STUDENT BODIES.

Penguin's frozen yogurt tastes just like ice cream. But it has less than 1/2 the calories. So visit Penguin's soon. And use this coupon for any small, medium or large cup of yogurt.

VERY LOW CALORIE FROZEN YOGURT
1344 N. Moorpark Rd. Exp. 11-8-86
(4 Doors from Ralph's)

October 10 & 11
m. In the forum

Was it
COLONEL MUSTARD THE CONSERVATIVE
THE BUTLER THE KITCHEN THE BALLROOM
THE STUDY THE DINING ROOM THE LOUNGE
THE BILLIARD ROOM THE REVOLVER
THE LIBRARY THE KNIFE
THE HALL THE LEAD PIPE THE WRENCH
In the With the ?
THE
THE ROPE THE CANDLESTICK
THE LEAD PIPE THE WRENCH More

CLUB
IT'S NOT JUST A GAME ANYMORE

[illegible]

EXP. 11-3-96

STUNNED. Mount Saint Mary's players are frozen as Cal Lutheran's Wendy Christensen and Jamie Sherr block the ball down. CLU went on to win the match in three games, 15-9, 15-8 and 15-10. The win evened the Regals record at 9-9. On Thursday, the netters play Westmont in a league match at CLU at 7:00 p.m. (photo by Paul Holmes)

False start for Regals at UCSD

By Monique Roy
Echo Staffwriter

It had a promising beginning. It really looked like they had a shot at the winner's bracket. Then the Regals came down to earth with a crash.

Cal Lutheran's women's volleyball team won their first match in the University of California, San Diego Tournament, beating Chapman College, 15-13 and 16-14.

If the Regals had lost, they probably would have faced teams like Point Loma Nazarene College and Azusa Pacific University, both NAIA Division III teams and probably victories for CLU. Instead, Cal Lu was pitted against host UCSD, who has been picked in the preseason polls as the number one team in the NCAA Division III this season. The Regals lost in two games, 10-15 and 11-15. Cal State Dominguez Hills, another NCAA team, beat CLU next, 8-15, 13-15, to close out the first day's action.

The next day was not much better. After losing to Cal State Northridge, a powerful NCAA team, 8-15 and 7-15, the Regals found that they were the seventh seed in the tournament and were in the consolation bracket, playing for sixth place at best.

This was to be expected with a 1-3 record, but the team CLU beat, Chapman, was the third seed and playing in the winner's bracket, after scoring victories over lesser opponents.

Azusa Pacific University was the first team that Cal Lu faced and the Regals found themselves a win, 15-7 and 17-15. The lady netters then had to face CSU, Dominguez Hills, a second time, and lost a hard fought match, 5-15, 15-8 and 14-16. The loss dropped their record to 9-9 overall for the season, and left them in seventh place in the tournament.

With a number of league matches scheduled in the next few weeks, the Regals "...have a lot of undeveloped potential and we have to find a way to tap it," according to junior setter Cindy Jorgensen. "I think that the keys to our season are that we need to be more consistent, keeping a positive attitude, and working as a team with each player reaching their maximum potential. Those are really the keys to any team."

Ann Jettles, a freshman, believes that the Regals are already ahead of some other teams in another aspect.

"We don't have any personal problems with each other, like a lot of other teams do," said Jettles. "We all get along extremely well. Some people say that you can leave personal problems behind when you step onto the court, but that's not really true. You bring everything onto the court and problems just hurt you out there."

Runners place fifth at Westmont

By Karl Nilsson
Echo Staffwriter

Co-captain Art Castle led CLU's men's cross country team to a fifth place finish at the eighth annual Westmont College Invitational, last Saturday. Castle, the team's only senior, had a 26:13 time to place first on the 5.2 mile course.

"Art really ran a great race," commented veteran coach Don Green.

Sophomore Tim Braatz was the second Kingsmen to finish. He ran the course in 28:51 and finished 31st overall.

Co-captain Eric Crump did well, with a 29:28 time and 39th place finish. Gary Aswegen had the best time among CLU's many freshmen, finishing 48th in 29:48.

"I did have a good day...It's building my confidence," stated Aswegen, a graduate of Hilltop High in Chula Vista, where he was the number one runner on the cross country team.

Fifteen teams and 103 runners competed at Westmont, which sports one of the toughest courses the Kingsmen will run on all year.

"That course is a killer," commented Green.

Cal Lu's fifth place finish is a promising one as they continue to prepare for district competition Nov. 1.

"It they all continue to improve, we'll do good in districts," predicted Green. Castle continued to sparkle with his win. He finished third in the first meet at Cal State Fullerton and placed first at the Chapman Invitational.

"Every race I've run well; it shows consistency," remarked Castle, as he works to improve, so he can make a legitimate bid at becoming a NAIA All-American.

"All of the top guys improved tremendously," Green said. "It's gratifying to know that their hard work is paying off."

The Kingsmen's next meet is the Cal State Bakersfield Invitational this Saturday. Only three more meets after Bakersfield will be held before the NAIA District III Championships on Nov. 1.

Bonds' scare not serious

By John Garcia
Echo Staffwriter

"We played really well until there was 3:38 left in the third quarter."

These were the words of CLU football coach Robert Shoup describing his team's play against Cal State Hayward, last Saturday. "That's when Hayward took the lead," Shoup continued, as the Kingsmen lost, 29-17.

Along with losing the lead in the third quarter, Cal Lu also lost their quarterback, Tom Bonds, for two to three weeks with a sprained knee. Bonds was hit early in the third quarter after he had thrown a pass.

"From that point on we weren't very effective on offense," Shoup said.

Before Bonds left he had completed 11 of 23 passes for 89 yards. One pass that Bonds completed was a 15 yard touchdown pass to Tracy Downs early in the second quarter to put the Kingsmen up, 7-0.

Replacing Bonds were freshmen Shane Hawkins and Jeff Chalmers. Hawkins, who had played in the first two games, completed only one pass for negative yardage before Chalmers got the call.

Chalmers completed eight of 20 passes for 96 yards, including a 24 yard touchdown to Joe Fuca in the fourth quarter.

"He's good. For a freshman he has tremendous poise and a great arm," Fuca said.

Fuca caught three passes for 50 yards while Gary Grant pulled in four for 43 yards. On the ground, Neal Chesnut ran for 39 yards on 11 carries.

The offensive line did not let the Panthers to the quarterback for the first sackless game in a while.

Defensively, CLU gave up less than 40 yards rushing in the first half, as Cal State Hayward ran for a total of 169 yards.

Next up on the Kingsmen agenda is their Western Football Conference opener at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Saturday.

"We have tremendous respect for Cal Poly," Shoup notes. "They have a tremendous program with rich traditions."

CSLO is 1-1 after beating Chico State, 26-18, and losing to U.C. Davis, 32-21. The Mustangs were idle last week.

Jim Gledhill, CSLO's running back, has 186 yards on 51 carries and two touchdowns.

Their quarterback, Robert Perez, has hit 33 of his 61 passes for 493 yards and a touchdown. Perez has also thrown three interceptions.

Cal Poly is located up Highway 101 from Cal Lu, about a two hour drive. The game starts at 7 p.m. in Mustang Stadium (8,000 capacity).

The Mustangs leads the series, 4-1.

California Lutheran's women's basketball team is having a Penguin's night on October 13 from 7:00 p.m. - closing. Come support the Running Regals.

New video tape on market...

THE LEARNING ASSISTANCE CENTER WHERE "LAC MEANS MORE"

APPOINTMENT TIMES (Freshmen, be sure to make your appointments)

| MONDAYS | TUESDAYS | WEDNESDAYS |
|-------------------------|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| Oct. 6 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 7 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 1 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 13 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 14 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 8 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 20 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 21 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 15 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 27 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 28 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 22 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| | | Oct. 29 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |

Scorecard

Westmont College Invitational

5.2 mile course

Individual

| | |
|----------------------|----------|
| 1. Art Castle | 28:15.16 |
| 31. Tim Braatz | 28:37.97 |
| 38. Eric Crump | 29:28.76 |
| 43. Gary Aswegen | 29:48.09 |
| 52. Paul Wenz | 30:16.41 |
| 56. Thomas Ball | 30:39.40 |
| 62. Ian Jackson | 31:38.38 |
| 78. Richard Montalvo | 33:43.24 |
| 90. Martin Minter | 35:06.07 |

Team

| | |
|-----------------------|----------|
| Westmont | 73 pts. |
| Santa Clara | 78 pts. |
| Cal State Bakersfield | 103 pts. |
| Siola | 109 pts. |
| Cal Lutheran | 171 pts. |

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | FINAL |
|-----------------|---|----|---|----|-------|
| Cal Lutheran | 0 | 10 | 0 | 7 | 17 |
| Cal St. Hayward | 2 | 6 | 8 | 13 | 29 |

CSH-Safety ball snapped out of end zone
CLU-Downs 15 pass from Bonds (Lohsa kick)
CSH-Williams 25 pass from Neal (pass failed)
CLU-FG Lohsa 28
CSH-Williams 8 pass from Neal (Neal pass to Mobley)
CSH-Matthews 1 run (kick failed)
CSH-Neal 10 run (Nassar/puntorial kick)
CLU-Fuca 24 pass from Chalmers (Lohsa kick)

Western Football Conference

| (overall) | W | L | T | Pct. | PF | PA |
|----------------|---|---|---|-------|-----|-----|
| Northridge | 3 | 0 | 1 | 1.000 | 92 | 24 |
| S. Utah St. | 4 | 1 | 0 | .800 | 189 | 101 |
| Cal Lutheran | 2 | 1 | 0 | .667 | 85 | 49 |
| Sacramento St. | 1 | 1 | 1 | .500 | 81 | 77 |
| Cal Poly SLO | 1 | 1 | 0 | .500 | 47 | 50 |
| Santa Clara | 1 | 2 | 0 | .333 | 57 | 95 |
| Portland St. | 1 | 2 | 0 | .333 | 51 | 115 |

Saturday

Cal LUTHERAN at Cal Poly SLO, 7 p.m.
Santa Clara at CS Hayward, 1 p.m.

Northridge at S. Utah State, 7 p.m.
Humboldt St. at Portland St., 7 p.m.
Sacramento St. at Chico St., 7 p.m.

Cafeteria complaints are proven negotiable

By Shanandoah M. Gale
Echo Staffwriter

Through the Food Committee, we, the student body, can take a very active role in deciding what is available for us to eat. Instead of constantly "constructively" criticizing the cuisine in the cafeteria, make yourself heard!

The Food Committee has been around for at least the past twenty years. Meetings are held every other Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the upper cafeteria. "I invite anyone who is interested to come to the meetings and give their suggestions," says Lil Lopez, director of Food Service.

Deanna Hubbard said, "I joined the Food Committee because I want the cafeteria to serve the kind of food I want to eat." Some of the changes that have been made in the past are: low cal dressing, fruit in the morning, granola, varying dinner menus, and those great ethnic dinners with the cute señoritas greeting people at the front door.

"Cost is the biggest factor when considering a menu," said Lil. "If people didn't waste so much food, there would be more ice cream during the week. Instead of taking six glasses of milk, take two. And if you want, come back for more."

So, I bet you are thinking,

All students are invited and encouraged to attend the Food Service Committee meetings. Director of Food Service Lil Lopez is open to suggestions and recipes from home.

"Sure, this is really going to work. I'll go to this meeting and suggest we have prime rib every other week." Well, you are right, it probably will not work, unless, of course, you provide the prime rib. However, the fact remains that there is a committee that is willing to listen to suggestions. "Sure, bring in your favorite recipe from home and we'll see what we can do," encourages Lil.

So, the next time you find yourself complaining about the food, stop and realize that you can voice your opinion every other Tuesday, 4 p.m. in the upper cafeteria.

The Associated Students of California Lutheran University

echo

Vol. XXVII No.4

October 15, 1986

NON-PROFIT ORG
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
THOUSAND OAKS,
CALIFORNIA
PERMIT NO. 68

Interim offers unique opportunities

By Kathie Beeson
Echo Staffwriter

"Opportunity" seems to be the best word to describe Interim at CLU, an opportunity that we are all given in order to explore a variety of educational experiences that are not normally available during the regular semester.

In other words, four weeks to take a course that actually interests you! One that is not listed under that horrible term: "Requirements for the major". What is the reason for this welcomed break in the monotonous school year?

Interim was started in the early seventies as an experimental program. The idea was to offer courses, during a one-month period, that would be very difficult to offer during the regular semester. A chance for "experiencing things that normally you just don't have the time or opportunity to do," said Dr. Jon Boe, director of the Interim. Although Interim is a requirement for most of us, it is actually a required "break" for all of us. A requirement to stop thinking about everything that is required. However, there are a few courses from the regular curriculum offered in order to provide flexibility in student programming.

"If students are only taking one course, you can count on them being available for field trips..." said Boe, whereas during the regular semester, you try to plan a field trip and no one can fit it into their busy schedule. "It enables you to really concentrate within a certain area," Boe believes.

The number and types of Interim courses are chosen carefully. The students are not without a say in this.

At the end of each Interim, the courses are evaluated by the students and, "...generally, without exception, the students will say, 'I like this course,'" declares Boe. But as always, there are a few who don't appreciate this unique opportunity, and see Interim only as another word within the requirements for graduation.

It is true, there are certain requirements that go along with Interim: Students entering CLU as freshmen must take 3 Interim courses, including 2 Basic Interim courses; entering sophomores must take 2 Basic Interim courses; entering juniors must take 1 Basic Interim course; and for entering seniors, Interim is optional.

Interim courses are titled Basic, Core, or Major. Basic courses include travel courses and are designed for broad student appeal. These courses count as upper division units toward graduation.

Core courses are designed with the intent of fulfilling CLU distribution requirement (general requirements regardless of major). Major courses are designed to enhance the major.

You may also choose a work career study course, and, if you are a junior or a senior, you may choose independent study. Proposal forms for these courses are available at the Registrar.

The theme chosen for Interim this year is "Extended Families...Shared Lives." Students are given the opportunity to learn about commitments beyond themselves; about members, as Carl Sandburg said, of "one big family hugging close to the ball of earth for its life and being." Along with on-campus courses, several travel courses have been designed to consider various aspects of this theme. You may travel to Mexico, the Soviet Union, the British Isles, Scandinavia, Africa and Spain, Paris, or New Guinea and Australia. These courses are open to all students and you can get further information from the instructor of the course, listed in the Interim Catalog.

If traveling out of the U.S. is not appealing to you, or to your bank account, Interim courses are offered at many schools throughout the U.S. through an exchange program.

Help hungry through Bread for the World

By Shanandoah M. Gale
Echo Staffwriter

"Bread for the World is a grass roots stance against hunger in our own as well as other countries," says Becky Myers, co-leader (along with Kim Poast and Gerry Swanson) of Bread for the World.

Bread for the World is made up of everyday citizens of varying occupations and backgrounds. It is not generally found on a college campus. So Cal Lutheran students have a unique opportunity to join in the fight against hunger.

Activities of the group are mostly politically oriented. For example, letter writing, personal visits and phone calls. A monthly newsletter is received by CLU's group that keeps them in touch with the national Bread for the World.

"One goal for this year is to become more active in changing legislation, again in writing letters, making personal visits, and phone calls. Another goal is to become more aware of and make more visible hunger in our own community. Our own community being Thousand Oaks and Ventura County," says Myers.

Last year there were about ten continually active members. So, if you have an interest in helping those who are hungry, or are curious in finding out more about Bread for the World, feel free to attend the meetings which will be held every other Wednesday, 4:30 p.m., location to be announced.

Cal Lutheran students are naturally supportive of their Kingmen athletes, as is demonstrated at last Saturday's football game. To see how outstanding all of the CLU athletic teams are during this season, see pages 7 and 8.

homecoming...

"Celebrate Good Times"
Homecoming 1986

Schedule of Events

- Friday, October 24
7:00 p.m. Coronation Ceremony
Auditorium
- Saturday, October 25
10:30 a.m. Homecoming Parade
11:30 a.m. Picnic in the Park
1:00 p.m. Dedication of Alumni Hall
Alumni Hall
2:00 p.m. CLU Kingmen vs. Portland St.
Mt. Clef Stadium
8:00 p.m. Homecoming Dance
Entertainment — Van Gogh

The following are the nominees for the 1986 Homecoming Court:

Freshman

1. Gina Gallagher
2. Beth Hyland
3. Kira Raitz

Sophomore

1. Kirsten Dorn
2. Jeanne Thompson
3. Michelle Villa

Junior

1. Cathy Bachman
2. Larree Carnes
3. Gretchen Gramham

Senior

1. Susie Aschbrenner
2. Eva Blake
3. Becky Saunders
1. Jim Byrne
2. Chuy Gonzales
3. Eric Groff

GARFIELD®

by Jim Davis

Students surveyed on personal priorities

The nation's college students are more conservative in their attitudes about a wide range of subjects than the generation which preceded them, according to the most penetrating survey of college student attitudes ever undertaken.

Student Watch '86, conducted by Simmons Market Research Bureau for the College Stores Research & Educational Foundation, provided for the first time an in-depth look at a separate and important force in America's social/political/economic picture — 12.5 million students with over $20 billion in discretionary annual spending.

Based on responses from 4,349 randomly selected students who answered a 29-page questionnaire, this picture of general attitudes emerged from America's college and university campuses:

Fifty-six percent think sex before marriage is always or sometimes wrong, while 95 percent believe sex outside marriage is always or sometimes wrong, and 69 percent prefer postponing marriage until they have achieved other goals.

Seventy percent believe that cigarettes are harmful and 48 percent indicated they would not even date someone who smokes.

Eighty-four percent think cocaine is harmful and 62 percent believe marijuana use is also unwise, but only 10 percent feel that way about alcohol.

Seventy-three percent favor the death penalty, and 69.9 percent think abortion should be legal.

Respondents expressed their political views and alignment; 37 percent considered themselves Republicans, 31 percent independents, and only 28 percent listed themselves as Democrats.

Doctors, scientists, and professors are highly respected by students. But reporters, government workers, and politicians had better mind their "public image," because 60 percent, 47 percent and 70 percent, respectively, of students had little or no trust in these professions.

Sixty-nine percent of the students said religion was important to varying degrees in their lives, and 26 percent said they attended religious services at least once a week; 51 percent attend at least once a month.

When it comes to discretionary spending, 61 percent said they had $100 per month or more to spend. Nineteen percent in that group has between $50-249 and another 19 percent spend $250 or more. Largest dollar expenditures by students during the school year were at the college store, with a median of $248.61.

Ninety-six percent said they spent more money on clothing during the past school year than on any other category — with a median expenditure of $187.40. Four percent of all discretionary income was spent on health and beauty aids.

In other survey highlights, 56 percent have and use bank credit cards, 41 percent have borrowed money to attend college, and 86 percent have savings accounts. College students are owners of high-priced items as well: Sixteen percent have a new car, 39 percent purchased a used car; 78 percent own a television set, 66 percent a stereo system; 36 percent a 35mm camera; and 17 percent a computer.

news briefs...

A vacation in Maui to a helicopter tour of the California coastline. You can bid on these plus many other exciting opportunities at COMMOTION Goes International — the annual auction.

Don't miss this event of the Community Leaders Club at the Westlake Plaza Hotel on Saturday, November 1. The action begins at 5 p.m. with a silent auction and no-host reception, followed by an international buffet dinner at 6:45. The oral auction gets underway at 8 p.m. with auctioneer Ray Bleuau presiding. Tickets are $35 and must be purchased in advance. Contact the University Relations Office, ext. 3151, today!

Dr. William O. Rieke, president of Pacific Lutheran University, will be the guest speaker when the Convocation of California Lutheran University meets on the campus on Founder's Day, Friday, Oct. 17.

The Convocation is composed of 100 members and represents the ownership of the University with elected representatives from the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church of American-Pacific Southwest Synod.

Dr. Rieke will address an all-university convocation at 10 a.m. in the gym/auditorium, speaking on this year's theme, "A New Time."

Dedication of the statue of Martin Luther in the library circle will immediately follow the Convocation Friday morning.

Created by Professor Emeritus of Art, Sir Bernardus Weber, the statue is a gift of the first graduating class of 1964 to the University. The bronze statue will stand at the entrance of Pearson Library, reaching 15 feet above a three-tiered pedestal and weighing 4,875 pounds.

Intern Pastor Janet Palmer will deliver the homily for chapel services on Wednesday, October 15, at 10 a.m. in the Preus-Brandt Forum.

Planning has begun for the annual Creative Options: Day for Women to be held Saturday, March 7, 1987, at Cal Lutheran. Proposals for workshop leaders are now welcomed by the planning committee.

If you have a current women's issue or topic you would like to present in a workshop for this all-day event, application/proposals/forms are available in the Women's Resource Center, E-9, or at the switchboard in Alumni Hall.

The deadline for turning in proposals is October 24. For further information call Kathryn Swanson, director of the Women's Resource Center, ext. 3345.

Hearing Board is activated

By Jack Stewart
Echo Staffwriter

The University Hearing Board, formerly the All College Hearing Board, has a new position of Judicial Peer Advisor, who acts as counsel for the student.

"I think it's a position that has been long needed. All the input that I have gotten back from both faculty and students has been positive," said Kim Shean, the Judicial Peer Advisor.

The other major change is the two students who sit on the board are drawn from a pool of four students. (There is also a similar arrangement for faculty this year.) In the past, at times it has been difficult to convene the board because of conflicting schedules. It is hoped this change will solve that problem.

The following people have been appointed to the University Hearing Board by Tamara Hagen, President of the Associated Students of Cal Lutheran, and approved by the Senate: Kurt Lohse, junior, James Roach, senior, Elke Suess, freshman, and Michele Bartleson, freshman.

The University Hearing Board is where a student can appeal the decision of the Dean of Students, Ronald Kragthorpe. The Board then makes a recommendation to the Dean who is not obligated to follow the recommendation of the Board but always has done so in the past.

The Board represents an outside and objective opinion. Since, according to Shean, about 80 percent of disciplinary problems are alcohol related and the Dean may have seen a particular student fifteen or more times, the Dean values the opinion of the Board.

The addition of the position of judicial peer advisor came out of a review of the judicial system done in Professor Doyle's Philosophy and Behavior class last semester. It was a change suggested by the students to make the system more fair.

RESEARCH PROBLEMS?

Call Dr. Arnold
(213) 447-5493
All levels...all subjects
Foreign students welcome

FREE Pregnancy Tests

An unexpected pregnancy can be a hard thing to face...
...WE CAN HELP.

Referral Services • Confidential Help • 24-Hour Hotline
M-W 9am-3pm Th 12pm-6pm
T-F 9am-12pm Sat 10am-1pm

Conejo Valley
Crisis Pregnancy Center
1421 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd. Ste. 11 (Village Motel Plaza)
(805) 373-1222

ANNOUNCING:

PLAYBOY'S

College Fiction Contest

FIRST PRIZE:

$3,000 and publication of the winning story in a future issue of PLAYBOY magazine.

SECOND PRIZE:

$500 and a one-year subscription to PLAYBOY magazine.

DEADLINE FOR ENTRIES:

January 1, 1987

ADDRESS ALL ENTRIES TO:

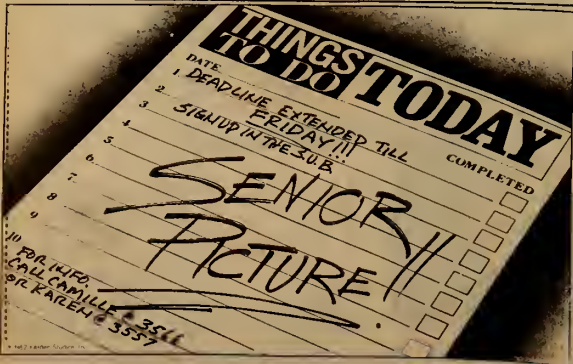

PLAYBOY COLLEGE FICTION CONTEST
919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611

JUDGES:

The editors of PLAYBOY magazine. All decisions are final.

CONTEST RULES

1. No purchase necessary. 2. Contest is open to all college students. No age limit. Employees of Playboy Enterprises, Inc., its agents, affiliates and families are not eligible. 3. To enter, submit your typed, double-spaced manuscript of 25 pages or less, with a 3 x 5 card, listing your name, age, college affiliation, and permanent home address and phone to PLAYBOY COLLEGE FICTION CONTEST, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Only one entry per person. All entries must be original works of fiction. All entries must be postmarked by January 1, 1987. PLAYBOY's standard for quality. PLAYBOY reserves the right to withhold prizes if the submitted entries do not meet PLAYBOY's usual standards for publication. All decisions of the judges are final. 5. Winning contest entry (30) days of notification. In the event of non-compliance within this time period, alternate winners may be selected. Any prize notification letter or any prize returned to Playboy Enterprises, Inc., and winning story for publication. 7. Entry authorizes use of any prize winner's name, photograph and biographical information by Playboy Enterprises, Inc., without further compensation to the winner.

Guest editorial

James Buchner

Aid is answer

How can anyone in this country even begin to understand the situation in Nicaragua until he has lived there? We cannot rely on the media for our information because it is often inaccurate and biased. I have long believed that the American people are not getting the true story and are thus ignorant when it comes to Central American affairs.

I would like to share with you a personal account from a Nicaraguan woman with whom I was fortunate enough to meet and talk with. Mira had lived in Nicaragua until last year when she barely escaped to the safety of the United States.

While in Nicaragua she was caught reading a copy of La Prensa (an opposition newspaper that has since been shut down by the Sandinistas). She was accused of anti-government sentiments and was told that she would die that night. The door to her home was marked with blood indicating that she would be visited by a death squad. Mira dug a hole in the dirt floor of her home and hid there. That night the death squad came and proceeded to fire into her house with machine guns. Three hours later Mira escaped taking nothing but the clothes on her back. Eight months later she arrived in Texas and is currently living in Ventura County with some of her relatives. Mira is evidence of the oppression and violence of the Sandinistas that certain people in this country still deny. What makes these people think they are experts on Nicaragua when they have not even lived there is a mystery to me.

Mira still has family living in Nicaragua. She hopes that some day she will be able to return to her home. But she knows as long as the Sandinistas are in power she cannot go back. She feels that the United States needs to help bring about change in her country and that the Contras are the way to doing it. The Contras, she says, want to bring democracy to her country but they cannot do it if America does not help them. She told me that the Soviet Union is the main trading partner with Nicaragua and that they supply the Sandinistas with the weapons that are used against the Contras and by the death squads.

It is clear to me that America cannot turn it's back on the people of Nicaragua and those fighting for it's freedom. These people want to bring democracy to their country. They do not wish to have a Soviet backed tyranny in which all the freedoms that we in America enjoy are continually denied.

Correction -

Last week's editorial concerning English only ballots was erroneously attributed to Charles Grubb. The actual name of the writer is Charles Grogg.

— Opinion Editor

GUESSES?

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Student cites 'strict' enforcement

Discipline policies questioned

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter so that I may pass on some of the comments that I have received following my editorial from the October 3 issue of the Echo.

First, I would like to make a factual correction to my previous letter. I stated that the owners of CLU, the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America, were responsible for the dry campus policy. I have been informed that the responsibility for this policy is in fact the Board of Regents of CLU. Other schools owned by the church have more liberal policies regarding alcohol.

Here at CLU, it is generally accepted that the de facto rule is a "closed door" policy. If you are not disturbing anyone else, you should not have to worry about being "written up."

The reason that I felt that this letter was necessary is to comment on the fact that the alcohol policy is being enforced. In some halls, the Resident Assistants have become police agents of the administration instead of assistants to the residents.

The quotes and accounts that follow are anonymous, and the halls are not given by name. I do not have to be specific in order to make my point.

In the days since my first letter was published, I have talked to many students regarding the alcohol issue. No one I talked with disagreed with the content of my letter, but many are unhappy with the unfair enforcement of the policy.

Now that we are well along into the semester, the reputations of each of the halls have made their way across campus. Some halls are considered liberal, and others are strictly conservative. Residents of the more "conservative" halls were much more vocal about their feelings than the residents in the "liberal" residences.

I have heard accounts from students who have been "written up" while asleep or in the shower. One resident commented, "It's like the R.A.'s have chips on their shoulders."

It is rumored that one resident hall had more than 30 residents "written up" in one weekend. Other halls cannot claim that many since school began.

My quarrel is not the policy, but the enforcement. The function of Resident Assistants should be to assist the residents. In some halls, it seems that the R.A.'s function more as police officers than assistants.

Some students have commented that they are afraid to laugh or have any fun in their rooms, for fear of being told to quiet down by the R.A.'s. This fear is evident as one walks through each of the halls. In some of the "liberal" halls, the atmosphere is much more relaxed, and the sounds of people can be heard. In others, though, the tension is obvious.

...the RA's have become police agents of the administration...

Greene

When I asked some R.A.'s what their primary function was, I noticed an interesting phenomenon. In the halls that are considered "conservative," the R.A.'s stated that their primary goal had turned out to be "to enforce the rules in the compendium." In other halls, the R.A.'s felt their primary goal was to "promote a social atmosphere."

My only fear in writing this letter is that the administration will begin to pressure the Head Residents or R.A.'s of the "liberal" halls to become more conservative. My hope is that the powers that be will take a walk through the halls, and feel the difference in the atmosphere.

College is a place to grow, both intellectually and socially. Many things grow better in a warm, friendly atmosphere than in a cold, strict environment.

The "liberal" halls are allowing their residents an outlet for their frustrations and energy. The "conservative" halls are not offering their residents this opportunity.

I am not advocating a revolution, but the administration should be concerned. History shows clearly that oppressed people tend to revolt, while the more relaxed societies are much more peaceful. Some halls here at CLU are a powder keg, and the spark may come at any time.

Jim Greene

1986-87 Echo Staff

Editor-in-Chief: Joanna Dacanay

Managing Editor: Kirsten Brown

News Editor: Michelle Villa

Opinion Editor: Roger Niebolt

Editorial Cartoonist: Greg Meyers

Feature Editors: Tamara Van Hoose, Michelle Small

Sports Editors: John Garcia, Monique Roy

Staffwriters: Maral Amoghlian, Kristina Carlson, Eric Groff, Chris Smith, Cristina Barber, Jeff Birk, Shenan Gale, Jim Greene, Mila Hiles, Greg Maw, Karen E. Johnson, Tracy Luper, Karl Jennings, Xiao-Nan Liu, Jack Stewart, Cheryl Almond, Chris Caracalas, Cassi Kyman, Fred Stahl, Lisa Ritts, Monica Ortiz, Denise Morrison, Kristin Enge, Jeff Kroeker, Tracy Yingling, James Buchner

Photo Lab Director: Paul Holmes

Photographers: Mark Horwitz, Tracy Yingling, Denise Hubbard, Deanna Hubbard, Dawn Baca

Ad Manager: Wayne Sacheli

Ad Layout: Jim Molina-manager, Jennifer Nelsen, Camille Collins

Distribution Manager: Teresa Burgoyne

Student Publications Commissioner: Camille Collins

Adviser: Gordon Cheesewright

Typesetters: Suzanne Campbell, Karma Lively, Rhonda Mulanax, Marri Spletter

Opinions expressed in this publication are those of the writers and are not to be construed as opinions of the Associated Students of the University.

Editorials, unless designated, are the expression of the editorial staff. Letters to the Editor must be signed and may be edited according to the discretion of the staff and in accordance with technical limitations.

The CLU ECHO is the official student publication of California Lutheran University.

Publication offices are located in the Student Union Building, 60 W. Olsen Road, Thousand Oaks, California 91360. Business phone 493-3465. Advertising rates will be sent upon request.

In regards to...Joanna Dacangay

Cafeteria equality

I didn't really think I was upset enough to make an issue out of a certain experience that I had in our infamous cafeteria, but after learning that a good deal of people had been affected, the need for inquiry was long overdue. The experience took place well over three weeks ago, and for the sake of setting the scene, during the early weeks of the football season.

Realizing that a Denny's experience was out of the question due to the fact that the amount of money that floated between my roommates and I couldn't buy a stamp, our only alternative was to visit the cafeteria on our Saturday morning meal.

We expected the same course selection — scrambled eggs, sausage links, donuts — you know what I'm talking about.

Well, this particular morning, my roommates and I ventured on to the toast-your-own toast side of the serving line (where you can also find the ice cream pit and the ignite your own hot chocolate) and saw, much to our surprise, freshly scrambled eggs, shapely and round sausage patties and fruit cocktail.

What a nice treat, we agreed. We were soon to be awakened to the true perspective of the situation.

Like little kids getting their hands slapped trying to get a bit of frosting off a cake, as soon as we picked up the spoon to get some of the fruit cocktail, the young cafeteria attendant swiftly barked us away, saying, "This is only for the football team!"

"How unfair," we thought. Do they (the football team) pay extra for such treatment? Don't we pay enough to have this kind of variety offered to us at least once in a while?

One student went so far as to ask the person in charge what the deal was. He was given the explanation that football players, or more generally, athletes, were treated to food like that because they needed it for energy.

The more obvious question that was asked next was "Do they have to pay anything extra?" No.

I don't see myself as a person who would find an argument in such a seemingly petty thing like this, but when I hear that people fib and say that they're on the team just to get at the good stuff, I begin to wonder whether being an athlete is a valid excuse for causing such behavior.

Dear Editor:

About September 24, a ficus benjamina tree in a white plastic pot was stolen from in front of my front door. I live across from the swimming pool, or rather the recently moved Petersen House. I bought the tree nine years ago when my son Benjamin was born. Over the years they have "watched" each other grow taller and taller, with the plant always the winner. Benjamin has been waiting for the day when he would finally be taller than his namesake plant. Unfortunately, now he will not see that day because some thoughtless college student stole his tree—probably to decorate a dorm room and die there.

Our only hope is that at least you take care of our ficus benjamina, that you allow it to continue to grow, and that perhaps you will return it to us when you go home for vacation.

Georgia and Benjamin
Derr
82 Faculty Street

ECHO Letter Policy

The Echo welcomes letters of divergent opinion. All letters must be signed with legitimate signatures. Letters to the Editor should usually be under 250 words, in good taste and free of libelous material.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters without changing the content.

Letters to the editor have a deadline of Friday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box.

Letters which contain charges of allegations against identifiable individuals or campus offices or campus organizations or campus clubs should be shown to the person or institution charged, and that person or institution shall be given the right to reply in the same Echo issue.

- the reply must be submitted by Saturday, 5 p.m. in the Echo box or given to the editorial page editor;
- the reply may only answer charges raised by the initial letter;
- the reply may not exceed the length of the original letter

Thoughtless

ASCLU Pres. Tamara Hagen

Senate additions

ASCLU has gotten off to a good start. Plans are underway for homecoming (October 25), as well as possible solutions to the parking situation in the Old West area.

We are joined by four newly elected freshmen officers. Congratulations Tiffany Mims (President), Kelly Ingram (Vice President), Beth Hyland (Secretary), and Tracy Yingling (Treasurer). Also congratulations to newly elected commissioners Debbie Osborne (RASC) and Camille Collins (Student Publications).

We are continuing our extended senate. Each class has a commission of ten senate members at large and each executive cabinet member has a commission of five senate members at large. This increases the student senate by 100 students. Although senate members at large are non-voting members they can and are encouraged to voice their opinions at senate meetings. Everyone is welcome to attend senate meetings which are held Wednesdays at 5:00 p.m. in Nygreen 1.

If you have any concerns or if I can help you in any way, feel free to contact me at 493-3462 or come by my office M-F, 2-3:30

Guest editorial... Jeff Birk

Effects of sanctions

"He grew excited. We work for Africa, he said, not for this man or that man. Not for a white man or a black man, but for Africa." Cry the Beloved Country by Allan Paton.

It finally happened. After all the protest, debate and rhetoric. The Republican-controlled Senate voted to override President Reagan's veto of economic sanctions on South Africa. This comes after prolonged public outcry for the U.S. to make something more than a verbal protest against the South African government's racist policy of apartheid.

There should be shouts of joy from every American who has spoken up for disinvestment. With economic pressure (they believe) put on by the U.S. and other countries, South Africa will have to begin to move toward a more just society.

If you're a liberal you could be celebrating the biggest political defeat of Ronald Reagan in a long time. You may look at this as a sign that the Democrats will win back control of the Senate and thus control both houses of Congress by the end of the year.

Yet apartheid is not a liberal cause or a conservative cause. It is a human rights cause. In all honesty, only history may tell how successful the U.S. sanctions will be. And even then history is like a tide pool. The closer you look the more complex it becomes. Who's right and who's wrong is rarely a simple question.

Perhaps progress will be made toward a more just society in South Africa. Then again the sanctions could hurt the blacks in that country more than the whites.

Who's to say how American manufacturers, consumers and farmers will be affected. For even Jesse Jackson, one of the most outspoken supporters of sanctions, expressed doubts, in a recent L.A. Times article, after visiting Africa.

Americans, however, like to know who won and who lost. We have a hard time accepting ties. That may be why we've never really taken to soccer or hockey.

So if there must be a winner, call it American democracy. Africa has something that does not exist in South Africa: a government responsive to the will of the people. How few other places can one find a parliamentary voting against the will of perhaps the most powerful person in the world, even though they're of the same party.

Believe it or not, protesting, petitioning, boycotting, writing letters to Congress and editors really work in America.

Paul Simon, a Congressman from Illinois, once said, "Someone who sits down and writes a letter about hunger almost literally saves a life." One could be more general and say people who choose to care in America can make a difference.

Second thoughts...Roger Niebolt

Discrimination on Campus

All of us have heard the old adage, "Don't judge a book by its cover", but how many of us can really say we try to practice this wisdom in our daily existence? What brings this to mind is the cruel treatment that some people who don't look a certain way receive from our society of appearance oriented cliques.

I speak specifically of some of the comments I overheard at the cafeteria during the first week of school, as everyone was appraising this year's selection of students. I heard things like "Oh, what a dog," and "What a goober."

It is probably human nature to judge people in this manner, but I am afraid to say that this part of our nature can make for some very hurt people.

I hear stories of both male and females who attribute their datelessness to their pimples or some other superficial imperfection. I see people suffer intense feelings of unattractiveness because their build is slightly too big or too skinny. I see people who might not dress according to the newest fashion, and are therefore alienated from the rest of their peers.

I find this sort of "worth by appearance" value system repulsive. Who are we to judge by appearances? We are not perfect; I am the first one to admit I'm not. As a matter of fact there is little room for perfection in our world, for the one perfect man was nailed to a cross. Since we are not perfect, it is very hypocritical of us to label another person a this or a that just by noting physical appearance.

Before we label a fellow human, let us first communicate with him or her. Does that person act ugly or act like a goober? Does that person have less value than you do? I would venture to guess that no; no, that person does not act like what you had originally thought he or she would act.

Did you find some of the wonderful, unique qualities that person has to offer the world? As written in our constitution, all people are created equal. We need to understand though that equal does not mean alike. We all have different qualities and strengths to contribute to the world. One's inner qualities cannot be explored by any other means than communication. A person's appearance is not an accurate indicator of personal warmth, character, or intelligence. We are not transparent, one cannot see through people. To fully appreciate an individual, we cannot just visually appraise him or her, we must get to know the inner person.

It is my hope that we can be a little less image conscious, and begin concentrating on finding out what people are really like on the inside. People come in all different shapes, colors, and sizes, but the character of an individual cannot be surmized from these external characteristics. I am sure that you will find, as I have, that true beauty is found on the inside.

California State Senate

Task Force on Family Equity
Judge Judith McConnell

Chairman
Senate Office of Research
1100 S. Street, Suite 800
Sacramento, CA 95834
(916) 445-1727

Announcement of Joint Hearing on The Economic Consequences of Divorce
The Senate Judiciary Committee and the Senate Task Force on Family Equity will jointly sponsor a public hearing on "The Economic Impact of Divorce."

Time: 9:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Date: Thursday, October 16, 1986

Place: Room 381, Hall of Administration 500 West Temple Street
Los Angeles, CA 90012

For Further Information
Contact: Joanne Schulman
916/445-1727

The games people play

"Bachelor number two — It's really hard for me to get up in the morning. If you were my alarm clock, how would you wake me up?"

"S-L-O-W-L-Y..."

Whether you like to wake up slow or fast, there was something for everyone at the dating game. Of all shapes and sizes, and all personalities, ranging from downright shy to uh...aggressive, eager bachelors and bachelorettes waited with sweaty palms to see if they would meet their girl or guy of their dreams.

Laughter abounded and inhibitions were shed as each contestant tried his or her best to impress. The rules of the game? There weren't many. We all know that whatever works is fair play in the game of baiting and dating.

(photo by L. Snell)

A way with words

© Edward Julius Collegiate CW53-1

ACROSS

- 1 Heutered
- 7 Hunting expedition
- 12 Elaborately decorated
- 14 Shaded walk
- 16 Handyman (hyph.)
- 19 New Zealand mustn't
- 20 Katmandu's country
- 21 These: Sp.
- 22 Chemical substance
- 24 Put in fresh soil
- 25 Satisfy completely
- 27 Dishwasher cycle
- 29 Gullible's HP
- 31 Part of NW
- 32 Type of fisherman
- 34 Most pleasant
- 36 Make — in (tear)
- 38 Map abbreviations
- 43 Used sodium chloride
- 47 American Indian
- 48 — on (urged)
- 50 Irish county
- 51 Horse disease
- 53 Frightful giants

DOWN

- 1 Brief stay
- 2 Rolling grassland
- 3 Antiquated
- 4 Wild an. of Asia
- 5 Prep school near London
- 6 Postpone
- 7 More yellow or sickly looking
- 8 Height abbreviation
- 10 Collect together
- 11 Bureaucratic delay
- 12 Forms thoughts
- 15 State positively
- 17 Initiated
- 18 South American capital (2 wds.)
- 23 Take — at it
- 25 L&AT and GMT
- 26 Meird
- 28 Porterhouse, e.g.
- 31 Store of music
- 35 Man and Capri
- 37 Famous vocalist (2 wds.)
- 39 Volume
- 40 Those who make amends for
- 41 Attendants to an important person
- 42 Fine line on some jetties
- 44 Gave medical care to
- 45 Expungement
- 46 Energetic, hard-working people
- 48 U.S. Indies measure
- 52 Pungs
- 54 Culls
- 57 Asian silkworm
- 59 Organ part
- 62 Bank equipment (abbr.)
- 63 — pro nobis

La puzzle solution

We have specialty shows that include:
Mod, Punk, underground, jazz and Dance on Friday and Saturday night, all night!

Many Give-A-Ways daily including:
Albums, Posters, T-shirts, coupons

For cable hook-up information call:
Jeff 493-3553

Don't you hate it when...

I finally decide to go through the yellow light, and person in front of me chickens out.

You get a message that Dean Kragthorpe's office called for you.

When ice cubes stick to the bottom of your glass.

You wake up and you don't know where you are.

You write on the wall and your pen runs out of ink.

Your gas pump clicks off when you know your car is empty.

Lil serves spaghetti

Your roommates set you up for the mystery dance and then leave town.

AWS: MOTHER-DAUGHTER WEEKEND

* Nov. 15th and 16th

Spend time with your mom!

Be a part of it, Sign up in the Cafe in mid Oct. Look for more details.

* Sponsored by A.W.S. *

PHOTOGRAPHERS NEEDED

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS IS LOOKING FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS FOR
THE ECHO AND KINGS. A PORTFOLIO
IS OPTIONAL. IF INTERESTED
PLEASE CONTACT CAULLEAT
442-3511 OR PAUL AT 493-3551

Pederson Hall

Is there a party going on?

By Xiao-Nan Liu
Echo Staffwriter

For the students living in residence halls, Friday and Saturday are traditional "party nights", but some say Pederson Hall is particularly noisy on weekends.

Vijay Patel, who lives in Pederson, enjoys his dorm life. After a whole week of busy schedules, the weekend is a time for him to relax. "It's great to wake up on a weekend, knowing something exciting awaits me," said Patel.

And what about the notorious weekend noise at Pederson Hall? "I don't think our dorm is especially noisy, after 7 or 8 p.m. it is fairly quiet," said Patel.

It is normal for students to have their "party time" with the usual sounds of stereos, T.V.'s, and loud voices of friends carrying on. This, and the heavier dorm traffic of the weekends makes campus life colorful and fun. "There is always noise, but I haven't heard a lot of complaints," said Gary Jensen, the head resident of Pederson.

Most people who live on campus dorms think the noise level is fine, with the exception of those who want to spend their time studying.

So what about the complaints of noise at Pederson? "It's all in the mind," commented an anonymous resident with Walkman headphones on.

Lisa Shaffer, Laurie Campbell, and Julie Heller share the smiles and fellowship that are a part of Rejoice. (photo by K. Lundeen)

Worship with song

By Kristina Carlson
Echo Staffwriter

At 10 p.m. on Thursday nights when I come out of Nygreen I feel as if I have been renewed and all of my personal conflicts I have been struggling with are solvable matters. What is in Nygreen I that is so special that it can do this for me? It's Rejoice, a group of students who "rejoice" in the Lord.

The upliftment is developed from focusing on the Lord. It is also derived from everything else that Rejoice is. As Steve Stuckey said, Rejoice is "not one set thing. It's made up of a bunch of things that come together...such as friends, fellowship, singing, prayer, sharing, worship and God." With all of these things that Rejoice is there is no wonder that afterwards I am so carefree.

I'm not sure if it's singing with everyone as Sally Housley leads; listening to the strumming of the guitars that Stuckey and Jennifer Simpson play or the feeling of comfort I have in being with people that seem to really care about what's going on in my life that makes me enjoy my experience at Rejoice so much. The reality of it is that it's all three that help me get through the week.

Two and a half years ago Jim Lapp founded Rejoice as a time to give praise to the Lord. Since then this simple purpose has demonstrated numerous benefits as I have explained in my own personal experiences. Today the two main organizers are Housley - the woman with the voice, and Simpson - the guitarist. They have been joined by Stuckey. Together the three are the heartbeat of the group and their enthusiasm is what makes Rejoice what it is.

If you are like I was and feel intimidated by the religious aspect of Rejoice and not wanting commandments thrown in your face, don't be. As Stuckey says, people "shouldn't expect it to be 'churchy'." It's simply "a time to be nourished during the week," a sort of "spiritual cookie."

Climbing on the balcony or dancing in the dark, residents of Pederson Hall, the "noisiest dorm on campus," always find creative ways to make residence life exciting. (photos by L. Snell)

Of echoes and emperors

By D.M. Boyle
Echo Staffwriter

Opening this Friday at the Little Theatre will be the studio series production of Echoes, by N. Richard Nash. The play, which will be directed by returning CLU senior Seth Thompson, has a cast of three: senior Dale Adrien as Sammy, sophomore Kristine Agricola as Tilda, and freshman Rick Middlebrook as "The Person". The play concerns itself with two people who live in a world that is constantly teetering on the border between reality and "pretend".

Performance dates will be Oct. 17, 18 and 19 at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre. Admission is free with a CLU I.D.

Also performing in the Little Theatre this Saturday will be the Childrens Theatre play The Emperor's New Clothes, directed by Ken Gardner.

The cast includes John Signa as the emperor, Megumi Horigome as the Prime Minister, Jennifer Casci as the minister of finance, and Beth Domres and Doug Reese as Sam and Morty the swindling con artists.

The play is the traditional Hans Christian Anderson children's story, with a few twists, about two con artists who convince the emperor that they have a cloth so special, that it is invisible to anyone who is either stupid or unfit to rule. The rest of the story shouldn't be too hard to imagine.

Showtime will be Saturday, Oct. 18 at 1 p.m. in the Little Theatre. (There will also be a performance on Sunday, Oct. 19, at the Thousand Oaks Library at 2 p.m.) Admission is free with a CLU I.D.

Rehearsals for Echoes is well underway, and these actors show us some behind-the-scenes action. (photo by L. Snell)

INTERESTED IN ADVERTISING

GET EXPERIENCE AND HELP BENEFIT YOUR SCHOOL PAPER AT THE SAME TIME!
LEARN HOW TO GET AN ADVERTISEMENT
AND FOLLOW THROUGH WITH A CREDIBLE
A CLEVELAND VALLEY BUSINESS

IF INTERESTED CONTACT CAMILLE EXT. 3544 OR WAYNE EXT. 3522

REDUCE YOUR STUDENT BODIES.

Penguin's frozen yogurt tastes just like ice cream. But it has less than 1/2 the calories. So visit Penguin's soon and use this coupon for any small, medium or large cup of yogurt.

VERY LOW CALORIE FROZEN YOGURT
(1/2 cup or more per 1/2 cup)
652 10-12 CLU

IRONDELL DANGERFIELD
BACK TO SCHOOL

Oct. 24 at 9 p.m. $1 admission
Oct. 25 7 & 9 p.m. — CLU I.D.
Preus-Brandt Forum

YOU'RE ABOUT TO FIND OUT WHY
THE WOMEN OF SHOREHAVEN WOULD KILL RATHER THAN MISS AN APPOINTMENT WITH
DR. BRUCE FLECKSTEIN.

COMPROMISING

Oct. 18
7 & 9 p.m. $1 admission
— CLU I.D.
Preus-Brandt Forum

Castle's bad luck improves his time

By Karl Nilsson
Echo Staffwriter

"I made a bad judgment call," commented Art Castle, the top runner for the CLU men's cross country team. Castle was unable to pass two of his opponents in the final quarter mile at the Biola Invitational last Saturday.

Castle finished third and led the Kingsmen to a 5th place showing with a time of 25:15, his best time ever on the 5.2 mile Biola course.

"It has always been one of those bad luck courses for me," said Castle after improving his course record at Biola by 51 seconds.

"I can't help but believe Castle is the outstanding runner in the NAIA division," said veteran coach Don Green of his team's only senior.

Individually the team members did superb. Co-captain Eric Crump finished 33rd overall in 27:13.

"Crump has been improving over last year," said Green. Crump is assuming the role of the teams second best runner as Tim Braatz has missed the last two meets. Braatz missed the Cal State Bakersfield Invitational for personal reasons and was forced to drop out of the Biola meet because of injury.

All of the other runners for the Kingsmen recorded their best times, sophomore Paul Wenz finished third for the Kingsmen in 28:20. Gary Aswegan led CLU's freshmen with a time of 28:30. Ian Jackson, a junior, finished in 28:38. Freshmen Tom Ball, Richard Montalvo and Martin Minter finished in 30:13, 31:51 and 32:49, respectively.

This Saturday the Kingsmen run in Fresno at the Golden State Athletic Conference meet. This will be the first time CLU will get a look at most of their division rivals.

"We should be 3rd or 4th," said coach Green encouragingly.

"Castle should win the NAIA division," said Green about his number one runner.

Members of Cal Lu Women's Cross Country Team train in Mt. Ciel Stadium. Junior Lori Zackula, third from left, is a candidate for All-American this year after setting a personal best at Biola, with a time of 19:06 on a five kilometer course. (photo by Jim Greene)

Kickers aim for playoffs with a goal in mind

By Tracy Yingling
Echo Staffwriter

Seven wins, two losses, and one tie — that was the Kingsmen's record as of October 4, when they beat Christ College 6-1. Their loss against Westmont College last Wednesday dropped CLU's record to 7-3-1, and their standings in the Golden State Athletic Conference to 0-2.

"With a little luck, we could have come out on top in the league matches," Coach Gary Jensen said, "but I can live with a loss to Westmont. We played hard and it's tough to win up there."

"The team went into the Westmont game psyched for a win," said senior Robert Marti. "We played hard, but we had a tough break."

The loss against Westmont left the

continued on page 8

Injuries don't slow them down much

By Jim Greene
Echo Staffwriter

"We did really well," said Amy Rico of the CLU Women's Cross Country Team, when asked about last week's meet. "I was happy with my race," commented J'ne Furrow.

The Running Regals have been improving both as a team and individually this season. Lori Zackula, the All-American candidate runner, set a personal best record, completing the 5 kilometer course in 19:06. Furrow followed with a 21:41. Rico at 22:28 and Ann Thomas came in at 23:05. Karen Lynse and Mona Frisli were unable to complete the course.

Zackula placed 18th overall, and eighth in the "small school" ranks. Other results were not available at press time.

The women also did well at Westmont on September 27, with Zackula finishing 14th, completing the five kilometer course in 20:29, 1:39 less than her time on the same course last year. Furrow placed 43rd, with a time of 22:32. Thomas checked in at 23:27, Elke Suesh at 24:29, Lynse at 25:21, and Natalie Wenz at 25:23.

"Lori has a good chance of going to Nationals," commented coach Hector Nieves. "Westmont is the favorite to win. Mount St. Mary's is strong, and Azusa Pacific is strong. We have a good chance of placing second in districts."

The one obstacle to overcome is injuries. Lynse was forced to drop out of last week's meet due to a new injury. "We could win districts if everyone was healthy," commented Rico. Suesh has been sidelined for the remainder of the season.

Regardless of the injuries, the Regals are very happy. "Everyone has a good attitude," Zackula commented. "We have a good time," Furrow added. "I think the coach is happy with our performance."

On October 25, CLU will be the site of the CLU Invitational. The race will begin at 9:30 a.m. on the soccer field, and the finish line will be the football stadium.

Long drive leaves Regals flat at Pt. Loma

By Monique Roy
Echo Sports Editor

"For the first two games we were still 'sitting on the bus' as Coach put it," said freshman Jennifer Larson about the Regals match on October 7 vs. Point Loma Nazarene College. CLU's women's volleyball team traveled down to Point Loma and after the first two games they found themselves in a hole, losing 5-15 and 9-15.

"We had a hard time getting moving," said setter Cindie Jorgensen. "We were flat because of the long drive and we weren't really motivated. In the past they've been a really weak team and so maybe in the back of our minds we were thinking it would be (a piece of) cake but they surprised us," she continued.

Coach Carey Snyder commented, "We just never got going. They served us off the court in those first two games. We weren't blocking them or digging up anything. We were flat."

The main thrust of Point Loma's offense came from Lisa Vander Feer, who was voted last week's NAIA player of the week. "She played well and was really effective for them," said Snyder. "She burned up the court."

The third game of the match saw the Regals down again. But they never-said-die and they pulled out the victory 15-9. Cal Lu went on to win the fourth and fifth games 15-10 and 15-5 to gain the victory. Jorgensen said it was in the third game that the team's attitude turned around.

"We realized that we were a better team than they are and it would be ridiculous to give up. We needed to prove it to ourselves and we had a lot to prove," said Jorgensen.

"We made some adjustments," said Snyder. "We flipped our rotation and moved three blockers up front. Vander Feer fizzled out and we started playing better defense. We picked it up."

Freshman Ann Swinehart said that by the fourth and fifth games of the match, "They had exhausted all of their options. They had nothing new and we used what we knew to block them and play defense against them."

Last Thursday, CLU faced Southern California College and won a ho-hum match 15-2, 15-6 and 15-12. The win improved the team's record to 13-9 overall, and gave Cal Lu a 3-1 mark in the Golden State Athletic Conference. The team is currently in second place in the GSAC.

About SCC, Snyder said, "It was a good opportunity for us. Everyone got to play (except freshman Jamie Sharp who has been out with illness the past week). It was good because the rest of our games are going to be tough."

The Regals face defending NAIA District III Champion St. Mary's College tomorrow night at 7:00 p.m. in CLU gym. St. Mary's is currently ranked first in the NAIA District III so it "should be a close match and a hard fought one" as Snyder put it.

Regals Volleyball Stats
Games Against Pt. Loma and SCC

| No. Player | GP | K | TA | PCT |
|----------------------|------|-----|-----|------|
| 8 Bill Kosciusko | 6.5 | 19 | 38 | 50% |
| 9 Ann Swinehart | 7.25 | 4 | 25 | 16% |
| 7 Gloria Philipps | 3.5 | 14 | 14 | 65% |
| 12 Jennifer Larson | 4.0 | 3 | 11 | 27% |
| 3 Ann Jeffers | 4.0 | 4 | 8 | 50% |
| 11 Cindie Jorgensen | 7.0 | 17 | 16 | 65% |
| 4 Kim Schmidt | 6.0 | 11 | 32 | 34% |
| 2 Gaiet Kim | 3.75 | 1 | 2 | 50% |
| 1 Gina Gallagher | 1.25 | 2 | 6 | 33% |
| 6 Cathy Bachman | 1.25 | 1 | 1 | 100% |
| 10 Wendy Christensen | 1.75 | 1 | 8 | 13% |
| 13 Aimee Melikian | 0.75 | 0 | 0 | 0% |
| Team Totals | 77 | 200 | 39% | |

Standings tighten as intramurals close

By Cassi Kyman and Fred Stahl
Echo Staffwriter

It was serious business last Sunday on the soccer field, as both the American and National Leagues took the field for double headers. Teams in both leagues have their eyes set on making the playoffs.

Starting off in the American league, two teams pulled off back to back victories, the Bearded Fish and Jerry's Kids.

The Bearded Fish took the first of their two games by handing The Dizzy Dozen their first loss of the season, 39-18. Craig Keller proved to be the teams greatest asset by tossing the balls even times into the end zone.

The Bearded Fish put the icing on the cake by downing Kramer 44-0. Once again it was all Keller as he unloaded seven more passes, to shut out Kramer. His favorite target was T.J. Bauer, who snatched three passes.

Jerry's Kids breezed through the afternoon by beating the Flying Zambinis, 31-7, and trouncing the Flagellators, 45-0.

The twosome of the day, were John Aguirre and Karl Slattum, connecting for six touchdowns passes. Darren Rancik pulled in an additional five passes.

The National League also had two teams pull off back to back victories, the Spuds and Body Buddies.

The Spuds squeaked by Clueless, 34-33, to win the first of two, but the Bushwhackers didn't prove to be quite a challenge. The Spuds defeated the Bushwhackers 25-14.

continued on page 8

Celebrating 25 Years of Kingsmen Football

SWEATSHIRTS

Adult sizes medium-large extra-large $14.95

Children's sizes extra-small 2-4, small 6-8 $12.95

Our Heroes Are... KINGSMEN

Silver Season Bumper Stickers $1.00

Get your Silver Season Souvenirs Now!

SOLD AT ALL HOME CAMES
or call SUE at 493-3333 days or HELEN at 492-3629 evenings

KICK OFF THE NEW SEASON WITH A FOOTLONG

$1.00 OFF

1296 Moorpark Road
Thousand Oaks
(805) 373-2622

Bring this coupon into SUBWAY, Thousand Oaks, and get one dollar off any meat footlong. Not valid with any other offer.

WE NEED YOU!

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING TO DO??? THE YEARBOOK STAFF NEEDS PEOPLE INTERESTED IN MEETING FRIENDS, GAINING EXPERIENCE, AND HAVING A GOOD TIME, WHILE ...WORKING ON THE YEARBOOK!!!

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Call Karen 493-3559
or Camille 493-3464
493-3566

Matadors march for fourth straight year, 17-3

By John Garcia
Echo Sports Editor

The last time the California Angels went to the playoffs was in 1982. That was four years ago. 1982 was also the last time that the CLU football team beat their geographic rival, Cal State Northridge.

Last Saturday was no different as the Matadors defeated the Kingsmen, 17-3, in their Western Football Conference meeting.

CLU's record dropped to 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the WFC. CSUN improved to 4-1 overall and 1-1 in the WFC.

"We played our hardest and that's all you can ask," said head coach Bob Shoup. "We just didn't have the big play on offense and we made too many mistakes."

Cal Lu's biggest play was a 30 yard pass from Shane Hawkins to Joe Fuca on the Kingsmen's final drive. That drive, as did four other CLU drives, ended in an interception.

Hawkins and Jeff Chalmers were replacing All-American quarterback

Tom Bonds, who was injured two weeks ago. The Kingsmen are 0-3 since Bonds was hurt. Hawkins and Chalmers are both freshmen.

"They're battlers and they play hard," said Shoup. "But their inexperience is really holding them back."

Chalmers completed five of 15 passes for 36 yards and three interceptions, two of which were in the third quarter, only two minutes apart.

Hawkins threw 12 times and had five of his caught by CLU receivers for 64 yards. The Matadors picked off two of Hawkins' passes to end Kingsmen drives.

Shoup noted that one of the bright spots in the Northridge game was the improvement of the running and kicking games.

Noel Chesnut picked up 59 yards on 19 carries, while Tracy Downs gained 40 yards on 12 carries.

Kent Sullivan, who had two terrible games prior to Northridge, averaged 40.9 yards on seven punts, including a 48 yard boot. Kurt Lohse provided Cal

Linebacker Denny Blackburn speaks for the rest of the Kingsmen defense as he tackles a Northridge runner. CLU allowed only 241 yards to CSUN, who had been averaging 346 yards a game. (photo by Mark Horvitz)

Sophomore Noel Chesnut (2) cuts the corner before turning on the speed as he picks up some of the 59 yards against Cal State Northridge last Saturday. Jim Osburn hit prepares to block out a Mustang attacker. (photo by Mark Horvitz)

Lu's only points as he kicked a 40 yards field goal in the third quarter.

While the Matadors did score 17 points, their longest scoring drive was 57 yards, the longest against the CLU defense this season.

"I was really proud of our defense. We certainly put them to the test and they responded with a lot of courage," Shoup said.

Linebacker Sean Demmon led the Kingsmen rush as he made 24 tackles, including a quarterback sack and a pass break up. Nose guard Russell Patterson was in on 17 tackles and also sacked the Northridge quarterback.

In all the Kingsmen defense allowed only 241 total yards to a CSUN team that had been averaging 346 yards.

"We're going to go right out after it again this week against Santa Clara," Shoup said, who lost to Santa Clara last year, 51-23.

Santa Clara, the defending WFC champion, is 1-4 overall and currently on a four game losing streak. Sacramento State beat the Broncos last Saturday, 38-7.

"Santa Clara is well-coached, they have a great quarterback, some outstanding receivers and a good running back," said Shoup.

CLU should also have a "great quarterback" as well, as Bonds is expected to practice this week.

"Tom's return should give this team a great lift," Shoup said. "And he's the type of player who won't let the offense have a letdown."

Greg Calcagno, Santa Clara's quarterback, and bonds finished three and four, respectively, in the WFC last year. This year Calcagno and Bonds are number one and three in the WFC.

The game starts at 2 p.m. in Mt. Clef Stadium.

opportunities," explained sophomore Tim Pellegrino, "but we had enough chances to afford missing a few."

The victory brought their conference record to 1-2, and brought Azusa's down to 3-2. To make it into the playoffs the Kingsmen will have to win their last two conference games, one of which is today against Southern California College.

"If we win against both Southern California College and Point Loma Nazarene College our record will match Azusa's," explained Arreola, "but we'll go to the play-offs because we beat them."

Both games this week are away, but the players don't think it will effect them too much.

"We're a good team," said Arreola, "I think we can win, it doesn't matter that we're going away."

On Saturday, the Kingsmen will face California State University Bakersfield.

"It's not a conference game," said Pellegrino, "so technically it doesn't mean much, but in terms of team spirit — it means a lot!"

"And as for home game support," continued Pellegrino, "I think we owe a thanks to the side-line supporters, but of course there's always room for more."

"The fans create the home field advantage," agreed Arreola. "We have great support; it really makes a difference in team spirit."

Intramurals — Soccer

continued from page 7

Outstanding performances were given by Kevin Warden and Scott Francis. The Body Buddies seemed to have everything going their way. They had two big wins over the Beavers, 47-6, and the Silver Bullets, 38-6. Matt Tisdale had a field day throwing nine touchdown passes on the afternoon.

Teams and spectators alike can look forward to exciting action this Sunday as regular season play comes to an end. Games start at 1 p.m.

Intramural Football Standings

National League

| | |
|--------------------|-----|
| 1. Bearded Fish | 5-0 |
| 2. Jerry's Kids | 5-0 |
| 3. Dizzy Dean | 4-1 |
| 4. Flagellators | 2-3 |
| 5. Flying Zambinis | 2-3 |
| 6. Kramer | 1-4 |
| 7. Freelance Crew | 0-5 |
| 8. The Lu Crew | 0-5 |

American League

| | |
|-------------------|-----|
| 1. Body Buddies | 5-0 |
| 2. Bushwhackers | 4-1 |
| 3. The Spuds | 4-1 |
| 4. The Bevers | 2-3 |
| 5. Clueless | 2-3 |
| 6. Silver Bullets | 2-3 |
| 7. The Doe Doe's | 1-4 |
| 8. K.A.T.'S. | 0-5 |

continued from page 7

Kingsmen in a must-win situation against Azusa Pacific last Saturday, who came into the match with a 3-1 record in the Golden State Conference.

"We have a goal for this season — to make it to the playoffs," explained sophomore Pete Arreola. "If we had lost against Azusa we'd have been shut out from the playoffs."

The Kingsmen did win against Azusa 1-0.

"Everyone was geared for the win," said Arreola. "We might have missed a lot of our offensive

THE LEARNING ASSISTANCE CENTER WHERE "LAC MEANS MORE"

open to everyone 9am-5pm M-F room 134 in the Library

call today 493-3260

APPOINTMENT TIMES (Freshmen, be sure to make your appointments)

| MONDAYS | | TUESDAYS | | WEDNESDAYS | |
|---------|-----------------|----------|-----------------|------------|-----------------|
| Oct. 20 | 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 21 | 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 15 | 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 27 | 4:00, 4:30 p.m. | Oct. 28 | 9:00, 9:30 a.m. | Oct. 22 | 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |
| | | | | Oct. 29 | 6:30, 7:00 p.m. |

CLU's Drama Department Presents:

ECHOES

By
N. Richard Nash

October 17, 18, 19 at 8:00 P.M.

Directed By:
Seth Thompson

Admission $3.00
Free With CLU I.D.

Box Office
493-3410

echo

Vol. XXVII No.5

October 22, 1986

NON-PROFIT ORG.
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
THOUSAND OAKS,
CALIFORNIA
PERMIT NO. 68

ICSN seeks support from CLU

By Jeff Birk
Echo Staffwriter

It could be as little as a quarter a week or as much as $25 a week. All of it goes directly to help the people it's intended to help. There is no big over-head and it can help some truly needy people living as close as 45 minutes away.

Inter Campus Sanctuary Network is seeking people to help support a safe house aiding refugees of the fighting in Guatemala and El Salvador in Los Angeles. They are looking for either one time donations or people who will give a certain amount every month.

The money collected will go to paying rent, food bills, transportation and other expenses for a house in L.A. where immigrants can stay until they can find their feet in this country.

Safe houses are run and supported by volunteers both from Central America and the U.S. concerned in helping the refugees. ICSN is a group found on several local college campuses in the area that support safe houses.

The safe houses attempt to help integrate Guatemalan and the over 400,000 Salvadorians in the L.A. area.

Ron Voss, a CLU student involved with ECSN, explained that because of the tight money situation the ICSN is faced with, CLU donations could make an important difference to the safe house.

So far Voss says that the faculty has been generous in supporting the safe house. He hopes the student body will also be as giving.

"Anybody who wants to help and is concerned in human rights should look into this," said Laurie Cambell, another CLU student involved with ICSN. "It's an easy thing to do that will make a difference."

However, some people have been reluctant to donate because they believe the sanctuary movement is illegal since it harbors and transports illegal aliens.

The legality of the movement is presently being tried in a test case in San Francisco by a handful of clergy and church workers. These people were arrested about two years ago for harboring illegal aliens.

They contend that the Salvadorians and Guatemalans should be allowed in this country under the 1980 Refugee Act as victims of war. This is the same law that has allowed refugees from South East Asia to enter the U.S.

Yet the government does not recognize El Salvador and Guatemala as countries where civil wars are taking place. So the legality of sanctuary is still undecided.

Voss is quick to point out that donating money to refugees is not against federal law and that less than 10 people have been arrested in the movement.

Other concepts he wishes to dispell are that most of the refugees are

continued on page 2

Residence hall remains a myth

By Greg Maw
Echo Staffwriter

Will there be a new residence hall on the campus of CLU? Everyone would like to think so, but in the near future it is unlikely.

Rumors have been floating around campus about the possibility of building a new dorm in the fall of 1987. However, any truth to that was refuted by A. Dean Buchanan, who is in charge of the expansion on campus as well as vice president of business and finance.

Buchanan insists that such a construction effort is not possible within the next year or so, as no plans have been drawn up nor is there the money for it.

To find out their opinion on the situation, the Echo contacted the Admissions Office and spoke with sources there. They obviously would like to see a new dormitory facility put in. This would allow the campus to have room for growth, but even they admit construction would be impossible by the beginning of the '87 school year. Admissions does believe that this is an issue the University will continue to look into.

Ronald Timmons, dean of admissions, offered this assertion of the situation. "It is up to the Admissions Office in the next twelve months to demonstrate to the University that we could continue to attract

In 1964, the last graduating class of CLU decided to present a gift to the university. On Friday, October 17, 1986, a dedication of this gift, a bronze statue of Martin Luther, was celebrated. The sculptor of this immense piece of art work is Sir Bernardus Weber, Professor Emeritus of Art at CLU and early faculty member of the department.

quality students, and the University can grow, and that new dorms are necessary to support growth."

Dean Timmons also mentioned that the money for such a project comes from bonds and not contributors. CLU is still in debt for the bonds it required to build the West End facility, and the school would be even more indebted if it took on another project.

When and if there is a dorm installed, it would be located in the West End area and would close the circle, where there is a pad waiting to be built upon. At that point in time, the University would also plan to solve the parking problems that have been plaguing CLU students in that vicinity.

A pioneer and leader in the exploration and development of human potentiality, Dr. Jean Houston honored the CLU campus this past week with her powerful presentations in the Harold Stoner Clark series. Her discussions exploring the human potential, self-discovery, and the interweaving of the universal strands of personal experience were an inspiration to all who attended.

Secret of inner cosmos revealed in Series

By Joanna Dacanay
Echo Editor-in-Chief

In a lecture exploring the human potential, Dr. Jean Houston addressed the University Forum and encouraged students to further the inner mind, in order to provoke self-appreciation and optimism.

"We have a responsibility over a planet that we are not prepared to govern," Houston believes. "We are not developing our potential; our sense of responsibility."

Among the many emphases Houston expressed, she encouraged the practice of inner thinking by presenting the need to participate in various exercises exploring their potential.

When asked what she received herself by showing others their potential, Houston said, "It keeps me alert; in a state of constant learning."

"I feel a tremendous sense of hope," said Houston. "(My work) gives me a real appreciation (of everything), allowing me to be optimistic."

Monday evening, Houston packed the Preus-Brandt Forum using historical knowledge in giving examples of the "Possible Human."

"We have style, learning ability and self-judgment all come from a narrow space; intelligence," said

Houston. She also believes that the choice to explore the human potential is "up to you."

"Usually, we get stuck in a normal waking consciousness," explained Houston. "Now we have been able to gain access to see how different cultures use their potentials."

Accompanying Houston throughout the lecture series is close friend and associate Dr. Robin Van Doren, an expert in the relationship of brain function to education and human development.

"While exploring the developmental potential of children," Van Doren said, "we find that the brain responds to complexity, no matter what stage it is at."

Unfortunately, by deadline of this week's issue, the Echo was unable to review the following lectures by Dr. Houston — one utilizing The Odyssey by Homer in a journey of self-discovery, of challenge which enables one to say, "I have the strength; I have the depth; I have the purpose; I will prevail," while today, Houston will complete the three-day lecture series with a program entitled, "The New Sacred Psychology."

Dr. Houston and Dr. Van Doren were presented to the campus through the endowment bequeathed by Harold Stoner Clark to further the quest for truth.

GARFIELD®
by Jim Davis

Retreat offers experience

By Greg Maw
Echo Staffwriter

Over the weekend of Oct. 10-12, a group of 30 students, a pastor, an intern pastor, and two faculty members represented the Lord of Life congregation of CLU on a retreat. They traveled by bus on a foggy Friday afternoon to the Yoliwja resort in the mountains of Yucaipa, which is east of Los Angeles.

Jennifer Simpson, who is the chairperson of the Lord of Life campus ministries was interviewed by the Echo regarding the agenda of the camp. Simpson said that the purpose for this annual event was to build friendships, get away for a weekend, and just have fun.

Friday afternoon basically consisted of icebreakers to get to know each other, games, and music. The first feature event for Saturday was the workshop led by Professor Charles Lane, who spoke from the book of Ephesians as applicable to the theme of the retreat, "Extended family rooted and grounded in love."

The second feature event Saturday was led by Katherine Swanson, director of the Women's Resource Center, who spoke about Inclusive Language in the Bible.

For those unfamiliar with this subject, it deals with the issue of incorporating feminine words into the Bible (he & she, man & woman, etc.), as well as possibly referring to God as a woman. There was much debate over this topic, which was good for communication purposes.

Saturday evening was also very eventful as there was a discussion about Matthew Fox, a famous Theologian, and the topic of "competitiveness." Perhaps the most interesting part of the retreat occurred that night, which, according to students, was very dark.

The campers were to go outside blindfolded, and were to trust the person in front of him or her to lead the individual around. This was a uneasy experience, for the terrain of the mountains is not very smooth. The most unusual part of the evening involved a type of recreation of the Crucifixion as described in the New Testament.

The people were to be in total darkness, and stand still with the arms held out on both sides. This proved to be a meaningful experience for many, because the Crucifixion story was read, accompanied by appropriate music to set the mood. They only did this for about ten minutes, but it seemed much longer. One freshman indicated, "It made you think a lot. It hurt so bad for those ten minutes."

Chris Ratzell, who participated, remarked, "It was interesting and made you think - ten minutes compared to what Jesus went through is quite a difference."

Sunday morning was the first day the sun came out, after two days of fog. The indoors were good for developing closer friendships, but it was refreshing to get outdoors.

The worship service consisted of portions led by various divided groups. Later, the main activity consisted of one and a half hours of volleyball. It's been reported that there were a number of injuries in this non-contact sport, including a sprained ankle and several jammed fingers.

Jennifer Simpson, who attended the retreat in years past felt this way: "It went really well. Other years there were more people, but this year outplayed activity in future years, but this year competed with the football game and a dance. I was happy with how the organization went. It was good to get away from it all."

Several students who went were asked how they liked it. Roger Nie bolt said, "It was a good learning experience, and I got to know people. I was glad to have international students along - they added good flavor." Two Norwegians and four Japanese students were among the travelers.

Chris Ratzell also remarked, "We had a good time, and learned a lot. I got strep throat when crawling around in the cold caves."

Shawn Near, who was the lucky guy with the sprained ankle, responded, "Getting to meet people, talking over meals, and learning." He also felt the different seminars were well done.

The general consensus regarding the food was that it was good. Shawn added, "It was a good departure from Lil's."

It sounds as if all the students had a good time on this retreat and a rewarding experience. Hopefully more people will get involved with this well planned activity in future years.

ICSN

continued from page 1

here for economic reasons and take jobs from Americans.

"They're not here because they want to dream the American dream," he explained.

Laurie Campbell

countries when there is peace. They come to the U.S. because they are caught in the cross-fire of civil wars in which they support neither side. Generally, under peaceful conditions they are better off financially in their own countries.

"The irony of it," says Voss, "is that they come to the U.S. to escape American bullets." For presently the U.S. is supporting the El Salvadorian government to fight the Sandinistas.

Finally, Voss points out that "the politics of the situation are not what the sanctuary is all about. Nor are they concerned with whose fault it is that the refugees have come here.

What we are concerned with is that there's a war there (Central America) that has drastically and dramatically affected the lives of well over one million people and many of those people, for safety reasons, have come here.

So for religious and humanitarian reasons we have felt lead to respond to their needs.

Kim Poast

If you would like to help the ICSN support the safe house please call Dr. Reva Fetzer at the New Earth.

The Department of Physical Education requests your help in finding the following dance equipment stolen from our storage closet: Caliphone Singing Machine with dual cassette record and playback with variable speed control and playback with variable speed control and two Caliphone Speakers, 12 inches x 18 inches, which lock together. CLU is marked on the back and sides of the cassette recorder and speakers.

WOMEN AROUND THE WORLD

from 5 to 9 pm
October 16 - Thursday - Tokyo, Japan
October 20 - Thursday - San Jose, Costa Rica
November 4 - Tuesday - Santa Ana, Mexico
November 20 - Thursday - San Jose, Costa Rica
December 4 - Thursday - Santa Ana, Mexico

Hosted by Linda Smith
Sponsored by the ICSN
Admission is free
Women's Resource Center
411 E. 9th St.
(502) 493-3949

news briefs...

Students who would like to be part of a gay and lesbian support group or who would like to discuss the issue of sexual orientation in individual appointments are asked to call Dr. John Goldfarb at 493-3225. If he is busy and you would like to leave a message, you need only leave your name and telephone number. Of course, your inquiry will be held in the strictest confidence.

There will be a Rotaract meeting on Thursday, October 23 at 6:15 p.m. in Peders 103. Everyone is welcome. If you have any questions call Heidi at 493-3492 or Scott at 492-0692.

Two experts in interpreting economic trends and tax law changes will headline the Economic Outlook Conference scheduled at the Preus-Brandt Forum at California Lutheran University on Tuesday, November 4.

More information on the event is available by calling the Continuing Education Office at (805) 493-3130. Melody Joneson is coordinating the event. (Tickets are $25 per person.)

Rosager's Danish Gymnastics Team, which consists of twenty to twenty-four gymnasts, will perform at the gym on Tuesday, October 28, at 8 p.m.

Tickets will be available the night of the event at the box office at $4 per person. CLU ID's will be honored.

Gymnastics in Denmark have been developed along an old tradition which started in the beginning of this century. The Rosager's Danish Gym Team has traveled throughout Europe and the United States delighting audiences with their grace and agility.

The National Research Council announces the 1987 Resident, Cooperative, and Postdoctoral Research Associateship Programs for research in the sciences and engineering. The programs provide Ph.D. scientists and engineers of unusual promise and ability with opportunities to perform research on problems largely of their own choosing yet compatible with the research interests of the supporting laboratory.

Approximately 450 new full-time Associateships will be awarded on a competitive basis in 1987 for research in: chemistry, earth and atmospheric sciences; engineering and applied sciences; biological, health, behavioral sciences and biotechnology; mathematics; space and planetary sciences; and physics. Most of the programs are open to both U.S. and non-U.S. nationals, and to both recent Ph.D. degree recipients and senior investigators.

Applications to the National Research Council must be postmarked no later than January 15, 1987 (December 15 for NASA), April 15 and August 15, 1987. Initial awards will be announced in March and April (July and November for the two later competitions) followed by awards to alternates later.

Information on specific research opportunities and federal laboratories, as well as application materials, may be obtained from the Associateship Programs, Office of Scientific and Engineering Personnel, JH 608-D1, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20418, (202) 334-2760.

INTERIM TRIP TO MEXICO

STUDENTS INTERESTED IN MEXICAN INTERIM:
CONTACT BYRON SWANSON-3238
OR REVA FETZNER - 3226
A.S.A.P. A FEW OPENINGS LEFT !!

New Nail Bar at our Salon

Full Set...$15 (Reg. $35)
Fills....$10 (Reg. $17)

Offer good with Donna only
And with this coupon only
Expires 10/28/86

Act I Hair Fashions

411 Ave. de los Arboles • Near Thrifty Drugs
492-9717 • 492-9244

Daylight savings time will take effect

this weekend!

Don't forget to set your clocks back

South of the Border Mexican Fiesta

Rice w/Chicken
Beef Fajitas
Taqitos
Fruit/Melons & Grapes

• Corn Chip Bar w/ Guacamole & Hot! Salsa

International Music
October 24th 4:30 - 6:30

$5.00 non student

Interested in a Public Relations Career?

Ross Goldberg, Vice President of Corporate Communications at Healthwest, will be speaking on A Career in Public Relations Tuesday, October 28. All are welcome to attend from 11:00 to 12:15 in P103.

Sponsored by the Comm.
Arts Association

By Donna Hudson
Echo Staffwriter

Having a car with a unique personality of its own really does not hold true. Most cars, at least on this campus, seems to show some character from their owners. People who have cars not only have a means of transportation, but also a personalized statement to identify with.

(photos by P. Holmes)

By Mila Hiles
Echo Staff Writer

RODNEY DANGERFIELD
BACK TO SCHOOL

Oct. 24 at 9 p.m. $1 admission
Oct. 25 7 & 9 p.m. — CLU I.D.
Preus-Brandt Forum

Oct. 25 7 & 9 p.m. — CLU I.D.

Preus-Brandt Forum

Mo Kahn is upward bound

By Jim Greene
Echo Staffwriter

What are you going to do when you graduate? This is a question that plagues most students. Many students here on the CLU campus have already decided their future. Mohammad Khan is one of these students.

As the leading cadet for the Western Area Command of the United States Air Force ROTC, Khan is shaping his future as a member of the armed forces.

Khan is a junior computer science major, and political science minor.

This summer, Khan received the Commandant Award for Outstanding Achievement from the Vandenberg Air Force ROTC Field Training Camp.

The camp is a six-week training session, which includes physical as well as mental training. Cadets are taught discipline, survival tactics, and undergo other forms of conditioning.

ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) has taught Khan "dedication, motivation, and how to set goals. You have to learn to set goals for yourself."

When asked about AFROTC, Khan was very enthusiastic. He wants to become a member of the flight crew on a fighter jet, and hopes to be stationed at the Tactical Air Force Base in Bitburg, Germany.

Khan has learned to appreciate free time, and felt that his ROTC training was responsible. "I didn't join for the pay, I joined for the training. The training is the best in the world."

AFROTC offers students the chance for a military career while being educated in a university atmosphere. The Air Force offers scholarships to ROTC cadets, and pays them while they attend school.

Even with all of the classes that Khan is required to take, he emphasized that ROTC does not mean that he is excluded from the college social life. In fact, he is very active on campus.

This semester, in addition to attending class, Khan is appearing in the upcoming mainstage play "Mother Courage", deejaying a radio show on KRCL, and participating in intramural activities.

Khan emphasized that he is always willing to answer questions about ROTC and the Air Force. His room is a testimonial to his dedication, with posters of many fighter jets filling the walls. As he points to one of the many posters, he just smiles and says "that'll be me soon."

Almost a pilot, Mo Khan is well on his way to a successful career with the Air Force.

Read anything good in the paper lately? This victim of oracical jokes on campus certainly has.

The joke's on you

By Cristina Barber
Echo Staffwriter

If a network producer was to stumble upon the Cal U campus, he'd find all the talent needed to start a college "Bloopers and Practical Jokes" show.

Yes folks! It's true. When it seems as though your roommates are enthralled in their studies, they could very well be plotting the next plan of attack. Here are some of CLU's most famous and not-so-famous practical jokes.

Zack

Lundin,

sophomore, woke up one morning to find his truck covered in tin foil. It took over an hour to peel off, which produced a ball 3 feet high and weighed a whopping 25 pounds.

Lundin came home to all of his underwear tied into knots and tacked to the wall. Under it a huge sign read: "Modern Art for Naked Walls."

Lundin also lived through the torment of having a full bucket of ice-water (yes, with real ice cubes), poured on him while taking a hot shower. "I was so mad," stated Lundin, "that I chased my roomie down the hall with only a hand towel around my front."

display of hoopla. Stephanie Villa and her suitemates were toilet-papered in their sleep. For revenge they shredded up the paper and threw it in the culprits' room. But the ultimate blow in this personal war was when the guys took roommate Jenny Lewis's bug for a joy ride. It was returned totally packed with the dreaded TP syndrome. "It (the TP) filled up about 2 dumpsters," exclaimed Villa. "We haven't gotten them back, but we will!"

Mo Kahn, junior, placed four walnuts under each bedpost of his roomie, Brad Worsley's, bed. "When he climbed in," says Kahn, "the walnuts cracked - and you can guess what happened from there."

Rumor has it that there was a recent party-raid in Pederson dorm. Unidentified sources claim to have seen a group of naked men running from the dorm with only tennies and ski masks on.

Although some of these jokes may be extreme, for those with simple tastes, the bottom line is that it is all in fun. Whether it be putting things in people's drinks while they aren't looking, vacuuming your best friend's pillow, or setting your roomie up with a "complete barf" for the Mystery Dance, it is nice to know that humor is alive at The Lu.

This room is also famous for emptying three fire extinguishers and re-filling them with water. When their roomie Doug (senior) waltzed in the door, he was instantly drenched by a wall of water. Says Sacheli, "the funniest is when we painted our roommate's body with magic markers when he was asleep. We added a beard, mustache and fingernail and toenail colorings."

Even the freshmen aren't exempt from this blatant

Bathroom blues

By Cheryl Almond
Echo Staffwriter

It all began at 6:30 on a Wednesday morning. Her roommates were quietly sleeping when she found herself locked in the bathroom of their room in Afton Hall.

"Hey guys, I'm locked in the bathroom!"

Common broke loose. Her roommates grabbed a knife and began trying to push the catch out of the lock. They tried the paperclip in the keyhole trick. They banged and fiddled, twisted and turned, all amid a confusion of talking and direction-giving, and all without luck.

Someone called facilities, but no one was there. Only one plan left - wake the R.A. They hated to call him at such an early hour, but when they did he came bounding from bed to rescue the trapped roommate, who by now was sitting on the floor, back propped against the bathroom sink, all hope lost of ever making it to her first class or even home for Thanksgiving.

At first the friendly R.A. made the same attempts as the girls had, and with about the same luck. He even tried to hammer off the hinges of the door.

"Just forget it everyone!" shouted the trapped girl, thoroughly frustrated.

"Everyone stand back!"

The room became quiet as they all moved away from the bathroom door. One room. Two. Three - and she was free, safe in the arms of relieved roommates and an R.A. who could go back to bed.

Away with words

© Edward Julius Collegiate CMS-3

ACROSS

- 1 Sort of black-shaped
- 9 "I wouldn't be for the world"
- 15 Fancy flourish in handwriting
- 16 Hydrocarbon found in natural gas
- 18 Lushish brown pigment
- 19 Pulpy fruit
- 20 Californian live oaks
- 22 Total
- 23 Swampy areas
- 25 Andronicus
- 26 out a living
- 27 Founder of psychoanalysis
- 29 Arthur Duryee
- 30 offering
- 31 Devil of famous IQ test
- 32 Make fun of
- 34 Expert at sleight of hand
- 35 Hebrew tribesman
- 36 Nabisco cookies
- 40 Chemical prefix
- 41 Chemical suffix
- 42 City in southern France
- 46 Give up
- 47 Part of a coat
- 48 Senior Fr.
- 50 Ending for Ikenan
- 51 vobiscum (the Lord be with you)
- 53 Specific dynamic action
- 54 tin
- 56 Household gods of the ancient Hebrews
- 58 Native of ancient Rome
- 59 long province
- 59 long one's imagination
- 60 Made of interior materials
- 61 Combined with water
- 9 High plateau
- 10 better thing
- 11 "Ain't" "Sweet"
- 12 Ancient language
- 13 Gerogatory remark
- 14 Certain union number
- 21 Sister
- 24 Abate
- 26 Large global region
- 28 As sold above
- 30 "Don't" "It"
- 32 Never: Ger.
- 33 casting
- 34 Posters
- 35 reading
- 36 The which builds a case
- 37 foliage
- 41 "I think, therefore"
- 43 Poor stroke in many sports
- 45 Sawn together
- 47 Boy's nickname
- 48 Enticed
- 51 Past president of
- 52 West German state
- 55 Spanish unit
- 57 Organization for Mr. Chips

DOWN

- 1 Back of the neck
- 2 Tremble, shiver of the voice
- 3 Sure
- 4 Walk and hops
- 5 Anger
- 6 "Get started"
- 7 Committed heri karl (colloq.)
- 8 Satchel Paige's specialty (2 wds.)

Last week's puzzle solution

DL
HOMECOMING
DATING SERVICE
493-3290

*CONFIDENTIAL
*YOU PICK YOUR DATE
*100% SATISFACTION
*ONLY $3.00!

CALL NOW!

SUBWAY
Sandwiches & Salads

KICK OFF THE
NEW SEASON WITH A FOOTLONG

1300 Moorpark Road
Thousand Oaks
(805) 373-5039

$1.00 OFF

Bring this coupon into SUBWAY, Thousand Oaks, and get one dollar off any meat footlong. Not valid with any other offer.

SUBWAY

Bonds returns, but Kingsmen still lose

By John Garcia
Echo Sports Editor

Last year when the CLU Kingsmen played the Santa Clara Broncos, several WFC records were set, as the Broncos won, 51-23.

When All-American quarterback Tom Bonds returned to action last Saturday for the CLU Kingsmen, after missing two and a half games, he broke three records. Two good and one bad.

Going into the game, Bonds needed 27 pass attempts to pass Bill Wilson (1972-75) on the Kingsmen's all-time list. He passed 33 times completing only 14, while Cal Lu lost their fourth straight, 33-9. Along with his attempts, Bonds rushed six times to give him 744 total plays in his career, the most ever in CLU's 25 year history.

The other record that Bonds broke was the career interception record. Bonds gave up five against Santa Clara to pass John Kindred's (1975-1977) mark of 27 by three.

In last Saturday's game, Santa Clara proved to be too much for the CLU defense. The Kingsmen, who had only allowed an average of 277 yards a game, gave up 440 total yards, including 306 yards in the air.

"We were just very flat. We didn't come out and play well at all," said coach Bob Shoup.

Still, the defense proved to be effective as the Broncos' longest scoring drive was 65 yards and they had to punt seven times. Sean Demmon led the defense with 21 tackles, while Rueben Solorio made 11 tackles, broke up a pass and was in on a sack.

When Cal Lu had the ball, Noel Chesnut ran 44 yards on 11 carries and caught four passes for 46 yards. Eddie Gran caught the lone touchdown for 14 yards in the third quarter.

"I thought we were turning things around when we drove for a score in the third quarter, but Santa Clara came right back," said Shoup.

Kurt Lohse added a 22 yard field goal for the other CLU score.

Running Regals are ready for CLU Invitational

By Jim Greene
Echo Staffwriter

With the NAIA District III Championships right around the corner, the CLU Women's Cross Country team is preparing for battle.

The Running Regals ran up an impressive finish at the Golden State Athletic Conference meet last Saturday. Lori Zackula, who qualified for the NAIA National Cross Country meet last year, is well on her way to duplicating that feat again this season. Zackula showed an impressive third at the GSAC meet in Fresno, finishing the 5000 meter course in 19:08.

Mona Frilisi, CLU's number two runner, did not compete at the GSAC meet. J'ne Furrow placed 18th overall with a 21:45, and Amy Rico followed 11 seconds later at 21:54 with a 21:56. Ann Thomas completed the course in 23:02, followed by Karen Lynne at 24:55.

"There is a lot of team spirit," Rico commented. All of the Regals are happy with the team performance and Nieves is hoping that this positive attitude will be reflected in improvements in the individual times.

"Lori has a chance. She's an underdog, but she does have a chance," said Nieves of Zackula. Zackula is optimistic that she will be able to place in the district meet.

Nieves commented that the Regals' team score depends upon the performance of Rico, Thomas, and Lynne. "If J'ne improves by 30 seconds, she may only pass one or two other runners." The team score is determined by adding the finishing place of each runner for the team. CLU had an overall score of 104 at the GSAC meet.

CLU will be hosting the CLU Invitational Meet this Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. on the soccer field. The race will conclude in Mount Clef Stadium.

Men's Cross Country

| 5 Miles | |
|------------------|-------|
| 1. Art Castle | 25:23 |
| 12. Eric Crump | 27:15 |
| 23. Paul Wenz | 28:32 |
| 25. Gary Aswegen | 29:00 |
| 29. Ian Jackson | 29:35 |

Bearded Fish reel in victory

By Kendra Cole
Echo Staffwriter

Push came to shove as the undefeated Jerry's Kids took on the undefeated Bearded Fish in last Sunday's intramural football game. The first touchdown was made by a pass from John Aguirre to Karl Slattum of Jerry's Kids. But despite their hard efforts, the Bearded Fish had a one point victory with a touchdown by John Gannfors.

In the National league, the Body Buddies, who played the Bushwackers, scored another win, which left them 6 and 0. Tracy Rothe was the leading scorer with 3 touchdowns and Gene McGary contributed another 7 points.

"We're 6 and 0 and hope to be the intramural champions," stated McGary of the Body Buddies. "We're probably the most unorganized team yet the most productive. We average about 38 points a game."

Mike Miller of Clueless proved to be the team's biggest asset by throwing 6 touchdown passes in their game against the Doe Does. John Weems scored three of those touchdowns.

Mike Houston of the Beavers scored 13 points in the game against the Silver Bullets and intercepted a pass to score a touchdown in the game against the Bushwackers.

Dale Adrien of Jerry's Kids stated "this year the program seems to be better organized than ever before, especially the referees." Referee Fred Buchman added "A lot of teams really get involved in it; furthermore, there's a lot of talent out there, both men and women."

Last Sunday was the last day of the regular season. All referees chose 18 men and 18 women to play in the all star game against Biola University. Next Sunday, the two first place teams will be in the playoffs.

Current Standings

| American League | |
|-----------------|---------|
| Bearded Fish | 7 and 0 |
| Jerry's Kids | 6 and 1 |
| Dizzy Dozen | 4 and 3 |
| Flagellators | 3 and 3 |
| Flying Zambinis | 2 and 4 |
| Kramer | 2 and 5 |
| National League | |
| Body Buddies | 6 and 0 |
| The Spuds | 6 and 1 |
| Bushwackers | 5 and 2 |
| Clueless | 3 and 3 |
| The Beavers | 3 and 4 |
| Silver Bullets | 2 and 5 |
| The Doe Does | 1 and 6 |

Soccer team unties a win

By Tracy Yingling
Echo Staffwriter

The CLU soccer team moved within one win of a NAIA District III playoff spot with their 2-1 victory at Southern California College. The Kingsmen still need to defeat Point Loma Nazarene College, however, when they host the Crusaders next Tuesday, October 28.

It appears the Kingsmen will finish in a three-way tie for second with Fresno Pacific and Azusa Pacific. Tie-breakers will then be used to determine which teams advance. The first method is head-to-head performance, but each team has beaten the other. The second is goals allowed in GSAC play, and to date the Kingsmen have allowed a conference low of four goals.

"We're in control of our destiny," said Coach Gary Jensen, "but we have to keep playing hard."

That was the attitude last Monday as the Kingsmen faced Pomona Pitzer College, a team that they lost to last year and it was that attitude which brought them the win, 2-1.

The luck that the team members have complained about in the past has turned now to their favor. They've had a good week which only improved when they heard that their tie game against Loyola Marymount, played earlier this season, is now recorded as a win for the Kingsmen.

Loyola Marymount was forced to forfeit due to the use of an ineligible player in the match, which brings the Kingsmen's record to 11-3-1.

The tie on their record now is from last Saturday's away game against California State University Bakersfield. The game ended in a scoreless tie, 0-0.

This week's games include today's away game against the Master's College and Saturday's game against California State University San Bernardino. Saturday's game will be played on the CLU field at 11 a.m.

Points won at home

By Monique Roy
Echo Sports Editor

Many have scoffed at the idea that there is a "home court advantage." Well, non-believers, hear this: last Tuesday, Cal Lutheran's women's volleyball team traveled to Cal Baptist College, a two and a half hour drive, only to lose in three straight games, 5-15, 12-15 and 15-17. On Thursday the Regals rebounded at home defeating Saint Mary's college, who is nationally ranked number 10 in the NAIA, 11-15, 15-9, 4-15, 15-7 and 15-11. The week's action moved Cal Lu's record to 14-10 overall, while their district record remained at 3-1.

"The win over Saint Mary's was critical for our confidence and morale," commented Coach Carey Snyder. "The loss to Cal Baptist was disappointing for all of us. We didn't make the adjustments on defense or in our blocking and that was disappointing."

"We had to show what we were made of (against Saint Mary's). We needed to play to our maximum, a total complete game. The key was to execute on defense and on offense and we were able to do it. Our passing was on and we served it where we needed to. It was an essential win and a good one."

One reason for the Regal victory was the play of middle hitter Jill Koscinski. Not only did Koscinski lead the way with 20 kills in the match, she had 10 solos and 20 assist blocks to go along with it. Freshman Ann Swinehart contributed 2 serve aces, 6 digs and 10 assist blocks, while middle hitter Gloria Phillips added 9 solo blocks and 10 assist blocks of her own.

The new pastime for Cal Lutheran students is football. The competition began formally at last weekend's football game with the freshman and sophomore classes pitted against the juniors and seniors. A "whopping" victory was scored by the upperclassmen, winning 14-0. (photo by Mark Horvitz)

Celebrating 25 Years of Kingsmen Football

| SWEATSHIRTS | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| Adult sizes medium/large/extra-large | Children's sizes extra-small 2-4 small 6-8 |
| $14.95 | $12.95 |

Our Heroes Are... KINGSMEN

Silver Season Bumper Suckers $1.00

Get your Silver Season Souvenirs Now!!

SOLD AT ALL HOME GAMES or call SUE at 493-3333 days or HELEN at 492-3629 evenings

Work experience and training program for juniors and seniors Career Opportunity Seminar

Farmers Insurance Group is conducting a two hour seminar on the career openings in their local agency force.

Date: October 28, 1986
Time: 3:00 p.m.
Place: Library/Faculty conference room

May 1987 openings for full-time placement to graduating seniors. 2,000 per month start to qualified applicants.

THE Farmers Insurance Group OF COMPANIES

DON GAIL, DISTRICT MANAGER, 463 PENNSFIELD PL. #103 THOUSAND OAKS, CA. (805) 373-6099

echo

Vol. XXVII No.6

October 29, 1986

NON-PROFIT ORG.
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
THOUSAND OAKS,
CALIFORNIA
PERMIT NO. 68

Upper - division cluster proposition still on hold

By Greg Maw
Echo Staffwriter

There has been some concern by students around CLU regarding an upper-division cluster requirement. The fear has been voiced by some that such a plan would mess up current juniors and seniors.

Well, rest assured one and all, because according to several sources, there are no immediate plans to force people into another cluster outside the freshman requirement.

A cluster, for those few who do not know, is a collaboration of 2-3 courses whose intertwining allows a greater learning experience.

The first person the Echo talked to about this was Allen Scott, the registrar. When asked about years situation, he responded, "They've talked about this, but I'm unaware of any proposals."

The concern about changing the upper classmen's requirements was raised, and he gave good news to all the students here. Scott stated, "There's a right for the student to fulfill the requirement of the particular catalog at entrance time. A new cluster program would not affect the continuing students."

So, what he's saying is that the school cannot push a new requirement that was not mentioned in the catalog when the student entered the school. The registrar's opinion was that such a program would probably be a couple of years away.

Dr. Lyle Murley, Dean of Students was the next person contacted, upon the recommendation of Allen Scott. When asked about this program, Murley said, "It's in the making, and still in the planning stage." But likewise, he said it would be a gradual process and for the students not to panic. He also reassured us all that, "It's something to look forward to."

The Echo was then referred to Dr. William Bersley. Dr. Bersley, who is with the philosophy department, is also involved with the General Education Task Group. Bersley said that such a plan was really discussed under the former dean, as he was the spearhead of the idea. He seemed interested in getting it going again, but right now he contended,

continued on page 2

generic fun

Mt. Clei residents got into the swing of activities this past weekend with their contribution to the 1986 Homecoming parade. For an exciting photo recap of all the Homecoming festivities, see the campus life section on pages 4 and 5.

Community Leaders to hold auction

By Maral Amoghlian
Echo Staffwriter

The words "Commotion Auction" have a way of bringing on sudden enlightenment for many faculty and administrative members.

"This auction is an important fund raising effort that shows immediate results campus-wide; academic departments are able to purchase essential equipment not normally budgeted," states this year's chairman of the event, Jim Gilmore.

Gilmore is also the president of the Community Leaders Club, which puts on the commotion auction. This group has a board meeting once a month where committees are formed to perform various functions.

These functions include such things as the Commotion Auction which will be held on Saturday, November 1, in the grand ballroom of the Westlake Plaza Hotel; their involvement in Conejo Valley Days where the club sponsors the "Rabbit Run" (a 6K and 10K run) and the club is also responsible for awarding yearly scholarships to a Cal Lutheran student on an academic or athletic merit.

What does all this mean? It means that the Community Leaders Club supports the academic and athletic events at CLU. The members of this club, wives included, volunteer their time and effort to raise money to purchase essential equipment not normally budgeted. Therefore, CLU students are directly affected by their generosity.

Last year, for instance, 28 projects were awarded commotion funds, totaling a sum of $38,000.

A committee was established to determine the proposals of the faculty and administrators, according to priority. The $38,000 was then distributed to the various departments of the college. For example, the art department received $1,000 to purchase new research books and new slides for the art history classes; the business administration and economic departments were given $5,200 for their projects such as, the computer classroom work station and various software used for statistics.

The physical education department received $1,600 for new weight equipment and stereo equipment for dance classes; and the list goes on.

"I believe that this is an outstanding organization that has done tremendous things for this school. Students should be more aware of the Commotion Auction and how it really helps them," said Chair of the Physical Education Department and Director of Athletics Dr. Robert Doering.

Gilmore and his wife, Barbara, both agree that through their involvement at CLU they have established "marvelous relationships" with the faculty and the students. Gilmore remarks that the Community Leaders Club is a "tie between the community and the students. We try to make things better for present, as well as future students."

Vocational guidance available

By Shenandoah M. Gale
Echo Staffwriter

Some people know the exact vocation they wish to enter as soon as they graduate from college. That's great for them. But what about those who have different fields of interest, but don't know the exact vocation they fall under?

Kappa Rho Kappa is one group that can help you with the problem. Kappa Rho Kappa is the Religion Club here at CLU.

"It's more of an informative club rather than a recreational club," says Brad Meyers, KRK's President and a senior here at CLU. Dr. Monte Luker is the faculty advisor to the group.

The club exists for people interested in any vocation within the church. Ordained pastors are not the only people employed by the church, and there are many lay positions available.

The club is prepared to answer many questions, such as "what are these positions?" Other questions that the club helps its members with concern preparation for graduate work. "For example, some people who want to go into the ministry don't realize you must know a Biblical language. So we suggest taking the language at the undergraduate level," says Meyers.

The club has two main activities each year. One is a visitation to Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary at Berkeley (PLTS). This year that trip is scheduled for Nov. 6-9.

"It is a very unique opportunity," says Meyers. "It is a chance to speak with students, not representatives. We will be staying with CLU alumni."

Currently there are 60 members in the club, ranging from freshmen to seniors.

For more information, or questions, contact Meyers or Dr. Luker in Regents.

Absentee policies endanger extracurricular involvement

By Cheryl Almond
Echo Staffwriter

"In all of my classes anything over four unexcused absences is likely to result in the lowering of the grade."

If a professor tells a class at the beginning of the semester this or a similar policy, it may seem unfair. When it comes to athletics and other extracurricular activities, participants find this kind of policy stifling.

Most students pay attention to the wrong words. Phrases such as "lowering of the grade" will attract more attention than "likely". There is a meaning behind such a policy that only the professor is aware of unless the student takes the responsibility to inquire about it.

The policy mentioned above is one that Dr. Jack Ledbetter includes in his instruction. Other members of the faculty also use similar policies regarding attendance. Most professors do not have any policy concerning absences. The student is simply held responsible for making up the work or finding out what was missed if they want to receive a decent grade in the class.

Most students are prone to think "less policies" is an easier way to go. This depends highly upon the individual. Some students prefer guidelines that are set forth in whereas others are against such treatment.

Most of the students against such a policy believe that the professors are displeased that they are involved in extracurricular activities, and are unwilling to help these students out. The following paragraphs contain answers to questions by students in regard to "unfair treatment."

CLU professors seem to enjoy working with students on a one-to-one basis. Teaching is their job and most feel that interaction is very important. Professors are available only if the student is the one that shows the concern for his or her position.

The action of inquiring about the policy above is the student's responsibility.

It is the responsibility of the professor to answer accurately. This is where the emphasis of the word "likely" comes in. If the student lives up to the responsibility of approaching the instructor with the problem, the professor will usually try to help.

This help will only come if the student is the aggressor. The student may be thinking that the instructor is too aggressive when stating such a policy in the first place; but, as Coach Carey Snyder said, "I think that some teachers order to get the students to set their priorities straight and to tow the line."

The students that are having this problem are not to be blamed. The question is, should anyone be charged with blame.

Several professors refer to the scheduling of extracurricular activities in conflict with academic courses as being the cause of the problem. Some kind of order should be initiated so that students are not made to choose between school and activity.

Students who try to schedule around extracurricular activities, find it difficult when a certain class that is only offered at one time conflicts with the activities schedule. In this situation the student must make a choice between academics or extracurricular activities.

"They are trying to be scholars and at the same time support the school," says Ledbetter.

This takes some kind of initiative. For the time being, the student must take the initiative and approach the teacher, and concerning the course and its policies.

Most professors respect these participants. Yet, they also dread having them miss class. As Dr. Monte Luker expresses "I plan each class to be a very important learning experience for my student." Luker explains that learning may involve anything from lectures to student discussions, and it is always crucial for the students to attend.

Letters

LaRouche opposed

Dear Editor:

Proposition 64 is a gross violation of human rights. It is not concerned with the health of Americans, instead it is being used to gain publicity for political extremist Lyndon LaRouche...a cruel but clever man who would lead us down a path of needless persecution for the sake of his own selfish gain. By appealing to the AIDS epidemic, he has managed to achieve notoriety. It is unfortunate that his motives are malicious.

As citizens we need to look at what the initiative says (or doesn't say). The severe consequences to both taxpayers and "victims" are conveniently and misleadingly not mentioned. Leading health officials agree that this initiative is unnecessary and will jeopardize the progress that has already been made.

Help aid the process of progress and become informed about Proposition 64. As statistics continue to rise, the rights you protect may be your own.

Sincerely,
Mark Vartanian

Trapped

Dear Editor

The other day I came out of class and walked to my car so that I could go home. To my surprise, I could not pull my car away from the curb. Why? you ask. Well, I'll tell you why. Because two inconsiderate drivers parked too close to my car. After getting help from a friend, I was able to maneuver my car out. But it took a lot of maneuvering.

But - wait that's not all. The very next night I came out of a meeting and, yes, once again it had happened. Two thoughtless drivers had parked too close to me. The car in front was so close that the back of their car was touching my bumper. The car behind me was a little more generous. They allowed me about ten inches.

I went to call security for help, but - guess what? I couldn't get a hold of them. It was just a great night all around.

To the four people who parked too close - and I think you know who you are - please have a little consideration for other people. How would you like to be stuck sitting in your car because you were not able to pull out of the parking place?

Sincerely,
Tamara Van Hoose

Cheating at university level...even at the Lu

By Julie A. Clausung

As a university that would appear to attract students with high morals, I am amazed at the amount of cheating that goes on every day here.

Ever since I began attending this school in the fall of 1985 I noticed a great deal of cheating going on in my classes. Though students were very obvious with their cheating skills (leaning half way out of his or her chair to look at another's answer) I chose to ignore the situation and go on with my classwork.

As time went on, much to my surprise, cheating went on also. Now as the end of my first semester in my senior year slowly draws near, I am seeing methods of cheating that amazed me.

Last night I had the wonderful opportunity to observe some friends studying for a Spanish test. I was surprised to hear that their conversation did not center around Spanish vocabulary, but instead consisted of discussing the different methods they would use to "cheat their way through" their test.

My first lesson was in coughing. Little did I know that all those coughs that I hear during tests are something more than a common case of bronchitis. Did you know that one quick cough means the letter "A" on a Scantron test and two quick coughs means the answer is "B"...etc. I am sure some of you know what I am talking about.

Next I learned that chewing on a pencil means "True", but chewing on a pen means "False" during a true/false exam. Here I thought people were up so early studying for the test that they needed something to chew on since they missed breakfast. Was I ever wrong!

These are not the only methods used at this school. For example, if an essay test is given instead of a multiple choice or

'Grades can help you get your foot in the door...but once you are in, grades are forgotten.'

Clausung

true/false test, I am told that the "traditional" cheating methods are used. These include helpful notes written on hands, desks, or anywhere else the student can think of. Some students even go as far as to write down notes in their blue books before a blue book test is given.

The thing that astonishes me most about this cheating topic is the fact that teachers almost welcome it into their classes. As one student told me, "Some teachers at this school are known for giving the same tests year after year." This makes it very easy on the students to cheat. "I simply find someone who has had the class before and study their exam. Who needs to spend five hours studying?"

In addition to identical tests year after year, teachers contribute to the chance of their students cheating by walking out of their classes in the middle of an exam. As one student describes it, "the whole atmosphere in the room changes when a teacher walks out during a test."

Eyes immediately begin to wander, the noise level increases with some students even yelling out the answer to the entire class, and once again cheating occurs.

Teachers do not seem to take the necessary precautions to ensure that cheating does not occur in their classrooms. In my two years at this school I have only come across one teacher who takes the essential steps needed to ensure that honesty is the policy in his class. It is not likely that you will find a student cheating in one of Mark Mathews' classes. In order to ensure fairness Mathews gives essay tests in blue books that are thoroughly checked (he goes through every page) before each exam. In addition to this he also gives a "pep" talk to his students about honesty and makes them aware of the consequences if it is ever violated, a visit to the dean. Although I am sure there are other instructors on this campus that have their approaches to dealing with cheating, I feel that Mathews' techniques should be an example to other instructors.

I wish that there were some way I could stress the importance of that old saying, "cheaters are only cheating themselves", but you can only drill something in someone's head so many times. Perhaps if good grades were not stressed as being so important, students would not feel as though they need to cheat to attain them. I would like to offer this advice though. Grades can help you get "your foot in the door" and into the working world, but once you are in, grades are forgotten. Your input into your job and all other work required of you will solely rely on what you learned in college. If you have spent the last four years of school cheating your way through, you will soon find out that you are out of a job, as well as a $30,000 education.

1986-87 Echo Staff

Editor-in-Chief: Joanna Dacanay
Managing Editor: Kirsten Brown
News Editor: Michelle Villa
Opinion Editor:

Editorial Cartoonist: Greg Meyers

Feature Editors: Tamara Van Hoose, Michelle Small

Sports Editors: John Garcia, Monique Roy

Staff Writers: Maral Amoghlian, Kristina Carlson, Eric Groff, Chris Smith, Cristina Barber, Jeff Birk, Shenan Gale, Jim Greene, Milla Hiles, Greg Maw, Karen E. Johnson, Tracy Luper, Karl Jennings, Xiao-Nan Liu, Jack Stewart, Cheryl Almond, Chris Caracalas, Cassi Kyman, Fred Stahl, Lisa Ritts, Monica Ortiz, Denise Morrison, Kristin Enge, Jeff Kroeker, Tracy Yingling, James Buchner

Photo Lab Director: Paul Holmes

Photographers: Mark Horwitz, Tracy Yingling, Denise Hubbard, Deanna Hubbard, Dawn Baca

Ad Manager: Wayne Sachel

Ad Layout: Jim Molina-manager: Jennifer Nelsen, Camille Collins

Distribution Manager: Teresa Burgoyne

Student Publications Commissioner: Camille Collins

Adviser: Gordon Cheesewright

Typesetters: Suzanne Campbell, Karma Lively, Rhonda Mulanax, Marni Spletter

Opinions expressed in this publication are those of the writers and are not to be construed as opinions of the Associated Students of the University.

Editorials, unless designated, are the expression of the editorial staff. Letters to the Editor must be signed and may be edited according to the discretion of the staff and in accordance with technical limitations.

The CLU ECHO is the official student publication of California Lutheran University. Publication offices are located in the Student Union Building, 60 W. Olsen Road, Thousand Oaks, California 91360. Business phone 493-3465. Advertising rates will be sent upon request.

Confused fan can't understand loyalty

by Karl Nilsson

I am a little confused about people's loyalty at CLU. During the baseball playoffs a week ago, the majority of the students were rooting for the California Angels to win the would these same people also root for the Astros in the National League?

To my understanding, most of these same students are either Dodger fans or San Diego Padre fans. Both of these teams are in the same division as the Houston Astros, so why would the students root for the guys who were their worst enemy during the regular season.

I understand why everyone was pulling for the Angels since most people here are Southern Californians. But why away. I am a fan of a particular American League team in the Eastern division (not the Red Sox). The only reason I was pulling for the Red Sox was for monetary reasons-obviously I cleaned up. If some of these "unloyal" students were rooting for the Astros for similar reasons I can understand, but most of the people I talked with didn't do it for that reason.

I'm from an area where the nearest major league team is about 800 miles

Maybe because I'm not from a major league area, I don't understand such complicated matters.

Anyone interested in being on the editorial staff of the Echo, please contact Dr. Gordon Cheesewright at -3451 or Joanna Dacanay at -3566

Celebrate Good Times Homecoming 1986

All photos by Mark Horwitz

Displaying the Homecoming spirit, Kingsmen fans pack the stands to cheer for the purple and gold.

Freshman Molly Knutson celebrates good times with a winning smile.

Skatin' through a weekend of good times, sophomore Mike Houston.

"I'm a six foot five — eyes of green — And I'm the Sacramento too-sick rap King — I'm a never-stoppin', always poppin', lover-shakin', ne Gotta rap it all the time — 'Cause when I rap I really shine — My sounds are so sweet — satisfy the soul — sick — And once you get me rappin' — Man I'll never quit — 'Cause I'm the King of the beat — The master of the sound — I'll give you what you need — To break to the ground — So give me a theme, man — and I will go — 'Cause I am the King rap of the show."

Sophomores Kirsten Dorn and Jeanne Thompson take a moment to themselves amid the coronation festivities.

Roll out the red carpet for 1986 Homecoming King and Queen Jim Byrne and Eva Blake.

Surfin' USA, Cal Lu style, is sophomore Chris Dragula.

Tamara Hagen, ASCLU president, dances in the street during the Homecoming parade.

Freshmen Mike Schuler and "Moose" Peterson really stand out in a crowd.

The Homecoming parade was a great place for dorms and clubs to show their CLU spirit.

"Celebrating in style," members of the Black Student Union display their pride.

Homecoming princesses Kirsten Dorn, Gina Gallagher, and Cathy Bachman enjoy a "royal" ride in the Homecoming parade.

Chris Adix and Karen Trantow, New West residents, share the spotlight with a soon-to-be-unveiled "Martin" look-alike.

Pep Band members toot their horns and keep things hoppin' during the Kingsmen football game.

Nothing like a frosty mug of A & W on a hot Homecoming day.

Micki Villa and Gretchen Graham catch some rays during the Homecoming parade.

Letters

Window decor found offensive

Students feel judgment is unfair

I am writing this letter to uncover the unfair disregard for the freedom of speech on this campus. A couple weeks ago, Jim Greene wrote to the editor concerning the discipline policies in the residence halls.

Greene questioned the differing opinions of the Resident Assistants on their primary function. Some R.A.'s said their goal was to create a social atmosphere, while others thought they needed to enforce the rules of the university.

A majority of students on campus agreed with Greene and many of these students were compelled to display his article. My roommates and I put the article in our front window along with the "R.A. Vice" cartoon.

The next day, we were asked to remove the article because it was "offensive." We were not told to whom it was offensive, but we were required to take down the article. A couple days later, we put the article back in the window, believing we were in the right. Again we were told to remove it. This time a reason was given: the article was said to be offensive to the R.A.'s Supposedly, the R.A.'s had taken this personally.

By displaying the article we were not trying to show contempt towards the

R.A.'s, but rather our concern of administrative policies. When Americans say they hate the Russians, they are really saying they hate the government of the Soviet Union. When students talk about the R.A.'s function, they are questioning the policies of the administration, not the individuals.

My roommates and I had one other similar incident. At the beginning of the year, we had a print in our window which read, "We feature Henry Weinhard's Beer." We were asked to take this down about three days after we had put it up, given the reason that it was "offensive" to some residents. Maybe this isn't so ridiculous, except that at the same time we had a memo board on our door which featured a large mug of beer. Nothing was ever said about the memo board, but we cannot display the Henry Weinhard's print.

Being a private school, the administration can make its policies as it sees fit. But, when our basic rights in the First Amendment are attacked, it is too much. True, people are not allowed to go around blatantly offending people, but these examples are far from being offensive to the general public and even specific individuals.

Sincerely,
Karl Nilsson

Housing

In regards to...by Joanna Dacanay

In a story that appeared in last week's edition, the possibility of a new residence hall was refuted while many questions and pertinent information were never discussed.

The biggest complaint from students is the fact that in many of the east end dorms, there are five residents to a suite.

When I entered this school two years ago, housing was stretched and students were placed in Sirena, (a retirement housing complex located on north Moorpark Road).

During my sophomore year, there were a few rooms packed five to a suite, but that was either by the choice of the occupants or in a few weeks the matter was resolved.

This year there are a surprising number of four-plus occupancy situations in east end suites (according to ASCLU President Tanara Hagen's presidential report) or 40 percent of student housing. This seems pretty high since there was no substantial increase in admissions this semester, as can be proven through the distribution of student fees in the ASCLU, which is directly affected by student enrollment.

More examples of how desperate the situation is, can be identified in roommate relations by mid-semester. Most of you can agree that there are times when you'd love to strangle your roommate, only to remember that you're all in this together.

Okay, you say, most people complain about their living situation just to get attention. Maybe so, but any complaint is a valid complaint.

As stated in the news story about the myth of a new dorm, many students were puzzled as to where the information, or rumor, came from. The information was addressed in an early-September Senate meeting where a report of the fall faculty retreat was given.

Still there is confusion and misinterpretation possible from various administrative members as to what the school plans to do about the students to available housing ratio, which is definitely unbalanced.

For whatever reason, this problem should be clarified, as well as any plans for expansion. Excuses, explanations, whatever you want to call them, should be declined and interpreted in a sense that students don't feel like they are being given the royal run-around. How much longer do students have to wait?

Invisible meals

Dear Editor:

When the director of food services, Lil Lopez, observed that students needed a smaller meal plan, she immediately went to work on an alternative to the 21 meal plan. In answer to the students' pleas, Lil came up with the 15 meal plan designed for students who did not need three meals a day, seven days a week.

Solution solved, everyone is happy right? WRONG! As the weeks of our fall semester quickly is it my parents' money?) on meals that I never eat.

Each year students "dish out the bucks" for meals we never see. The 21 meal plan cost us $700, whereas the 15 meal plan is a bargain at $625. Are we as students really getting our moneys worth? I know that I am not, and it seems like it would be so easy for the school to offer this proposed meal plan. They could charge $550 and save students who visit the cafeteria less often $75 per semester.

Willing students need a place to study

Dear Editor

Last week, some students told me that the school library is closed too much on the weekends. These students say that on Friday and Saturday evenings their dorms are often very noisy, and with the library closed, they have no quiet place to go. It is understandable that the weekend is "party time", and few students use the library, but what about those who want to study?

After noticing these students' problem, I went to the library to find out the reason it was closed so much on the weekends. I was told that on Fridays and Saturdays, the library is open until early evening, and on Sunday until midnight. Perhaps on party nights, very few students come to the library during the later hours.

Since the library currently does not satisfy the weekend study needs of the "serious" student, maybe CLU should consider providing another place or keep the library open longer. This would certainly be in the best interest of those students who feel they want to make the most of their spare time.

Maybe it is time for the CLU administration to conduct some kind of survey on what the students want. There must be something they can offer to those students who need to spend more time studying.

Sincerely,
Xiao-Nan Liu

Kirsten Brown

There's no place like Cal Lu

Being a presidential host I am asked by a lot of visiting students what is the religious influence on campus. To this there are a lot of things that run through my mind before I answer.

Coming from a very tested religious background myself I was very decided on what I believed before I ever reached Cal Lutheran. What my fears were once I reached here was that I would be persecuted (or at least uncomfortable) if I did not follow the general consensus. Finding that this was untrue is what has kept me here all these years.

That in itself is very important. But there is a religious influence here on campus, and that is the Christian attitude of the people at Cal Lu. This is not to create the stereotype of everyone spending hours a night studying the Bible, yet the warmth and compassion of the students here (and faculty) is unescapable.

know here consider this their home, and the students here are like family. No matter what their religious upbringing is, or lack of upbringing is, they have respect and a general concern for their peers.

An incident that comes to mind is last interim when my roommate was hit by a car while she was bike riding in town. By that night there were twenty or more people in the emergency ward waiting with us. All night we were bombarded with phone calls making sure that she was okay.

The next day she was visited by fifteen more people, including her professor. That is a Christian attitude. That is what makes everyone feel special here.

What is more important is that the school as a whole cares about you and what happens to you. Their policy is to treat you as a responsible adult. They don't tell you what you should believe; that is your own personal right.

Now I know I am leaving out one important policy where they don't treat you as a responsible adult and that is the alcohol policy. Let me briefly say two things about that and then move on.

First of all, the majority of parties that I have been to that alcohol has been present, no one was concerned about anyone's rights — so why should the school? What most people don't realize is that even the big universities have "restricted" alcohol policies also.

Students at UCLA who live in the dorms are not allowed to be seen bringing alcohol into the dorm, drinking alcohol in the hall or in their rooms with the door open (which means that you can drink quietly in your room with the door shut, and isn't that how it is done here?)

ECHO Letter Policy

The Echo welcomes letters of divergent opinion. All letters must be signed with legitimate signatures. Letters to the Editor should usually be under 250 words, in good taste and free of libelous material.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters without changing the context.

Letters to the editor have a deadline of Friday, 5 p.m.

in the Echo box.

Letters which contain charges of allegations against identifiable individuals or campus offices or campus organizations or campus clubs should be shown to the person or institution charged, and that person or institution shall be given the right to reply in the same Echo issue.

pass us by, I find that my long walks through Kingsmen park and down the stairs into the cafeteria becoming less frequent. By the time Saturday rolls around I have discovered that I have had not 21, not 15, but less than 10 meals per week.

Something must be done for students who, like myself, can not possibly make it to the cafeteria 15 times a week. I feel that the best solution to this problem would be to offer a 10 meal plan in addition to the present 15 and 21 meal plans. It is time that I stop wasting my money (or

I urge students with this problem to voice your opinion. Cafeteria complaints are heard every other Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the upper cafeteria. If the cafeteria received enough complaints on this issue things might be changed by the spring semester.

Remember, it is our schools mission to listen to the students. Take advantage of that mission and let them become aware of any changes that will benefit you, as well as the entire student body.

Sincerely
Julie A. Clausen

Tourney's bracket broken by Regals

By Monique Roy
Echo Sports Editor

The CLU women's volleyball team did two things last weekend that they haven't done all year. First, they played their way into the winner's bracket of a tournament when they finished Friday's action in the Occidental College Invitation Tournament with a 2-1 record. Also, in their first match of the day against Cal State University, San Bernardino, the Regals shut down the Lady Coyotes, 15-0, to blank an opponent for the first time.

Another big accomplishment for Cal Lu was beating CSU, San Bernardino, 15-0 and 15-9, a NCAA Division III school who had beaten the Regals earlier this season. The tournament's action moved CLU's overall record to 16-14.

Friday saw the Regals lose Colorado College 15-11, 7-15, and 14-16, but come back later to beat Grand Canyon College, also from Colorado, 13-15, 15-1, and 15-7, to advance to the winner's play on Saturday.

Mills College, the team which came in second to Fresno Pacific college at Oxy, handed Cal Lutheran a defeat 10-15 and 5-15, to open play on Saturday. Playing for fifth place, Cal Lu faced division rival Westmont College and lost the showdown 5-15, 15-6 and 13-15.

Coach Carey Snyder's first comment was "Damn!" She then continued, "Two points made the difference in two matches. If we could have beaten Colorado College we may have been in a better position. It was frustrating," she said.

Freshman Ann Jeffries said, "We blew it because we didn't take advantage of their mistakes and they capitalized on ours. We didn't take advantage of some of the opportunities that we had."

"Personally, I was tired, both mentally and physically," commented middle hitter Gloria Philipps. "I was just exhausted. I really wanted to win and we tried and played really tough, but we just didn't have thatumph to get us over the top. We didn't get down though and we fought hard," finished Philipps.

Snyder had much praise for some of her players in particular, especially Jeffries whom she said "passed amazingly well." Philipps also contributed to the Regals play this weekend with 29 kills and 22 blocks, while middle hitter Jill Kosinski added 39 kills and 39 blocks.

According to Snyder, junior Cindy Jorgensen "came alive in the match against Westmont. She would hit the ball hard across court and then tip it the next time. She played really well and Erin (Schmidt) did too; she set Cindy really well."

"Jen (Larsen) is coming along this season and is incorporating the things she's learned into her game," praised Snyder.

Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, the Regals had a tough time with Biola University. CLU lost before a rowdy crowd of Eagle fans 6-15, 3-15 and 2-15.

Philipps claimed that there were communication and attitude problems which led to the sound defeat. "Biola is a good team but they shouldn't have beaten us by that much. It would have been different if we had been at home with our crowd behind us and not having to travel there to play. People were getting frustrated and dwelling on their mistakes. You try to blow them (mistakes) off, but sometimes they come back," said Philipps.

The flat tire which delayed the Regals for over an hour on their way to Biola wasn't exactly the stimulus that the team needed either. Snyder's comment was "We are still making mistakes when we can't afford to. We have to get together by the time districts roll around in a few weeks."

Furrow and Rico take top honors

By Jim Greene
Echo Staffwriter

The CLU Women's Cross Country team dominated the CLU Invitational meet last week, with Regal runners J'ne Furrow and Amy Rico taking the top honors in the 5000 meter race.

Lori Zackula, CLU's top runner, did not start the meet, due to an injury. Furrow completed the course in just under 23 minutes, and Rico followed her a few seconds later. Ann Thomas placed fourth and Karen Lynne completed CLU's roster at 7th overall. Thomas led the field for the first mile of the course.

Mount Saint Mary's College was the only school to accept the challenge of the CLU Invitational Meet. MSJC only fielded 4 runners, so neither school raced a full team by NAIA standards. The Regal team has been plagued by injuries all season. In addition, the weather Saturday was unseasonably hot. These factors combined to slow the usually faster pace of the team.

Furrow, who has recorded times of less than 22 minutes on other 5000 meter courses, set record for this new CLU course at just under 23 minutes.

The Regals are looking forward to the NAIA District III Championships this Saturday in La Mirada. Zackula, who sat out this week, is confident about competing next Saturday. "I'll just have to block out and run through the pain," Zackula commented.

Zackula has set high goals for herself. She is looking to take second place in the District Championships. The whole team feels that hte key to the Championship meet is in their attitude. "It will be a mental race," Zackula commented.

Playoff bound at 12-4-1

By Tracy Yingling
Echo Staffwriter

The Kingsmen soccer team began last week's games with an impressive win over Master's College. Freshman goalie Dave "Hollywood" Salzwedel held Master's College scoreless for his ninth shut-out of the year, improving the team's post season chances, with a 3-0 victory.

"And to think he wasn't recruited by anybody," Coach Gary Jensen said. "I've got him for the next three years." Salzwedel is just one of the eight freshmen that make up 44 percent of the Kingsmen team. Other freshmen include center forward Paul Mitchell, sweeper Ken Epperson, and fullback Jeff "Vegas" Dietrich, scorer of the first goal in last week's match against Master's College.

"We are young and rebuilding," Jensen said.

"The freshmen control the destiny of the program," explained senior fullback Mark Greenfeld. "They have the right attitude towards the game and play well."

Although their season has been going well, they had a minor setback last Saturday against Cal State University San Bernardino, losing the game 2-0.

Editor's Note: Yesterday's game against Point Loma was the deciding game for the Kingsmen, however, due to press deadlines, the outcome cannot be reported.

A shutout by Cal Lu would assure the Kingsmen second place in the Golden State Athletic Conference and a playoff berth. If Pt. Loma scored on CLU, the second playoff spot will be decided on Saturday, when Fresno Pacific College plays. The Kingsmen will be eliminated if Pt. Loma beat them.

Although the Homecoming game was not very exciting for Kingsmen fans, it did have its moments. Runningback Tracy Downs picks up some yards for CLU on a run up the middle. Downs had seven carries and covered 37 yards on the ground, in the first half, against Portland State. Photo by Mark Horwitz

Intramurals Championship

Bearded Fish 39 Jerry's Kids 34

Third Place

Body Buddies 25 The Spuds 6

Celebrating 25 Years of Kingsmen Football

| | |
|--|--|
| SWEATSHIRTS | |
| Adult sizes medium/large/extra-large $14.95 | Children's sizes extra-small 2-4 small 5-8 $12.95 |
| Our Heroes Are... KINGSMEN | |
| Silver Season Pins In Rink Enamel with 24 K Gold Plating Limited quantities $2.00 each | Silver Season Bumper Stickers $1.00 |
| Get your Silver Season Souvenirs Now!! | |
| SOLD AT ALL HOME GAMES or call SUE at 493-1333 days or HELEN at 492-3620 evenings | |

"We've always had good competition there," said veteran coach Don Green about the UCSD meet.

Castle finished the 5 mile course in 27:35 for the victory. Junior Eric Crump finished in 28:18 for 5th place overall. The third fastest time for a CLU runner was 29:18 which belonged to freshman Gary Aswegan. Paul Wenz (29:36), Ian Jackson (30:03), Richard Montalvo (30:18), Tom Ball (31:15), and Martin Minter (34:10) were the other Kingsmen competitors.

"We're ready to do a good job in districts," said Green.

"Castle will have to run his best race to win it," commented Green.

Castle also believes he has an excellent shot at a victory after three previous attempts to qualify.

"I think it's between three runners; me and two runners from Point Loma," said an enthused Castle.

Castle gives credit to the incredible amount of mileage he runs for practice this year, which is between 70-90 miles.

"Castle is competitive and has run well all year, winning at districts would be a great way for him to finish his four years (at CLU)," added Green.

"Outrageousness"

By Fred Stahl
Echo Staffwriter

The scene is set on the Cal-Lu campus. It's a sunny Southern California day, and the wind is whipping in your hair, you're hanging tough in your skin tight levis and slick black Ray-Bans. There is no doubt about it, you are a happening dude. What sets the whole awesome look off is the fact that you're riding a brand new Honda Aero 50. This white, two-wheeled 35 mile per hour cruiser puts you in a whole new league above the rest of the CLU student body. You are right up there with Jim McMahon and Tina Turner.

You may be asking just how you yourself can pick up your own Honda scooter. If you are like most college students, you've put all your money into your education, stomach and wardrobe. In short, you're probably so broke you can't even pay attention in class anymore. This could all change if you are the winner of the Pep Athletic's scooter raffle.

Pep Athletics is drawing for the brand new Honda Aero 50 game. The proceeds go towards promotion of school spirit in all CLU sports. You can't win if you don't play! Tickets are $1 a piece or 6 for $5. If you wish to buy a ticket, contact Carrie Brown or any member of the Pep Band or Pep Squad.

•Le Sun Club•
The Ultimate in Tanning...

Brown and Beautiful Whatever the Weather

3 visits FREE with this Ad a $15 Value

Great for In-Between and after classes

Complete Tanning Salon

No Peeling, No Burning

See Results After First session

Both Men and Women

Mon.-Fri. 9:00am-10:00pm
Sat.-Sun. 10:00am-6:00pm

Ends Nov 15, 1986
Applies to new customers only

529-0888

45 W. Los Angeles Avenue
Moorepark Town Center

Injuries lead to downfall at Homecoming

By John Garcia
Echo Sports Editor

In the 1985 version of Homecoming, injuries marred the win over St. Mary's, 24-3. The most prominent was Tom Bonds' bruised shoulder.

Last Saturday as CLU hosted Portland St. for the 1986 extravaganza, injuries again proved fatal, as the Kingsmen lost, 28-7.

The loss was the fifth straight for Cal Lu (0-4 in the Western Football Conference, 2-5 overall), the first time in their 25 year history they have lost five in a row. The Vikings improved to 2-1 in the WFC and 4-3 overall.

Playing without healthy starters in the defensive secondary, Cal Lu was forced to play an offense that leads the WFC in passing with a "skeleton defense," according to head coach Bob Shoup.

"The defense did their best; they rushed well and had a chance for an interception," said Shoup. "Our speed is gone."

The speed started to leave when linebacker Terry Rowe was lost for the season when he injured his knee against Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. Safety Todd Leavens missed Saturday's game due a deep thigh bruise, cornerback Don Price injured his ankle, and linebacker Sean Demmon re-injured his neck.

These injuries helped allow the Vikings to complete 28 of 41 passes for 336 yards and two touchdowns.

One thing Portland State could not do was run against CLU, something no one else has been able to either. The Kingsmen lead the WFC in rushing defense, allowing an average of only 123 yards a game.

Defensive tackles John Hynes and Mike Miller are primary reasons for this fact. Hynes made 12 tackles, including a sack, and broke up two passes. Miller batted away three pass attempts, had seven tackles and also had a sack.

"Without Miller and Hynes, we get guys who are slow or small," said Shoup.

"The key to this game was not getting our passing game started early and not scoring when we were inside their 30 yard line," said wide receiver Joe Fuca.

Shoup noted three things that stopped Kingsmen drives; a fumble by Tracy Downs, a pass interference call on Darren Gottschalk that reversed a first down to fourth and 19, and a holding call on PSU's 36 yard line.

Cal Lu's only score came on a four play drive late in the game. Bonds hit Eddie Gran on a 15 yard pass, Fuca for 22, and Joe Monarrez for 11 and the 15 yard touchdown pass.

Bonds, in his second game since he returned to action, said he feels about 95 percent of what he is capable.

"I don't feel as quick because of the braces,"

Cornerback Don Price, a member of the "skeleton defense" that Cal Lu was left with after many injuries to their starters, makes a tackle on a Viking receiver. Price had eight tackles in the Kingsmen secondary.

photo by Mark Horwitz

Bonds said, who is wearing knee braces for protection. "I can't say anything bad about our offense," Hynes said. "I play against them five days out of the week and I think they're better than anyone I've played against."

Saturday the Kingsmen play the toughest team on their schedule, according to Shoup.

The Sacramento State Hornets are 4-2-1 overall and lead the WFC after three sound defeats of WFC opponents. The most recent was last Saturday's victory at Southern Utah State, 48-31. Southern Utah has a 26-4-1 home record which made the Hornets win more impressive.

With a 3-0 record in the WFC, Shoup said the Hornets are on a roll for the championship.

"Sacramento beat Portland by four touchdowns, so I guess that makes us seven touchdown underdogs," Shoup said.

One thing that won't help is the loss of another player. Yet last Saturday the Kingsmen received word that freshman backup quarterback Shane Hawkins was lost for the season with a broken collar bone.

Interest, opportunity and finances pave way for new sports

By Cheryl Almond
Echo Staffwriter

Cal Lu's athletic program may be making a couple of additions in the future. The possible additions are men's volleyball and women's soccer.

Men's volleyball used to be a part of Cal Lu's intercollegiate sports. People often wonder why it was dropped. "It wasn't dropped," says Athletic Director Robert Doering. "It was suspended." This means that it can be brought back into the program as soon as the problem involved is resolved.

The only way for the problem to be resolved is that more small colleges adopt this sport also. The reason why men's volleyball was suspended in the first place was because there were not enough teams to play.

Although the sport was suspended, men volleyball players are still participating in the game. It has become a club sport meaning that the participants must come up with some of the funding. The school cannot fund it like an intercollegiate sport; however, Cal Lu does support it as much as possible. The school contributes 50% of the finances for the team and would like to see the problem resurrected so the men's volleyball could become one of Cal Lu's intercollegiate sports again.

Another sport Cal Lu would like to add to it's list of intercollegiate sports is women's soccer. Unlike men's volleyball, this addition would be totally new to CLU. Doering says

"I see women's soccer as a coming sport." He would very much like to see this sport adopted.

Doering plans to pursue it if it proves feasible. There are three conditions that must be right.

First, there must be enough student interest. According to Doering there seems to be quite a bit of interest. With even more interest coming from the Admissions Office this addition may even become necessary.

There is a limitation to the condition above. There must be enough small colleges with the program in order to provide the best possible opportunity for those interested. The school as well as the players would not want to be embarrassed in a league of large colleges.

The last condition is finances available for intercollegiate sports. This problem can be solved by the first condition because if the interest is high and we have the program more students will enter CLU providing the necessary funds.

scorecard

Western Football Conference

| (overall) | W | L | T | W | L | T | P | P | P |
|---------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|-----|-----|---|
| CS Sacramento | 3 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 2 | 1 | 257 | 179 | |
| CS Northridge | 3 | 1 | 0 | 6 | 1 | 0 | 198 | 120 | |
| Portland St. | 2 | 1 | 0 | 4 | 3 | 0 | 167 | 207 | |
| Santa Clara | 2 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 4 | 0 | 136 | 197 | |
| Cal Poly SLO | 1 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 3 | 0 | 131 | 107 | |
| S. Utah St. | 1 | 3 | 0 | 6 | 3 | 0 | 312 | 235 | |
| CAL LUTHERAN | 0 | 4 | 0 | 2 | 5 | 0 | 113 | 153 | |

Saturday - 11/1

CAL LUTHERAN at CS Sacramento, 7 p.m.

Northridge at Santa Clara, 1 p.m.

Cal Poly SLO at Portland St., 7:30 p.m.

Lasl Saturday

| | | | | | | |
|---------------|----|---------------------|---|---|----|-------|
| CS Sacramento | 48 | S. Utah St. | | | 31 | |
| Northridge | 46 | St. Mary's | | | 24 | |
| Santa Clara | 27 | San Francisco St. | | | 10 | |
| Cal Poly SLO | 17 | Central Connecticut | | | | |
| | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | FINAL |
| Portland St. | | 0 | 7 | 7 | 14 | 28 |
| CAL LUTHERAN | | 0 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 7 |

PSU-Cregore 1 run (Erickson kick)
PSU-Cornigan 25 pass from Crawford (Erickson kick)
PSU-Ludwig 22 pass from Crawford (Erickson kick)
CLU-Monarrez 15 pass from Bonds (Lothe kick)
PSU-Crawford 1 run (Erickson kick)

Intramural Football All-Stars

All players were selected by the Refs, and those who can attend will play in an Intramural Tournament at Biola.

Women All-Stars

1. Alycia Anderson
2. Eva Blake
3. Heather Dewey
4. Sheri Zinsmeister
5. Cheri Bannister
6. Kristy Johnson
7. Kristen Swanson
8. Megan Evans
9. Kim Peppi
10. Becky Wolfe
11. Jennifer Larson
12. Kim Shean
13. Susie Sullivan
14. Garnet Kim

15. Cathy Bachman
16. Kristin Lundeen
17. Kristen Griswold
18. Mary Turner
19. Kathy Robinson
20. Gretchen Graham
21. Gal Johansson
22. Judy Killpack
23. Jamie Culhane
24. Leslie Simmen
25. Kristy Miller
26. Janiene Peiranos

Men's All-Stars

1. Karl Slatum
2. Darren Ranck
3. John Aguirre
4. Craig Aguer
5. Tony Geivet
6. T. J. Bauer
7. John Gannfors
8. Steve Delaveaga
9. Chuy Gonzales

10. Mark Howe
11. Gary Davis
12. Rob Marti
13. Tom Tisdale
14. Chris Dragula
15. Mike Houston
16. Darin Erickson
17. John Kucala
18. Mark Wiebe
19. Mark Gamble
20. Scott Francis
21. Kevin Warden
22. James Faulk
23. Nils Slatum
24. Joel Kilian
25. Rob Kane
26. Mo Khan
27. Mike Schufer
28. Mike Hallisey
29. Mike Miller
30. Victor Williams
31. Matt Tisdale
32. Gene McGary
33. Tracy Rothe

What am I going to do Friday Night?!

October 31 7-9 p.m.
Preus Brandt $1.00

Geel! That's Halloween!

The Fresh Alternative
SUBWAY
Sandwiches & Salads

The Alter
Class Special

$1.00 OFF
Get One Dollar off any Meat Footlong or Meat Salad
Not Valid With Any Other Offer.
Expires 11/5/86

COUPON

805 313-3939

SALE